U. S. CHARGES RUSSIA RUNS COMMUNIST PARTY

Registration Under Control Law Is Asked

Justice Dept. Files Petition With Board

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Justice Department today formally charged the Communist Party of the United States with being run by the government of Soviet Russia.

The department made the accusation in filing a petition with the new subversive activities control board, asking that the party be ordered to register with the department, disclose its financing and list all of its members in this country.

This is the first such action under the new subversives control law, which requires registration of all Communists and Communists front organizations.

The 4,800-word petition, signed by Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, was filed with the board a few minutes after 6 p. m. EST.

Party Seen Fighting Action

At the same time the department served copies of the petition by air mail, on the party's headquarters in New York City at 35 East 12th Street. The service was marked for the attention of William Z. Foster, party chairman, and Gus Hall, described by the department as "a high party functionary."

Since the party has refused to take advantage of the opportunity to register voluntarily under the 1950 internal security law, it has been freely forecast that it will fight the action before the control board. Some officials have estimated that the forced registration proceeding, counting possible court appeal, may take two years.

The McGrath petition said that the party "has been and is substantially dominated and controlled by the government and Communist Party of the Soviet Union," and has taken its orders from the Russian government and the Communist International headquarters in Moscow.

"Action" Group, U. S. Says

A board order for registration, in the case of a Communist "action" group such as the party is alleged by the Justice Department to be, requires a showing at public hearings that the organization is dominated by a foreign power.

Only an "action" group must list its membership in registering. A "front" organization must report its officers and its financial dealings.

To suport his charge that the Soviet Union runs the Communist movement in the United States, McGrath traced the history of the U. S. party to show its close adherence to the world Communist Party line.

Rifle On Jeep Is New Tank Killer

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Nov. 22 (AP) — The Army has a new jeep-mounted recoilless rifle capable of knocking out the biggest known foreign tank, it was announced here today by Secretary of the Army Frank Pace.

The new weapon was unveiled during an all-day demonstration of American combat weapons at this Army testing ground.

"Today I have witnessed a firing demonstration of a new, 105 MM recoilless rifle mounted on a jeep," Pace said in his formal announcement.

"This new weapon when in full production will, along with the 3.5 bazooka, provide the front line combat soldier with the ability to knock out the most potent enemy tank known today."

Government Spy Conspiracy Case Defendants Guilty

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—Abraham Brothman and Miriam Moskowitz tonight were found guilty of conspiracy in a spy case.

The case went to a federal court jury at 3:38 p. m. (EST) today and the verdict was returned after nearly four hours of deliberation.

The defendants are accused of conspiring to cover up Brothman's dealings with Soviet Atom Spy Harry Gold by lying about the relationship to a grand jury.

Conviction carries a maximum penalty for Brothman of seven years in prison and a $15,000 fine; for Miss Moskowitz two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

B-36 Crashes; 2 Of Parachuting Crewmen Killed

Hope Abandoned For 21 On Missing DC-3

FORT WORTH, Nov. 22 (AP) — A crippled B-36 bomber fighting its way homeward on three engines crashed in a field 25 miles south of here today. Two of the 16-man crew were killed parachuting from the plane, the world's largest land-based bomber.

Most of the 14 other men were injured but none critically. The most serious injury was a broken leg. The parachuting airmen were scattered over a four-mile area and were not rounded up until hours after the crash.

Carswell Air Force base here, home of the long-ranging B-36 bombers and the Eighth Air Force, identified the dead as Capt. Horace C. Stewart, 33, Philadelphia, Miss., the navigator, and Capt. James H. Yeingst, 30, Mount Holly Springs, Pa., radar operator.

The Air Force said the big plane left at 5:05 a. m. today to make practice gunnery runs over Matagorda island off the Texas coast. En route south two of its six engines failed. On the homeward leg another engine went out. Heavy fog prevented any landing on coastal fields.

At 9:55 a. m. (CST) the plane thundered over the head of W. O. Doggett, who farms three miles south of the crash. "I saw objects falling from the plane," he said. "I thought they were practice bombs until I learned later they were parachuting crew members."

The wreckage burst into flames. Firemen warned spectators back from the isolated field as ammunition in the plane detonated.

21 Believed Dead In Wyoming Crash

MORAN, Wyo., Nov. 22 (AP) — Twenty-one persons are believed dead in the wreckage of a chartered plane which apparently crashed into the side of jagged Mount Moran last night.

All evidence pointed to the fact a missing twi-engine DC-3, carrying members of the New Tribes Mission, a religious organization, caused a fire spotted 1,000 feet below the crest of the mountain.

A resort owner said he believed he saw a glowing fuselage in the flames.

Aboard the missing plane were eight children, four women and nine men. Three of the men were crew members.

A ground party this morning began the slow, difficult job of ascending the rocky peak.

Allied Troops Advance Four To Five Miles

U. N. Patrols Near Red Defense Line

SEOUL, Thursday, Nov. 23 (AP) — Allied troops punched forward four to five miles and captured a road and rail center in frigid Northeast Korea Wednesday.

United Nations patrols probed nearer the Chinese and Korean Communist defense line in the northwest, meeting light opposition.

U. S. bombers and fighters rained explosive and fire bombs on Yalu river bridges connecting Manchuria and Korea and on Red battle staging areas all along the northern rim of Korea.

On the northeast front, South Korean (ROK) Capital Division spearheads advanced four to five miles on the east coast to a point about eight miles southwest of Chongjin, a big port 55 miles south of the Siberian-Korean border.

B-29s Raid Chongjin

The ROK troops drove ahead under covering fire from eight-inch guns of the U. S. cruiser St. Paul. American B-29 Superforts bombed Chongjin, where Reds were expected to make a stand.

Across a rugged snow-mantled mountain range and 50 miles southwest of Chongjin, the ROK Third Division's 22nd Regiment entered the rail and highway center of Hapsu. The third's 23rd Regiment ran into a battalion of Reds seven miles southwest of Hapsu. A spokesman for the U. S. Tenth Corps reported the Red battalion is being squeezed between the two Republican forces.

The U. S. Seventh Division on the Korean-Manchurian Yalu river frontier sent patrols west and south of the border town of Hyesanjin, 37 miles northwest of Hapsu, and reported the first opposition since it reached the Yalu Tuesday. One patrol skirmished with 40 Reds six miles west of Hyesanjin and killed 17 before the Reds pulled back. Another patrol met a small Red unit south of the city but the Communists fled after a few shots were fired.

Patrols Along Reservoir

The U. S. Seventh Marine Regiment sent patrols 10 miles north to Yudam on the west thumb of the Changjin reservoir. The patrols met no opposition. Marine patrols are operating along virtually the full length of the reservoir.

On the northwest front, the ROK Eighth Division captured Yongwon and, with other South Korean divisions, established a line running five to six miles north of Tokchon. Chinese Reds were reported digging in 11 miles to the north of the new Allied offensive line.

About 100,000 Chinese and Korean Communists were estimated in defense positions facing the Allied northwest front.

Chinese Appeal Seems Doomed

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Strong opposition from Britain, France and Russia apparently doomed today Nationalist China's appeal for a U. N. committee to investigate charges that the Soviet Union has been aiding the Chinese Communists. The United States countered that the issue could not be buried and suggested the Little Assembly study it another year.

Australia, Canada and members of the Soviet bloc group teamed with the three big powers in the U. N. Political Committee debate on Nationalist China's charges. Those countries said it would be a waste of time to deal with the problem any longer; that the evidence was in and the countries could make up their minds without further investigation.

The committee adjourned at 6:08 p. m. EST, until tomorrow without a vote. The U. N. will work a half-day schedule tomorrow because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

The committee debate dragged on all day with speakers of the Latin American and Middle East groups lining up behind a Syrian resolution which would send the charges back to the Little Assembly for more study. John Foster Dulles, U. S., delegate, insisted that the Assembly would bury the hopes of millions if it dropped the charges completely. He urged the committee to accept the Syrian proposal.

Shipment Of Steel To China Is 'Disgrace,' O'Conor Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) of a Senate investigating committee today angrily denounced federal authorities and Western European countries for permitting the shipment of steel to Red China—some of it since the outbreak of the Korean war.

"It's a disgrace," O'Conor declared.

The Maryland Senator said the steel was sent from Britain, France and Belgium to New York and then trans-shipped to Communist China.

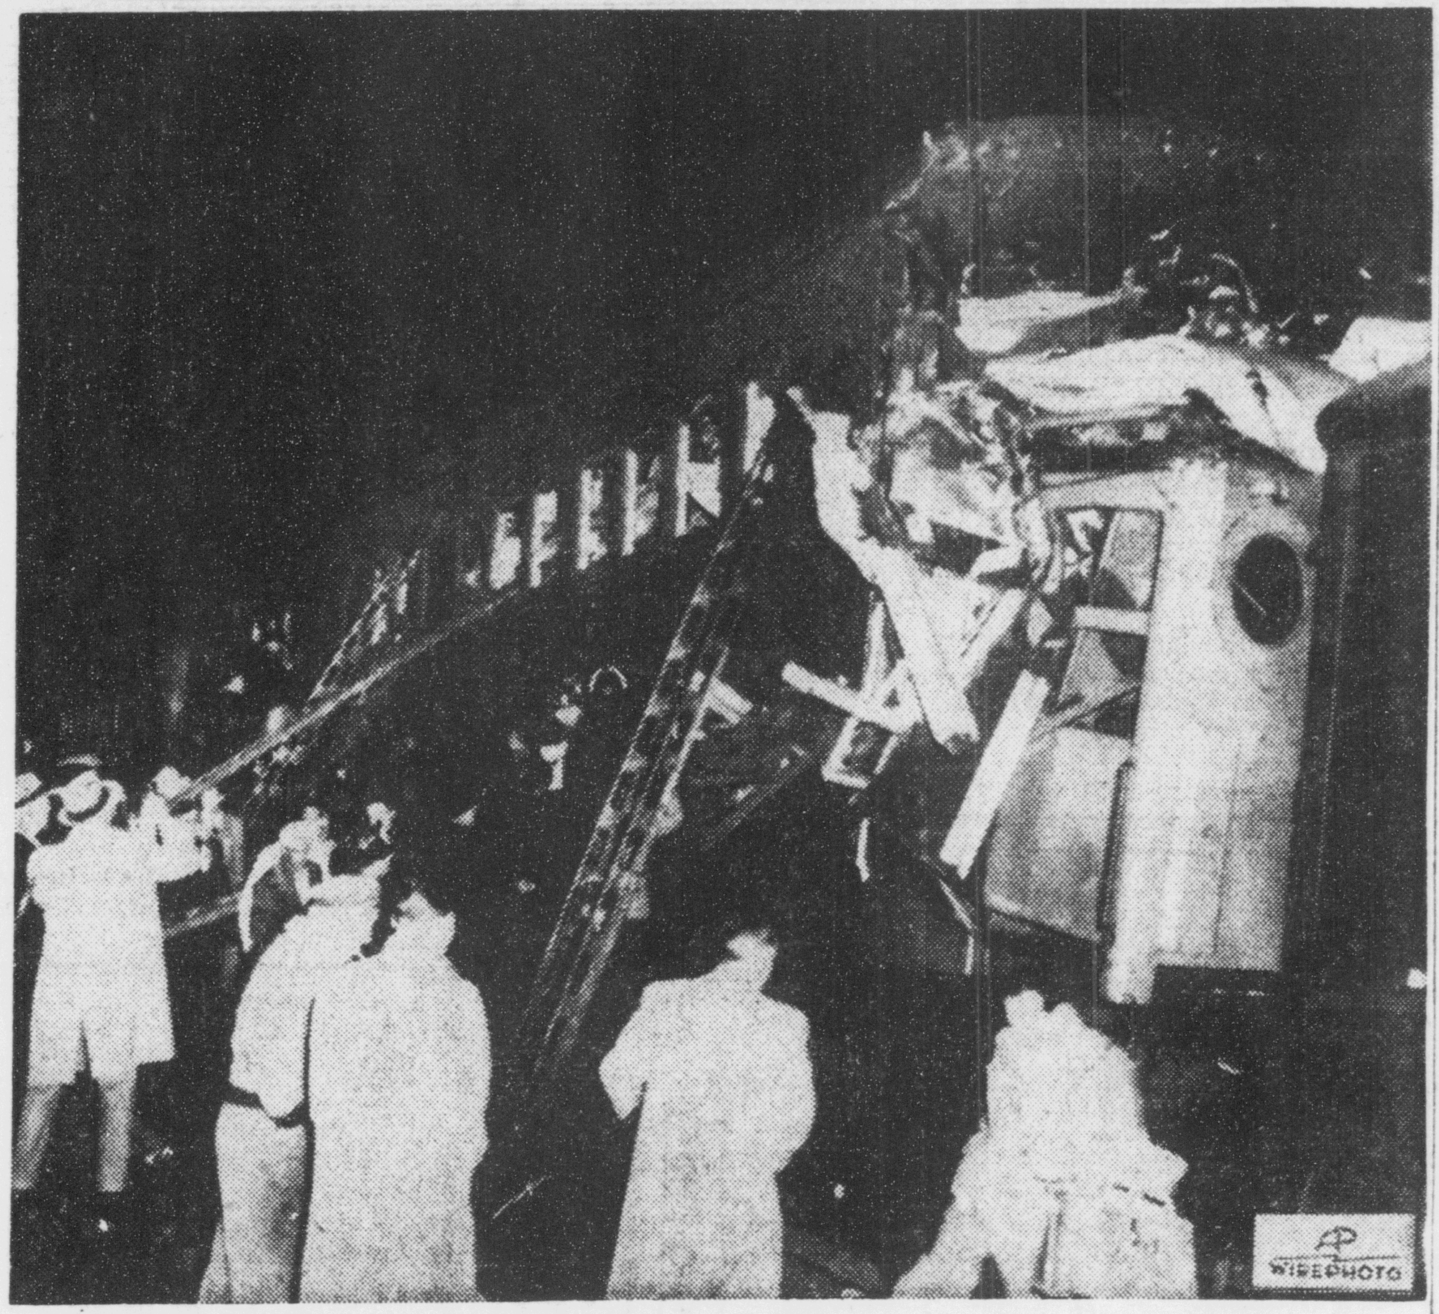
Under Senate fire, the Commerce Department announced during the day that it is considering a ban on all shipments of war potential goods en route to Red China via the United Nations.

The embargo, if put into effect, would apply to trans-shipments bound for other Soviet-dominated countries.

Present bans apply on to "war potential" goods originating in the United States.

Earlier in the day the Commerce Department had offered to "take another look" into the advisability of clamping down controls over scrap steel and other items, even if they were considered of dubious strategic value.

By mid-afternoon, the department came up with its new suggestion: To extend export controls to all ship cargoes docked here en route to Red China or other Soviet bloc countries.



Cars Telescoped In Railroad Wreck

Firemen probe through telescoped cars of two Long Island Railroad trains which crashed in the Key Gardens sections of Queens county, New York, last evening. Killed and injured were homeward bound Manhattan office workers and Thanksgiving day visitors to Long Island homes.

Hickenlooper Asks Ouster Of Acheson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper today demanded a "thorough and extensive housecleaning in the State Department," including the dismmissal of Secretary Acheson and all his policy-making subordinates.

The Iowa Republican, with a fresh six-year hold on his Senate seat and a place on the Foreign Relations Committee, talked with newspapermen a few hours after Acheson had told a news conference that his recent criticism of "re-examinists" had been widely misinterpreted.

Rickenlooper said he doesn't think he misunderstands what Acheson meant by the five-syllable word. He said it could be taken only as "a bitter recrimination against Sen. Taft" (R-Ohio) or any other senator "who would dare look into the foreign policy of this country, past, present and future."

"The utterly unrealistic policies of the administration and the State Department—as far as China, Formosa and Korea prior to the Korean war are concerned — have led us directly into the mess we are in," Hickenlooper said.

"I think there must be a thorough and extensive housecleaning in the State Department."

While Hickenlooper inveighed against Acheson and the administration for what he called a failure to consult with the minority party on foreign policies, the Secretary of State declared he had taken counsel with Republican leaders in the past and would continue to do so. He would be glad to confer with Sen. Taft, he told a questioner.

No Arms Outside Pact

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Britain announced formally today she has stopped the sale of arms outside Atlantic pact nations "unless it is in our strategic interests."

Two Puerto Rican Nationalist Party Officials Held As Brains Behind Truman Murder Plot

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—Two top officials of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party in New York were arrested today as the possible brains behind a recent plot to assassinate President Truman.

Two nationalist gunmen stormed Blair House in Washington Nov. 1 but were cut down by guards' bullets before they could get to the President. One gunman and one guard died in the duel.

The Nationalists are a radical Puerto Rican group who demand full independence from the U. S. They recently sparked an armed uprising on the island.

More Arrests May Follow

Arrested today were Julio Pinto Gandia, 42, a veteran terrorist and New York president of the Nationalist Party, and Juan Bernardo Lebron, 28, a past president of the New York unit of the party.

More arrests may be in the offing, it was reported.

Already in custody are the wives of the two would-be assassins, Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola. Collazo is awaiting trial in Washington for the assassination attempt. Torresola was slain by Blair House guards.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Frederick H. Block said a grand jury has evidence of "the possible existence of an organized plot to assassinate the President of the United States Nov. 1, with Griselio Torresola and Oscar Collazo, gunmen, having been guided in their mission by Gandia and Lebron, and the gunmen's wives."

Held In $50,000 Bonds

Gandia and Lebron were charged with conspiring with the two wives —Mrs. Rosa Collazo, 42, and Mrs. Carmen Torresola, 22—against the safety of the President.

Both men were held in bonds of $50,000 each for a hearing Dec. 6.

Lebron, stocky, swarthy and mustached, stared steadily ahead during the arraignment, his hands folded before him. Gandia, thin-faced and also wearing a mustache, kept his hands in his pockets.

Price Supports For Eggs To End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced today that its producer price support program for eggs will be discontinued Dec. 31.

Continued over-production, involving heavy government buying of eggs for which it has no market, was given as the major reason for discontinuance.

Thus eggs in 1951 will be unsupported for the first time since 1942.

The department said, however, that it might buy a limited quantity of shell eggs in local areas in periods of low prices if immediate non-commercial outlets were available for their disposal.

No Agreement Reached On Korea Buffer Zone

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Top administration officials were reported receptive today to any "reasonable" proposal the Chinese Communists might make for a demilitarized buffer zone between North Korea and Manchuria.

Secretary of State Acheson told his news conference the idea of such a zone has been under discussion with friendly foreign governments and among officials here but so far no agreement has been reached.

Americans At Home, On Battlefronts Prepare To Observe Thanksgiving

[By The Associated Press]

Americans pause today in a world of turmoil and uncertainty to thank God for their blessings and to pray for peace.

The peace prayers were requested by President Truman, who in his Thanksgiving proclamation entreated his fellow countrymen to offer petitions for peace "in church, chapel and synagogue, in their homes and in the busy walks of life, every day and everywhere."

Thanksgiving day finds many Americans far from their homes in uniform — fighting aggression in Korea, stationed at far flung outposts from the equator to the Arctic, or training against any grim future eventuality.

Despite the overtones of anxiety, the nation found time in general for a merry family festival centered around the home. The traditional turkey and cranberry sauce was no monopoly of the home folks: The armed services planned to serve mouth-watering dinners to the troops, even those within a few thousand yards of the front lines.

A 35-pound tom turkey headed the menu at Blair House, temporary home of the Truman family. The President had no announced plans other than a quiet holiday.

Millions of Americans had crowded trains, planes and highways in the pre-holiday rush to get back home for the feasting. Big football games were on tap in the afternoon for sports fans.

The weather over most of the nation had a wintry touch, with a cold wave moving in on the mountain and plains states, and snow or rain forecast for much of the north central United States.

U. S. Drug Is Flown To Austria For Girl

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 22 (AP)—A new American drug unavailable in Austria was rushed here by plane from Washington to save a little Austrian girl's life.

Christa Hoelzl is in a local hospital with leukemia. Her doctor prescribed a-methoperin. When it could not be found here, the American-sponsored radio network sent a call for help to the Voice of America in Washington.

Robert Bauer, commentator, secured the drug from the Walter Reed hospital in Washington. It was flown to the U. S. air base outside Vienna and rushed to the hospital.

No Paper Tomorrow

Railroad Wreck Is "Bloody Mess," Physician Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — "It's a bloody, bloody mess," said the physician in charge of Queen's General hospital's disaster unit as victims of the Long Island railroad wreck were being brought in tonight.

"Most of the people being brought in here are terribly cut-up and mangled," said Dr. Jack Ruthberg.

"War wouldn't be any worse. The poor people being brought in here are in terrible shape — mostly fractures and bad contusions."

Dr. Ruthberg said it was the first test of Queen's county's new civil defense setup:

"We've been rehearsing for weeks for just such a thing as this, and the machinery is working wonderfully," he said.

He said 100 visiting physicians had been called in for emergency work, together with scores of technicians.

Explosive Planted In Car Detonates

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP)—A bomb exploding in an auto killed a convicted member of the Green Dragon narcotic ring today. The same bomb injured his wife and unborn child.

About two hours later another automobile wired with a full quart jar of explosive was found at a residence three miles south of Fort Worth.

Nelson Harris, 41, was almost decapitated as nitroglycerine planted in his car detonated. Flying metal perforated his 25-year-old wife. Both she and the unborn baby, whose birth was expected in about a week, died shortly afterward.

The discovery of the wired second automobile came when Leroy Tincy Eggleston said he found his car hood partially opened and his suspicions were aroused. Air Force demolition experts removed the explosive and detonated it.

Harris was one of 21 persons convicted here in 1940 as members of the Green Dragon narcotic smuggling and peddling ring, operating from New York, Chicago and southwest headquarters. The ring got its name from a green dragon stamped on top of small boxes, resembling match boxes, in which narcotics were delivered.

Almost exactly a year ago — on Nov. 29, 1949 — a similar car bomb exploded in Dallas, killing the pretty wife of Dallas Gambler Herbert Noble. Police said that bomb was intended for Noble, who has survived several attempts on his life.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram quoted local gamblers as saying the two bombings were indirectly connected — that Harris had been using Noble's money to buck crap games here. One gambler said "somebody got tired of it."

Stranger Found In Bathtub Winds Up In Hoosegow

ELIZABETH, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP)—The frantic voice of a woman came in over the police telephone: "There's a strange man in my bathtub."

Two radio patrolmen hurried yesterday to the house and found Walter Sweeney singing happily in the bathtub.

Sweeney, 44, and homeless, said he had no idea how he got there. He was jailed overnight on a disorderly conduct charge and released this morning.

"I must have been drinking," he told police.

100 Seriously Hurt As Train Rams Another

Crowded Coaches Are Telescoped

NEW YORK, Nov 22 (AP)—A Long Island passenger train, jammed with Thanksgiving eve commuters, crashed into the rear of another tonight and police said at least 50 persons were killed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—A Long Island passenger train, jammed with Thanksgiving eve commuters, crashed into the rear of another tonight. Authorities said 25 to 50 persons were killed.

About 100 passengers were seriously injured and scores of others shaken, cut and bruised by flying glass or jagged, twisted metal.

Dr. Randy Wyman, a director of the municipal hospital system, alerted hospitals to "be prepared to receive 50 bodies." Police earlier had estimated the dead at from 25 to 50.

Queens General hospital reported 15 known dead.

It was the second major Long Island railroad disaster in nine months — 31 persons died Feb. 17 in a Rockville Centre crash.

The motorman of the first train said his brakes locked as he slowed his train at about 6:30 o'clock (EST). A second train, roaring in from behind knifed into the standing train.

The front and end cars that took the shock of the impact were telescoped or sliced apart "like a loaf of bread."

From all over the great New York City area poured rescue workers with power saws, jacks and acetylene torches to try and cut the trapped victims from the ghastly mess.

Lights Pick Out Victims

Said Howard Austin, conductor of the second train:

"Both of the telescoped cars were jammed with passengers and I don't see how any of them could have escaped alive."

The crash scene is 13 miles from Times Square, in the Kew Gardens section of Queens borough. It is on the Long Island's main line from Pennsylvania Station to the island.

CIO Fights Over Utilities Stand

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—A dispute over the CIO's stand on government operation of utilities touched off the first floor fight of the three-day-old CIO convention late today.

That hot argument developed shortly after one CIO leader accused the Democratic party of running "political hacks" in the recent election, and the delegates voted to extend, not curtail, activities of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

They decided the PAC should "redouble" efforts to elect labor-backed candidates.

All top officers of the CIO utility workers protested that a resolution on "principles of the Tennessee Valley Authority" would put the CIO on record as favoring nationalization of public utilities.

Other CIO leaders, headed by President Philip Murray, said that was not the intent at all. The dispute was settled and the resolution was adopted with only scattered opposition after Murray "clarified" the proposal.

Virginia Decides Old Bonds Found In Attic Worthless

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 22 (AP) — Mrs. Bonne Walker may as well put the two old Virginia revenue bonds back in the attic where she found them. The State of Virginia decreed today they aren't worth anything.

The 76-year-old Vinton, Va., woman had figured they were worth about a quarter million dollars, including compound interest over a 90-year period.

State Treasurer Jesse W. Dillon made the pronouncement after close scrutiny of one of the tattered old debentures — which listed a maturity value of $1,000.

"Sorry," said Dillon, "we can't pay off on bonds like this one."

The question was whether the bonds had been issued in 1861 or 1864. If issued on the earlier date Virginia would be inclined to regard them as an obligation to be honored.

If issued in the latter year, after secession, redemption of a bond aiding the confederate cause would be prohibited by both the federal and state constitutions.

"It is apparent that no coupons have been clipped from this bond and that the first coupon was due July 1, 1864," Dillon said. "Because of the number of these coupons and their maturity dates, it is obvious that the bond was issued on January 1, 1864."

Patrols Along Reservoir

The U. S. Seventh Marine Regiment sent patrols 10 miles north to Yudam on the west thumb of the Changjin reservoir. The patrols met no opposition. Marine patrols are operating along virtually the full length of the reservoir.

On the northwest front, the ROK Eighth Division captured Yongwon and, with other South Korean divisions, established a line running five to six miles north of Tokchon. Chinese Reds were reported digging in 11 miles to the north of the new Allied offensive line.

About 100,000 Chinese and Korean Communists were estimated in defense positions facing the Allied northwest front.

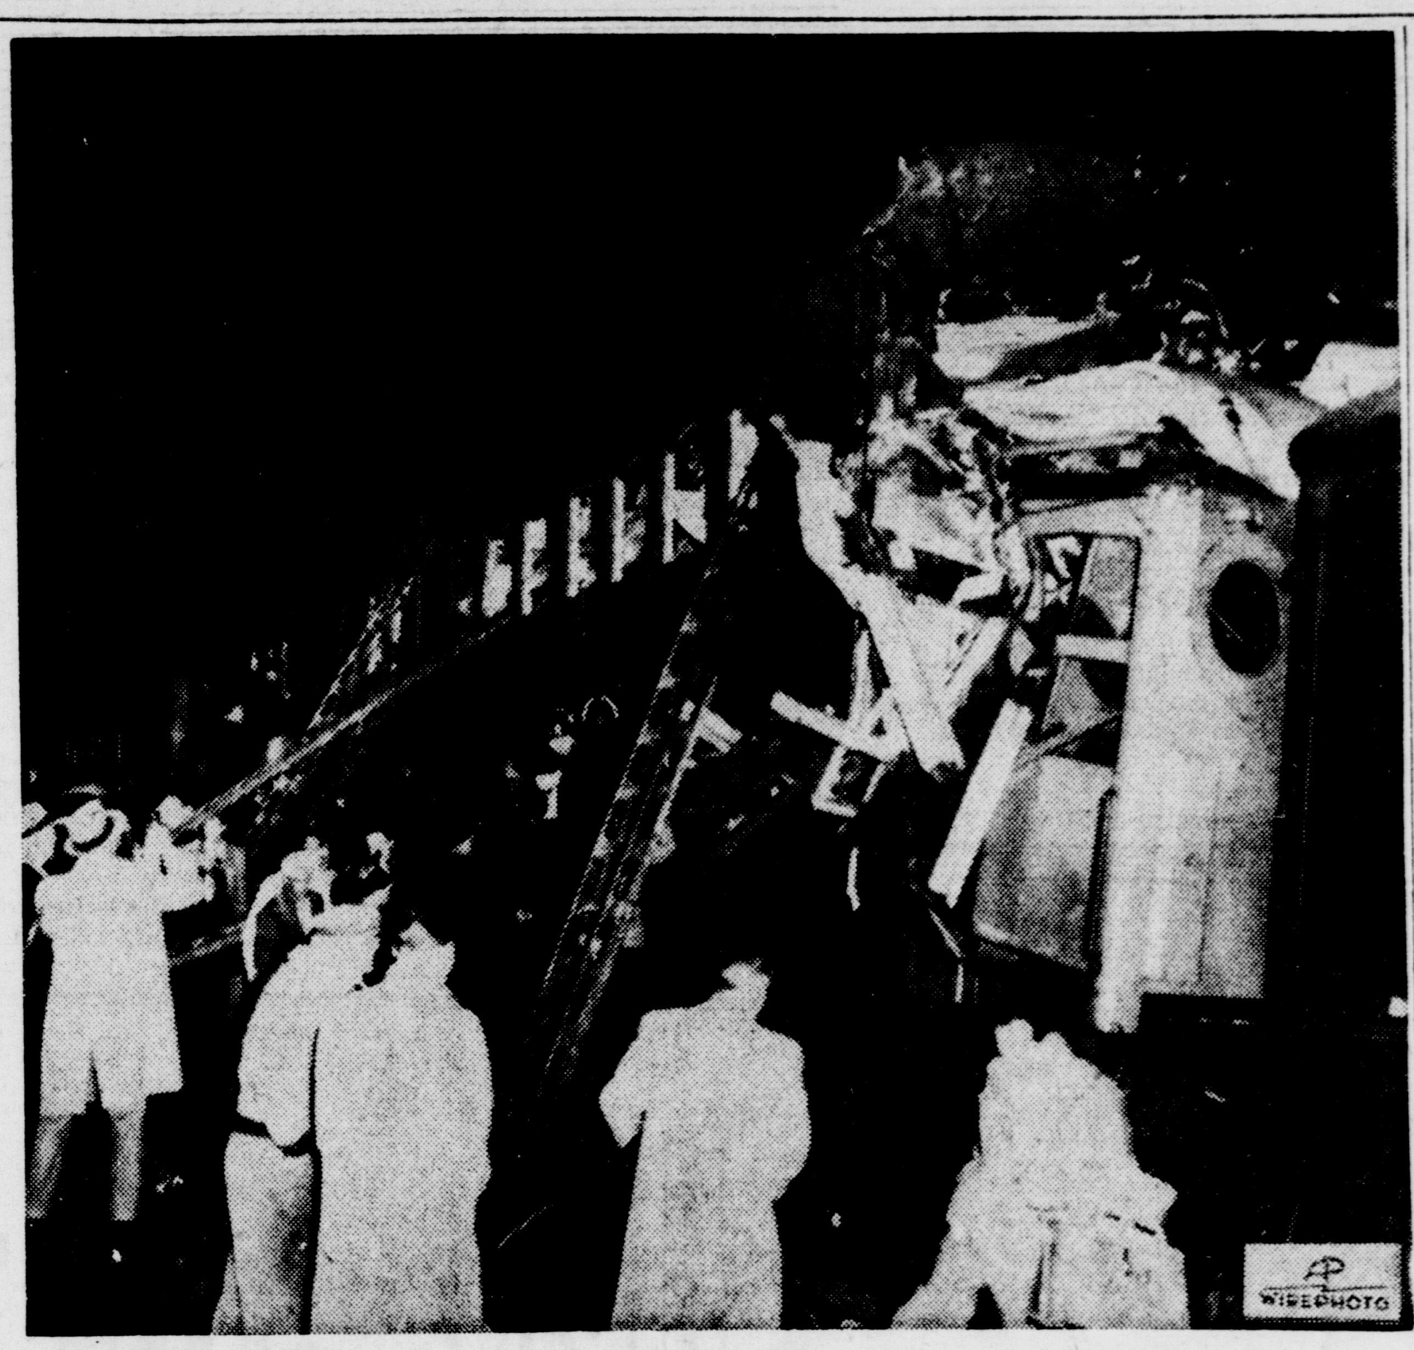
Chinese Appeal Seems Doomed

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Strong opposition from Britain, France and Russia apparently doomed today Nationalist China's appeal for a U. N. committee to investigate charges that the Soviet Union has been aiding the Chinese Communists. The United States countered that the issue could not be buried and suggested the Little Assembly study it another year.

Australia, Canada and members of the Soviet bloc group teamed with the three big powers in the U. N. Political Committee debate on Nationalist China's charges. Those countries said it would be a waste of time to deal with the problem any longer; that the evidence was in and the countries could make up their minds without further investigation.

The committee adjourned at 6:08 p. m. EST, until tomorrow without a vote. The U. N. will work a half-day schedule tomorrow because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

The committee debate dragged on all day with speakers of the Latin American and Middle East groups lining up behind a Syrian resolution which would send the charges back to the Little Assembly for more study. John Foster Dulles, U. S., delegate, insisted that the Assembly would bury the hopes of millions if it dropped the charges completely. He urged the committee to accept the Syrian proposal.



Cars Telescoped In Railroad Wreck

Firemen probe through telescoped cars of two Long Island Railroad trains which crashed in the Key Gardens sections of Queens county, New York, last evening. Killed and injured were homeward bound Manhattan office workers and Thanksgiving day visitors to Long Island homes.

Hickenlooper Asks Ouster Of Acheson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper today demanded a "thorough and extensive housecleaning in the State Department," including the dismmissal of Secretary Acheson and all his policy-making subordinates.

The Iowa Republican, with a fresh six-year hold on his Senate seat and a place on the Foreign Relations Committee, talked with newspapermen a few hours after Acheson had told a news conference that his recent criticism of "re-examinists" had been widely misinterpreted.

Rickenlooper said he doesn't think he misunderstands what Acheson meant by the five-syllable word. He said it could be taken only as "a bitter recrimination against Sen. Taft" (R-Ohio) or any other senator "who would dare look into the foreign policy of this country, past, present and future."

"The utterly unrealistic policies of the administration and the State Department—as far as China, Formosa and Korea prior to the Korean war are concerned — have led us directly into the mess we are in," Hickenlooper said.

"I think there must be a thorough and extensive housecleaning in the State Department."

While Hickenlooper inveighed against Acheson and the administration for what he called a failure to consult with the minority party on foreign policies, the Secretary of State declared he had taken counsel with Republican leaders in the past and would continue to do so. He would be glad to confer with Sen. Taft, he told a questioner.

No Arms Outside Pact

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Britain announced formally today she has stopped the sale of arms outside Atlantic pact nations "unless it is in our strategic interests."

Two Puerto Rican Nationalist Party Officials Held As Brains Behind Truman Murder Plot

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—Two top officials of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party in New York were arrested today as the possible brains behind a recent plot to assassinate President Truman.

Two nationalist gunmen stormed Blair House in Washington Nov. 1 but were cut down by guards' bullets before they could get to the President. One gunman and one guard died in the duel.

The Nationalists are a radical Puerto Rican group who demand full independence from the U. S. They recently sparked an armed uprising on the island.

More Arrests May Follow

Arrested today were Julio Pinto Gandia, 42, a veteran terrorist and New York president of the Nationalist Party, and Juan Bernardo Lebron, 28, a past president of the New York unit of the party.

More arrests may be in the offing, it was reported.

Already in custody are the wives of the two would-be assassins, Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola. Collazo is awaiting trial in Washington for the assassination attempt. Torresola was slain by Blair House guards.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Frederick H. Block said a grand jury has evidence of "the possible existence of an organized plot to assassinate the President of the United States Nov. 1, with Griselio Torresola and Oscar Collazo, gunmen, having been guided in their mission by Gandia and Lebron, and the gunmen's wives."

Held In $50,000 Bonds

Gandia and Lebron were charged with conspiring with the two wives —Mrs. Rosa Collazo, 42, and Mrs. Carmen Torresola, 22—against the safety of the President.

Both men were held in bonds of $50,000 each for a hearing Dec. 6.

Lebron, stocky, swarthy and mustached, stared steadily ahead during the arraignment, his hands folded before him. Gandia, thin-faced and also wearing a mustache, kept his hands in his pockets.

Price Supports For Eggs To End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced today that its producer price support program for eggs will be discontinued Dec. 31.

Continued over-production, involving heavy government buying of eggs for which it has no market, was given as the major reason for discontinuance.

Thus eggs in 1951 will be unsupported for the first time since 1942.

The department said, however, that it might buy a limited quantity of shell eggs in local areas in periods of low prices if immediate non-commercial outlets were available for their disposal.

No Agreement Reached On Korea Buffer Zone

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Top administration officials were reported receptive today to any "reasonable" proposal the Chinese Communists might make for a demilitarized buffer zone between North Korea and Manchuria.

Secretary of State Acheson told his news conference the idea of such a zone has been under discussion with friendly foreign governments and among officials here but so far no agreement has been reached.

Americans At Home, On Battlefronts Prepare To Observe Thanksgiving

[By The Associated Press]

Americans pause today in a world of turmoil and uncertainty to thank God for their blessings and to pray for peace.

The peace prayers were requested by President Truman, who in his Thanksgiving proclamation entreated his fellow countrymen to offer petitions for peace "in church, chapel and synagogue, in their homes and in the busy walks of life, every day and everywhere."

Thanksgiving day finds many Americans far from their homes in uniform — fighting aggression in Korea, stationed at far flung outposts from the equator to the Arctic, or training against any grim future eventuality.

Despite the overtones of anxiety, the nation found time in general for a merry family festival centered around the home. The traditional turkey and cranberry sauce was no monopoly of the home folks: The armed services planned to serve mouth-watering dinners to the troops, even those within a few thousand yards of the front lines.

A 35-pound tom turkey headed the menu at Blair House, temporary home of the Truman family. The President had no announced plans other than a quiet holiday.

Millions of Americans had crowded trains, planes and highways in the pre-holiday rush to get back home for the feasting. Big football games were on tap in the afternoon for sports fans.

The weather over most of the nation had a wintry touch, with a cold wave moving in on the mountain and plains states, and snow or rain forecast for much of the north central United States.

U. S. Drug Is Flown To Austria For Girl

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 22 (AP)—A new American drug unavailable in Austria was rushed here by plane from Washington to save a little Austrian girl's life.

Christa Hoelzl is in a local hospital with leukemia. Her doctor prescribed a-methoperin. When it could not be found here, the American-sponsored radio network sent a call for help to the Voice of America in Washington.

Robert Bauer, commentator, secured the drug from the Walter Reed hospital in Washington. It was flown to the U. S. air base outside Vienna and rushed to the hospital.

The Cumberland News will not be published tomorrow due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Railroad Wreck Is "Bloody Mess," Physician Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — "It's a bloody, bloody mess," said the physician in charge of Queen's General hospital's disaster unit as victims of the Long Island railroad wreck were being brought in tonight.

"Most of the people being brought in here are terribly cut-up and mangled," said Dr. Jack Ruthberg.

"War wouldn't be any worse. The poor people being brought in here are in terrible shape — mostly fractures and bad contusions."

Dr. Ruthberg said it was the first test of Queen's county's new civil defense setup:

"We've been rehearsing for weeks for just such a thing as this, and the machinery is working wonderfully," he said.

He said 100 visiting physicians had been called in for emergency work, together with scores of technicians.

Explosive Planted In Car Detonates

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP) —A bomb exploding in an auto killed a convicted member of the Green Dragon narcotic ring today. The same bomb injured his wife and unborn child.

About two hours later another automobile wired with a full quart jar of explosive was found at a residence three miles south of Fort Worth.

Nelson Harris, 41, was almost decapitated as nitroglycerine planted in his car detonated. Flying metal perforated his 25-year-old wife. Both she and the unborn baby, whose birth was expected in about a week, died shortly afterward.

The discovery of the wired second automobile came when Leroy Tincy Eggleston said he found his car hood partially opened and his suspicions were aroused. Air Force demolition experts removed the explosive and detonated it.

Harris was one of 21 persons convicted here in 1940 as members of the Green Dragon narcotic smuggling and peddling ring, operating from New York, Chicago and southwest headquarters. The ring got its name from a green dragon stamped on top of small boxes, resembling match boxes, in which narcotics were delivered.

Almost exactly a year ago — on Nov. 29, 1949 — a similar car bomb exploded in Dallas, killing the pretty wife of Dallas Gambler Herbert Noble. Police said that bomb was intended for Noble, who has survived several attempts on his life.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram quoted local gamblers as saying the two bombings were indirectly connected — that Harris had been using Noble's money to buck crap games here. One gambler said "somebody got tired of it."

Stranger Found In Bathtub Winds Up In Hoosegow

ELIZABETH, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP)—The frantic voice of a woman came in over the police telephone: "There's a strange man in my bathtub."

Two radio patrolmen hurried yesterday to the house and found Walter Sweeney singing happily in the bathtub.

Sweeney, 44, and homeless, said he had no idea how he got there He was jailed overnight on a disorderly conduct charge and released this morning.

"I must have been drinking," he told police.

Crowded Coaches Are Telescoped

NEW YORK, Nov 22 (AP)—A Long Island passenger train, jammed with Thanksgiving eve commuters, crashed into the rear of another tonight and police said at least 50 persons were killed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) —A Long Island passenger train, jammed with Thanksgiving eve commuters, crashed into the rear of another tonight. Authorities said 25 to 50 persons were killed.

About 100 passengers were seriously injured and scores of others shaken, cut and bruised by flying glass or jagged, twisted metal.

Dr. Randy Wyman, a director of the municipal hospital system, alerted hospitals to "be prepared to receive 50 bodies." Police earlier had estimated the dead at from 25 to 50.

Queens General hospital reported 15 known dead.

It was the second major Long Island railroad disaster in nine months — 31 persons died Feb. 17 in a Rockville Centre crash.

The motorman of the first train said his brakes locked as he slowed his train at about 6:30 o'clock (EST). A second train, roaring in from behind knifed into the standing train.

The front and end cars that took the shock of the impact were telescoped or sliced apart "like a loaf of bread."

Lights Pick Out Victims

Searchlights picked out the still figures of passengers inside the cars, their heads lolling in death like pale rag dolls.

Said Howard Austin, conductor of the second train:

"Both of the telescoped cars were jammed with passengers and I don't see how any of them could have escaped alive."

The crash scene is 13 miles from Times Square, in the Kew Gardens section of Queens borough. It is on the Long Island's main line from Pennsylvania Station to the island.

CIO Fights Over Utilities Stand

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—A dispute over the CIO's stand on government operation of utilities touched off the first floor fight of the three-day-old CIO convention late today.

That hot argument developed shortly after one CIO leader accused the Democratic party of running "political hacks" in the recent election, and the delegates voted to extend, not curtail, activities of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

They decided the PAC should "redouble" efforts to elect labor-backed candidates.

All top officers of the CIO utility workers protested that a resolution on "principles of the Tennessee Valley Authority" would put the CIO on record as favoring nationalization of public utilities.

Other CIO leaders, headed by President Philip Murray, said that was not the intent at all. The dispute was settled and the resolution was adopted with only scattered opposition after Murray "clarified" the proposal.

Virginia Decides Old Bonds Found In Attic Worthless

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 22 (AP) — Mrs. Bonne Walker may as well put the two old Virginia revenue bonds back in the attic where she found them. The State of Virginia decreed today they aren't worth anything.

The 76-year-old Vinton, Va., woman had figured they were worth about a quarter million dollars, including compound interest over a 90-year period.

State Treasurer Jesse W. Dillon made the pronouncement after close scrutiny of one of the tattered old debentures — which listed a maturity value of $1,000.

"Sorry," said Dillon, "we can't pay off on bonds like this one."

The question was whether the bonds had been issued in 1861 or 1864. If issued on the earlier date Virginia would be inclined to regard them as an obligation to be honored.

If issued in the latter year, after secession, redemption of a bond aiding the confederate cause would be prohibited by both the federal and state constitutions.

"It is apparent that no coupons have been clipped from this bond and that the first coupon was due July 1, 1864," Dillon said. "Because of the number of these coupons and their maturity dates, it is obvious that the bond was issued on January 1, 1864."

TV 'Child Appeal' Ads Are Probed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today opened an inquiry into what it called a "child-appeal" advertising campaign designed to promote television set sales.

"Numerous complaints from parents and educators criticizing the ads prompted the commission to launch the investigation," an FTC statement said.

The commission acted after television manufacturers had decided to abandon in future advertisements the theme that children feel socially inferior without a television set in their home.

First step in the FTC investigation is to determine the "truth or falsity of statements and representations" appearing in recent advertisements.

Defense Conference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—District of Columbia commissioners today invited the governors of Virginia and Maryland to send legal representatives to Washington for a civilian defense conference.

They were asked to meet here Dec. 4 to discuss methods of eliminating legal bariers to a formal mutual aid compact for the metropolitan district.

AIR VIEW OF CANADIAN WRECK—Wreckage of Canadian troop and passenger trains lies along the right-of-way after a head-on collision 312 miles west of Edmonton, Alta., late Tuesday. The toll rose yesterday to 20 soldiers and trainmen dead or missing and at least 61 injured, 22 seriously. A flaw in the delivery of train orders was blamed for the crash.

Motorman William Murphy on the first train told police he slowed for a caution signal. It changed to a go-ahead, he said, but for some unexplained reason his brakes jammed and he could not release them. His train ground to a stop.

There was no explanation why the railroad's block signal did not stop the second train.

"The train stopped for a few seconds," said Anthony Tartaglia, a passenger on the first train. "Then she tried to start up. Then all hell broke loose."

The crash came with what eyewitnesses described as a roar and a flash of light. There was no fire.

The lead car of the second train burrowed under the last car of the first train.

Said Accountant Jeff Kaufman, a passenger on the Babylon train:

"I saw steel shooting through the car. It was sheared right in half — like a slice of bread."

He said there was no panic but that shrieks of the dying filled the moment of awful silence that followed the ripping, grinding crash.

Few of the cars were derailed.

As thousands of horrified onlookers gathered, the grim rescue work commenced beneath the searchlights. Women wept and cried in the semi-daylight of the lights as they sought friends or relatives in the wreckage.

Arms and legs of victims hung out through holes or rips in the cars.

Priests, ministers and rabbis moved through the tangled mass of rescue apparatus, doing what they could to ease the torture of trapped or injured passengers.

First persons on the scene took some of the injured to private homes.

Utilities Spokesmen Predict Higher Rates If Profits Tax Levied

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Spokesmen for public utilities testified today that consumers may have to bear the burden of any excess profits tax that is levied on the utilities.

Predictions of higher rates for gas, electricity, telephone and transportation service to offset any such tax were given to the House Ways and Means Committee by spokesmen for the utilities industries.

They were the final witnesses as the committee ended seven days of public hearings on the administration's request for an excess profits levy to raise $4,000,000,000 more revenue.

The committee will meet again Friday behind closed doors to start writing a bill. It hopes to have the measure ready for consideration during the short session of Congress which convenes next Monday.

How Many Ways Can We Say "Thanks"?

Merci ... Gracias ... Danke ... Tak ... Grazie ... yes, if we knew them all we could say "Thanks" in 2,796 languages.

But there are other, more important ways in which we—as Americans—can say "Thanks" for the many blessings we possess.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Freedoms by working and fighting to keep these freedoms against those who would destroy them.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Opportunities by using them not for personal gain alone, but for a better, more fruitful way of life for all.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Ingenuity by buying and using more of the products created out of the skills, the resources, the industry of our nation.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Schools by taking an active interest in the institutions that mold our children's futures.

We can say "thanks" for our American Armed Strength by remembering our soldiers individually with letters and love—and backing them collectively with U. S. Savings Bonds.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Homes by building them on the ideals of love, honor, and understanding—the ties that bind and keep a family together.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Plenty by digging into our Thanksgiving dinner.

Thanksgiving

America, in the midst of troubled times bringing distress of mind to many, today comes to a date hallowed by tradition in the realization that Thanksgiving is not merely an institution reserved for the usages of good times and happiness.

In America's span Thanksgiving has served this people in good times and bad, in weal and in woe. Culturally it is an all-inclusive day, catering to the spiritual needs of folk whatever their condition.

Thanksgiving is a time for heart searching and for personal endeavor to get in tune with the Infinite. This earth vouchsafes no regime and no order giving happiness to all.

The individual by his own efforts and in collaboration with his fellows achieves whatever approximation of content he may. That is very much a matter of facing the great climaxes as they come and surmounting them.

America and Americans are in an era of inflation against a background of uncertainty and fear. There is a vast search for security in an insecure world. In such a time people should turn as naturally to a just Providence as flowers to the sun. Thanks should be offered for the privilege of seeking the solace of an everlasting and an ever-present Power.

On Thanksgiving Day America's assignment and its great privilege is to seek by petition and entreaty, with an humble and contrite heart, the strength of faith.

Dr. Bush Is Gloomy

Dr. Vannevar Bush, atomic scientist, has already engaged in a great many predictions as to what the next war may be like. What he says does not make cheerful reading, and isn't intended to. Its purpose is to stimulate military minds and public opinion to prepare for the next war, not the last one.

Dr. Bush's latest remarks on the subject go beyond the military lessons that are being learned in Korea. In Korea U. S. ground-support aviation and the U. S. Navy have been virtually unopposed. But these are the departments in which Dr. Bush fears the Russians have this nation outclassed.

The U. S. Tactical Air Force, used in support of field armies, he considers definitely inferior to what the Russians can now put into the air. And he says it may be necessary to think about using the atom bomb as a tactical weapon, dropping it on large enemy concentrations.

Such use of the atom bomb would, in fact, seem far less unpalatable to most of the people of the world than dropping it on cities. The difficulty, as the U. S. Air Force found when it tried area bombing in Korea, may be in locating enemy concentrations suitable for such treatment.

But if it is true that the atom bomb as a strategic weapon may be a disappointment, it might be well to canvass the possibilities of using it tactically.

The defense against strategic bombing is mounting, as Dr. Bush points out. Little is known about Russia's defensive preparations—though distance alone will make delivering atom bombs there sufficiently complicated. The public knows that this country's defenses include radar, air-to-air and ground-to-air missiles, jets, and so on—on hand or on order. Russia may have gone further.

There is a possibility, too, that Russia is in position to challenge U. S. command of the seas, too, despite claims that the snorkel will be taken care of. The United States has been too complacent on this point in two wars. The first nation that succeeds—as Germany twice barely failed—in denying the seas to the free world will have a tremendous advantage.

Dr. Bush, unfortunately, is no crank. His gloomy comments make it clear that no amount of money spent for defense may be good enough unless it is directed into the right channels.

Noise Annoys

Noise can be bad for you. R. Allen Wilson, an acoustics engineer, says it slows the mind, clouds the judgment, cuts working output, and ruins the disposition. Excessive exposure to noise, he says, can make you harried, irritable, ready to blow your top. It may even drive you crazy.

This is disturbing news for parents of young children. Child psychologists tell them that normal children are rather noisy. If your child is too quiet, he is displaying a symptom which psychiatrists view with more concern than manifestations of over-aggressiveness, violence, and noise.

If we add the findings of Mr. Wilson to those of the child psychologists, here's what we get: If your child is quiet, something may be driving him crazy. If he is noisy, he may drive you crazy.

If he's noisy enough to drive you crazy, he's probably normal. But he doesn't have much chance of staying that way. Few children can stay normal for long if they live with parents who are being driven crazy.

If it's not already too late, you may feel like avoiding this dilemma by not having children. But psychiatrists say that a normal family life, complete with children, is a wholesome influence for mental health.

The moral seems to be that the more expert advice you listen to, the more confused you become. If you're a parent, actual or prospective, what you need most is a durable sense of humor.

Their Day May Come

You can't fight everybody. When a major war is on, it is unwise to add new enemies. This unpleasant truth actuated Winston Churchill, according to the latest volume of his memoirs, when in 1941 he abandoned resistance to the Russian determination to annex the Baltic states. Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia are non-Russian in population and liberty-loving, and in their days of independence were well governed. The Russians coveted their territory, and following the 1939 pact with Hitler, Russia annexed them. Churchill demurred at accepting this accomplished fact, but eventually decided that beating Hitler was more important, and that these little Baltic states would have to wait. The United States took much the same attitude: we have not yet recognized the validity of the annexation by Russia.

The German seizure of Alsace-Lorraine in 1870 and the partition of Poland by Germany, Prussia and Austria in the 1790's are examples of historic wrongs which seemed at one time as if they would never be redressed. After many years they were righted, and so, Americans will hope, will be the injustice done to Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Red Eye

WHEN AN EYE SMARTS and becomes red there is a chance that simple inflammation exists. But there are other possibilities and most of us prefer an expert opinion when the eyes are involved. After all, sight is too precious to take chances.

The severity of a red eye depends upon whether it is caused by external irritation or infection or an internal disturbance within the orbit. The latter is more serious and should be suspected when the physician discovered, for example, that one pupil is larger than the other or that the clear cornea in front of the eye lacks luster and is cloudy. This difference is most noticeable when only one is affected and the two eyes can be compared. Iritis, inflammation of the cornea, and glaucoma are the most likely origins. These are treacherous diseases and should be treated immediately.

Simple conjunctivitis is the most common cause of red eye. This represents inflammation or irritation of the white outer membrane and the inside of the lid. A tiny speck of dust, when unattended, may lead within a few hours to intense redness, tearing, and a burning sensation. The same symptoms may stem from inflammation and if the individual does not remember when the particle entered he may blame bacteria rather than dust. This only serves to prolong the agony because relief occurs rapidly after the fragment is removed. Those who believe that they are capable of removing foreign objects need a word of caution: even tho a speck cannot be seen, one still could be present. Sometimes these objects are transparent and cannot be detected.

Other conditions that produce temporary congestion are exposure to wind, smoke, bright lights, or glare. Errors of refraction or imperfectly fitted glasses and overuse of the eyes in poor illumination as well as alcoholism and misplaced lashes are additional causes. Redness sometimes accompanies gout.

• — • — •

The conjunctivia is easily burned, especially by the sun when the rays are reflected from water or snow. Chemical burns from acids or other caustics also are occurring with greater frequency. After such a mishap the eye should be irrigated immediately with large quantities of water. This is best accomplished by placing water in the cupped palm of the hand or holding the nose and ducking the face in a basin of water and opening and closing the burned eye. Meanwhile the physician should be called for followup treatment to prevent further damage of the tissues.

Bacteria and viruses find the conjunctivia a fertile field for their operations. In many types of conjunctivitis, the sulfonamides and antibiotic have been most helpful; some of the tougher varieties are now being treated with ACTH and cortisone. Allergy also must be considered as a source of congestion. Anyone who has observed the eyes of a hay fever victim knows what this condition is like. The lids itch and are read and puffy, and in many there is an overflow like Niagara falls. The number of potential allergens is large, but cosmetics, drugs, and soap head the list. Nail polish is a common offender; the chemicals reach the eyes thru direct contact with the hands.

SATURDAY: Heat applications often relieve pain.

GARLIC

M. J. writes: I have been warned never to touch garlic when I have an open wound on a finger because it might enter the blood stream and prove fatal. Is this possible?

REPLY

Poppycock! Actually, when garlic is absorbed from the stomach, it enters the blood stream. It is then eliminated through the lungs, as any one who comes within 5 feet of the offender can testify.

BLOOD VESSEL EMERGENCIES

A. H. M. writes: Is cerebral hemorrhage the same as a blood clot on the brain?

REPLY

They often produce the same symptoms but in the strict sense hemorrhage occurs when a blood vessel ruptures whereas clot obstructs the vessel.

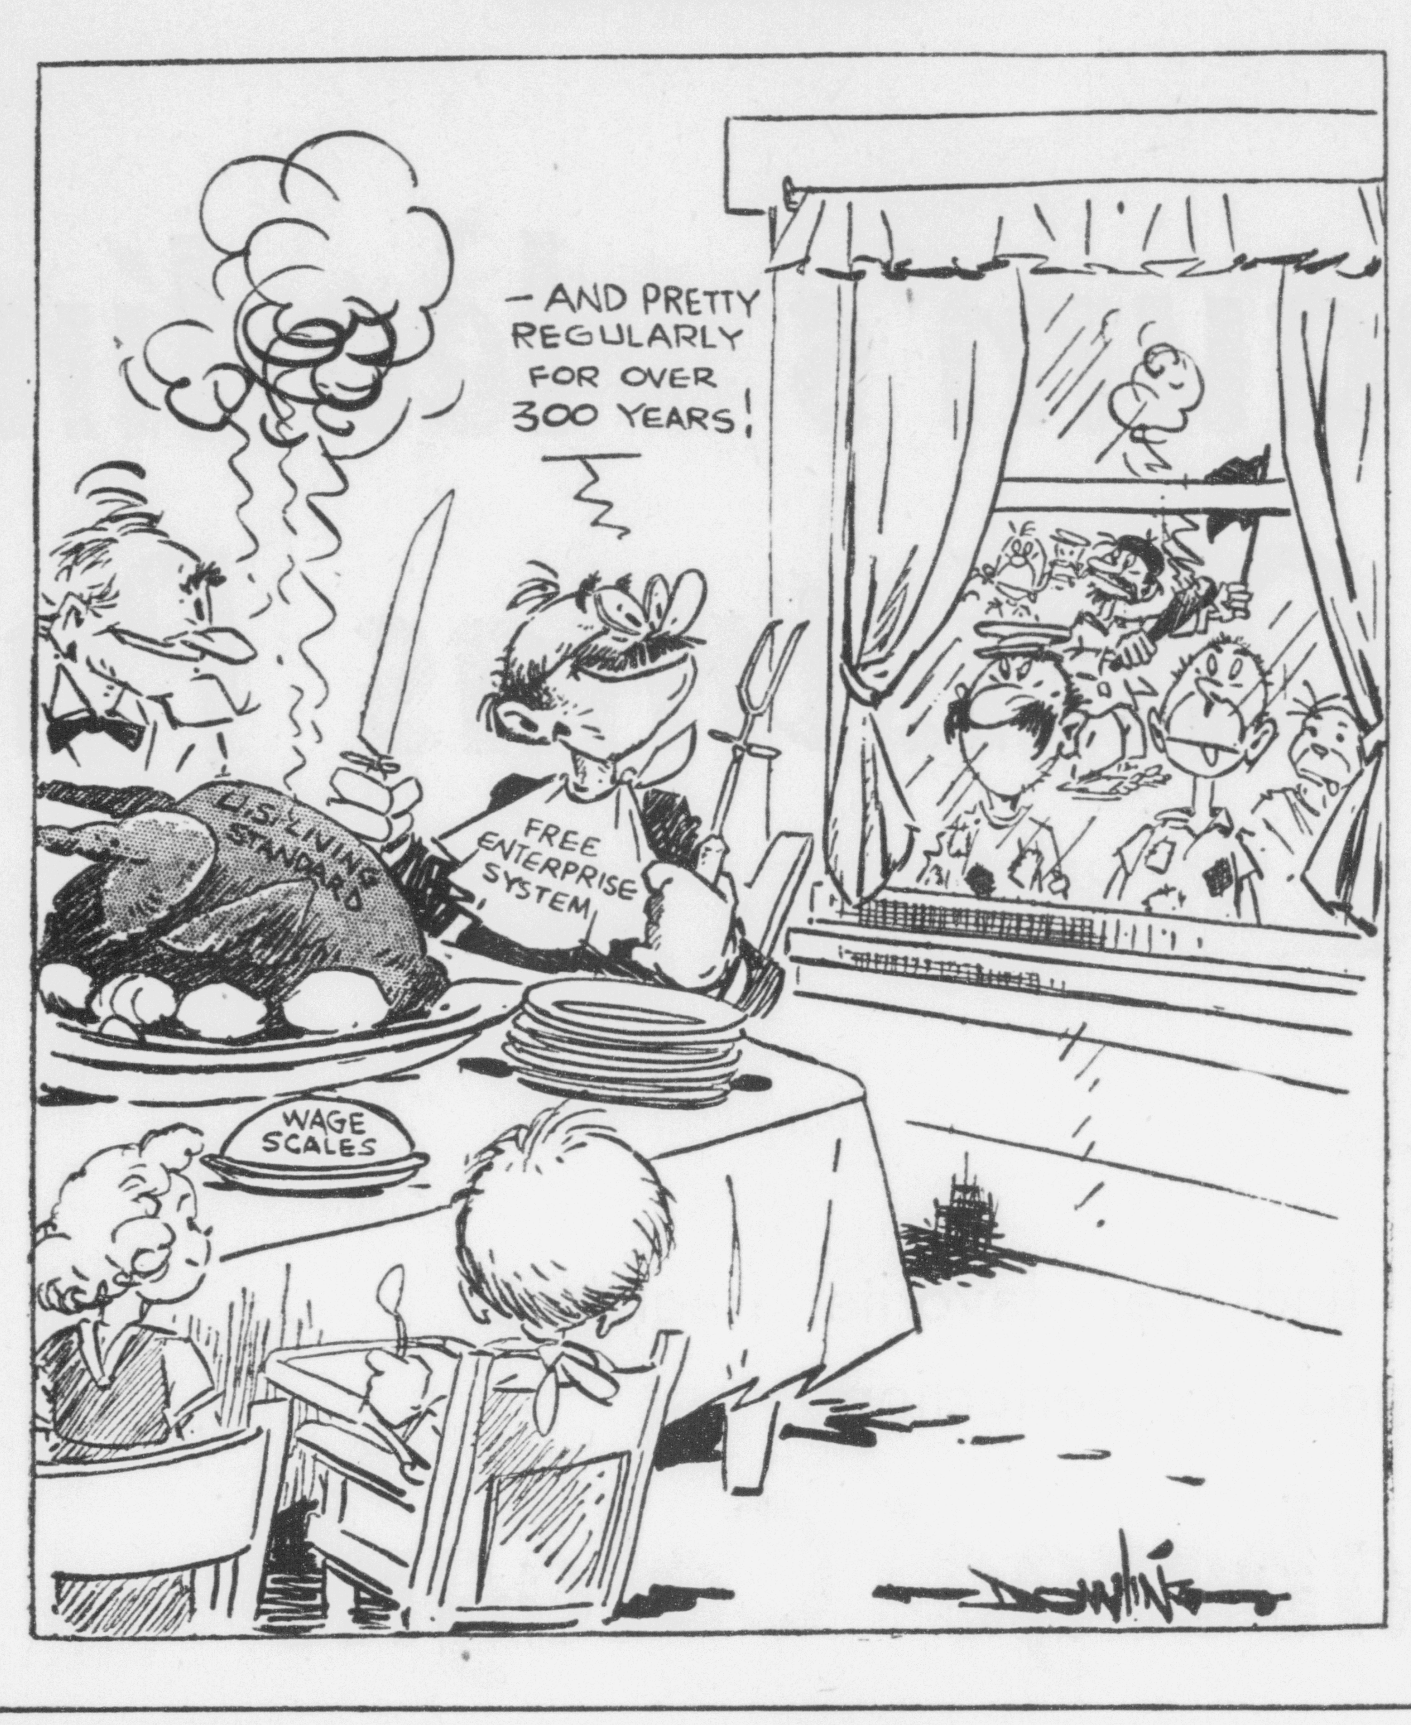
STILL EATING TURKEY



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Visit To Ellis Island Reveals Human Story Behind Anti-Subversives Law; Thanksgiving Meaningless To Those Detained Due To McCarran Act

Says DREW PEARSON

ELLIS ISLAND, N. Y.—Thanksgiving began as a day on which a group of English immigrants gave thanks for being able to weather the rigors of one year on a new continent.

Today, three centuries later, immigrants are still arriving in small numbers in this country; only on this Thanksgiving Day the latest arrivals have little to be thankful for.

For the Statue of Liberty which once welcomed new arrivals like a beacon of hope in New York's cluttered harbor, stands with its back turned, both actually and figuratively, on Ellis Island.

This austere island has been doing a brisk business since the McCarran Communist control law went into effect. And Thanksgiving Day is anything but that for those who came seeking the land of promise, but found themselves shunted behind the red brick walls and high wire fences here along with stowaways and undesirable aliens.

Immigrants come along only in a trickle now—about 1,000 a month, compared with a million or so a month in the old days. And ironically, out of the approximate 1,000 new arrivals since the McCarran Act, only a handful are suspected of being Communists. The rest are guilty of nothing more than belonging to a Hitler or Mussolini front, usually as school kids or to get ration books.

To get the human story behind the law, you have to visit Ellis Island yourself. There the detainees stand in sullen clusters, mumbling in strange languages, gazing longingly at the New York skyline.

A lady immigrant passed the time giving haircuts, a father patiently taught his youngster to say "hallo" and "okay" to the guards, a mother tugged at an official's sleeve and pleaded in broken English: "My baby, she is sick!" Others wept quietly.

A pretty, 23-year-old German war bride, her eyes afloat, clutched a tiny bouquet of flowers. Her ex-G. I. husband had given them to her at the dock, then she had been whisked off to Ellis Island.

G. I. Husband Waits

"My husband is at the dock..." she sniffled. "Only five minutes... I see him only five minutes."

Her name was Henny Jacobsen—Mrs. Fred Jacobsen, she added through the tears. She met Fred in Essen, Germany, after the war. They were married in 1948, came to America and settled down in Baltimore. She was supposed to become an American citizen in December. Then her mother suffered a stroke, and Henny sailed back to Germany this summer to be at her side.

The guards asked Henny not to cry. They even tried to locate her husband by telephone.

"We don't like this any better than you," said one, gently.

Later in the afternoon, Henny was sworn in and faced an examiner.

"I was not a nazi. I told the man on the boat I was not a nazi," she pleaded.

But it turned out that Henny had joined a girls' group in school at the age of ten. It was on the list of Hitler organizations.

Though Henny had been forced to join and had quit as soon as she left school, the law made no exceptions. So the examiner intoned that Henny Jacobsen was "excluded from entering the United States," that her citizenship could not be granted.

Temporary Stay

Then, as she sobbed quietly, he dropped his formal manner and urged her not to worry. Attorney General McGrath, he said, had mercifully decreed that immigrants who had held only "nominal" membership in totalitarian organizations could be admitted for six months. By that time, maybe Congress would change the law.

It was the same story for elderly Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Vassal, who had come to live with their daughter, Mrs. Liesselote Masia of Chicago.

"My employer (in Germany) told me that if I wanted to work for him, I must be registered for the nazi party," Mr. Vassal, a frail ex-chauffeur, told the examiner. In spite of this, he became so disgusted with the nazis that he pulled out in 1938.

"A very good friend—he had a Jewish wife—and I like them so much that I said I am not going to belong to the nazi party," Mr. Vassal shrugged. "I went to the party and I told them I don't want to be a member any more."

The Vassals, too, got six months' grace, but, under the law, they can't stay in this country.

Six-Year-Old Blackshirt

Probably the most pathetic case was Antonio De Maria and his pregnant, 22-year-old wife who had left Italy in search of economic freedom, only to be stopped at Ellis Island.

The expectant mother, her eyes wet, admitted that she had belonged to a fascist organization—at the age of six.

"While I attended school, because all students were compelled to belong to some fascist youth movement, I enrolled at the age of six as a member of Balilla," she confessed.

This small confession will send her back to Italy in six months—unless the McCarran Act is amended.

"But my child will be an American citizen," she smiled triumphantly.

Those immigrants who had been approved for six months gathered up their frayed bundles and boarded an ancient ferry for the New York mainland. As the boat pushed through the congested harbor, a handful of immigrants, left behind, pulled out white handkerchiefs and waved pathetically. They didn't stop waving until the ferry touched the other side.

But the accepted immigrants were already thronging eagerly in the bow. When the docking was completed, they burst headlong off the ferry and raced on the mainland, shouting joyfully. They had reached America.

NOTE: In six months, however, they will be sent back--unless Congress changes the law it passed during the pre-election hysteria.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

What Are They Up To?

WASHINGTON

WHAT are the Chinese really up to in Korea?

There has never been a time when those experts who are supposed to have a ready answer for this sort of question have been more obviously puzzled and uncertain. The uncertainty springs from the contradiction between what the Chinese are doing and what they are saying.

Everything the Chinese Communists are saying points clearly to the conclusion that they are ready for a war with the United States. The Chinese leaders are quoted approvingly in the Moscow press as shouting that the "American interventionists" must be driven into the sea. The whole tone of the internal Chinese propaganda is that of a nation being prepared for all-out war.

Yet the evidence of the battlefield suggests just as clearly that the Chinese are by no means anxious for total war with this country. Since the first fierce attack, the Chinese have put up little real resistance. The Chinese could only seriously hope to defeat MacArthur's forces, which enjoy a great superiority in airpower and firepower, by overwhelming manpower. Yet the estimated 60,000 or so Chinese troops in Korea, are enough only for a tentative holding action—and all the indications are that the 60,000 figure is very greatly inflated. Moreover, this Chinese force is now receiving only a thin trickle of reinforcements. Thus the contradiction between Chinese words and Chinese deeds.

Cultivated Panic

According to certain State Department officials (whose views are strongly supported by the British), both Chinese words and Chinese deeds indicate a real, and hysterical, panic in Peking, which is being sedulously cultivated by the Soviets. The Chinese Communists are utterly without past experience or present contact with the Western world, and they may actually be convinced that the fighting in Korea is a planned prelude to the invasion of China.

According to this school of thought, the best way to prevent the war from spreading—which is the universally agreed American objective—is to instruct MacArthur to hold his troops back 10 or 20 miles from the Chinese borders. The Chinese should be offered a U.N.-administered buffer zone along the borders, and there should be no threats of bombing supply lines in China proper. Since what must be avoided is a conclusive, fear-motivated Chinese reaction.

A precisely contrary view is held in the Defense Department, and clearly by Gen. MacArthur himself. This is that the way to discourage the Chinese from all-out intervention is to press on to the borders, at the same time making it clear to the Chinese that if they seriously challenge MacArthur in Korea they will have to pay the price of heavy bombing of their vital installations in Manchuria. Both these views have been presented to the National Security Council, and all the indications are that the second has prevailed.

It may be that, faced with a bold front, the Chinese will quietly back down, as the Russians have repeatedly done. Yet the fact is that hope of any real settlement with the Chinese is increasingly faint and flickering. It is significant, for example, that the chief of the Chinese delegation now on its way to Lake Success is the Russian-educated and Russian-speaking Wu Hsiu-chuan. Ws is expected merely to repeat the fierce, familiar phrases of Russia's Malik and Vishinsky. It will be nothing short of miraculous if he shows the faintest inclination to negotiate seriously.

Brings War Close

It may be that the Chinese, in their total isolation from all contact except with Moscow, really expect the United States and its allies to bow to the tentative show of force in Korea. If so, they will, of course, be disappointed. And bar an unostentatious Chinese withdrawal from Korea, this brings a real war between this country and China very near indeed.

The United States could, if need be, fight a war of a sort with China, by establishing a defense line at the narrow neck of the Korean peninsula, bombing Chinese industry and supply lines, and actively supporting the half million or so anti-Communist guerrillas in South China. For a time, perhaps, it may come to this. But the fact is that this kind of war is an essentially futile and impossible war—"a war between the shark and the tiger," as one of the experts put it. It would be insanity for this country to commit itself to a war which would be both endless and strategically meaningless. On this point again, there is universal agreement among responsible officials.

There is agreement on a further point. The question—what are the Chinese up to in Korea?—is really the wrong question. The real question is: What are the Russians up to in Asia? The answer to this question appears plainer every day. The Russians intend to engage American power indefinitely in Asia, while Russian power is left free to move elsewhere. This is an answer which, in the long run, this country cannot and will not accept.

Dissent Against Fair Deal Shown By Farley's Talk

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Probably the sagest of the political observers of our times is James A. Farley, who, after twice piloting a presidential nominee to success at the polls, nevertheless parted from that same individual on a matter of principle—opposing a break in the third-term tradition.

What Mr. Farley says now in analyzing the recent election is particularly significant and revealing. For it is the opinion of a man who, more than any other outside of public office, knows what the Democratic party really means to its followers and what it can mean in pursuing a course that might be termed sane instead of insane liberalism.

The man who not only served in the late President Roosevelt's Cabinet as postmaster general but who led the Democratic National Committee is certainly entitled to speak about the Democratic party as an institution.

Opposed To Third Party

"First," says Mr. Farley concerning the last election, "it showed in Ohio and in several other places that neither the Republican nor the Democratic parties, nor the working man himself, nor the voters generally want an independent labor party. I have many times made myself clear on this subject.

"Since labor unions became an effective force in our economy it has been suggested by some that labor might conceivably form a political party of its own, with the avowed objective of presenting its aims through the medium of a platform sponsored by an independent labor party.

"I want to say that I am definitely opposed to such an idea because I am a firm believer in the two-party system . . .

"The great danger since the two big labor federations have set up their own political organization is that in many districts and in some states these organizations might well supplant one or both of the regular parties. The result of this would be the elimination of policies by one issue and by one group in the community. That is quite contrary to the whole theory of government in this republican under a two-party system. The fear of that in Ohio I know in this year's election drove many Democrats to vote for Taft. And it is also clear that thousands of union members refused to be told how to vote by the political arms of the unions and voted for Taft in protest."

Federal Law Not Best

This is a frank exposition by one who knows the trends in party fortunes and the changing attitudes of voters. Mr. Farley, however, not only refers to what happened in Ohio but in his latest speech—made in the deep south at Tampa, Florida—he calls attention to the way the American Labor party, which he says "came to be heavily influenced by Communists," ran a ticket in New York State that was thoroughly buried by the regular party vote. He adds that he is "happy to note that the outlook is very dark for third or fourth parties in this country."

The former chief of the Democratic National Committee condemns also "the Brannan play, socialized medicine and other unsubstantial experiments" and calls on the President to summon the leaders of the South to solve civil-rights problems "on a regional and state basis."

"To pass a law," he remarks with reference to this issue that has aroused the South, "especially a federal law, is never the best way to correct an injustice."

What Mr. Farley says to his fellow Democrats and to the nation will be discussed widely. For it is the beginning of a very important dissent against new dealism and fair dealism which has been smouldering for some time but which is now coming to the surface as the independent Democrats, forced to choose between radicalism under the Democratic banner or anti-radicalism in the opposite party, are voting in favor of Republican candidates. Thus they do not hesitate to leave their party for the time being—at least until the Democratic party can get back on the track again.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Thanksgiving, 1950

ON APRIL 5, 1621, the Mayflower sailed away and the Pilgrims were cut off from the outside world. Life had been tough for them and the dead were numerous. Still, aided by some Indians, these English folk had learned how to grow corn and they had 20 acres of it.

Then the Indian summer came along in its blaze of New England colors, and they decided on a harvest festival of Thanksgiving. According to George F. Willison in his "Saints and Strangers," they had: "Venison, roast duck, roast goose, clams and other shellfish, succulent eels, white bread, corn bread, leeks and watercress and other 'sallet herbes,' with wild plums and dried berries as dessert—all washed down with wine, made of the wild grape, both white and red . . ."

Massasoit came with 90 braves, who did very well with the food.

Life, however, became increasingly more difficult. Out of their hardships they built our great nation, and each year, more or less, there has been a Thanksgiving Day.

Nowadays, we celebrate all our holidays as days of material pleasure. One would imagine that we were not thankful to God but to the turkey. We have substituted the turkey for the golden calf, just as we have made Christmas a holiday for exchange of gifts, not for religious worship.

It is characteristic of our time that this should be so, because we live in a materialistic age when little else cunts but what is provable and demonstrable. In a word, beauty, which is intangible; love, which is unmeasurable; charity, which is the cord that binds us everlastingly to God—the virtues of humanity—and not these alone—are buried in the junk heap of things that clutter our lives.

So, on Thanksgiving Day, we gorge, but do not pray; we thrill to the turkey, but not in humility, on bended knees, do we thank God that we live in this free land and that neither the course of events nor the stupidity of men nor the debasement of public and private morals has destroyed our liberties.

For that we are thankful to God's mercies.

On this day, I always turn again to Abraham Lincoln, who in times as dark as these, when the blood of our children was being spilled because men had been without truth, gave, in 1863, to his countrymen one of the most profound prayers:

"Whereas the Senate of the United States, devoutly recognizing the supreme authority and just government of almighty God in all the affairs of men and of nations, has by resolution requested the President to designate and set apart a day for national prayer and humiliation; and

"Whereas it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord;

"And inasmuch as we know that by His divine law nations, like inindividuals are subjected to punishments and chastisements in this world, may we not justly fear that the awful calamity of civil war which now desolates the land may be but a punishment inflicted upon us for our presumptuous sins, to the needful end of our national reformation as a whole people? We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of Heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us.

"It behooves us, then, to humble ourselves before the offended power, to confess our national sins, and to pray for clemency and forgiveness."

Thanksgiving

America, in the midst of troubled times bringing distress of mind to many, today comes to a date hallowed by tradition in the realization that Thanksgiving is not merely an institution reserved for the usages of good times and happiness.

In America's span Thanksgiving has served this people in good times and bad, in weal and in woe. Culturally it is an all-inclusive day, catering to the spiritual needs of folk whatever their condition.

Thanksgiving is a time for heart searching and for personal endeavor to get in tune with the Infinite. This earth vouchsafes no regime and no order giving happiness to all.

The individual by his own efforts and in collaboration with his fellows achieves whatever approximation of content he may. That is very much a matter of facing the great climaxes as they come and surmounting them.

America and Americans are in an era of inflation against a background of uncertainty and fear. There is a vast search for security in an insecure world. In such a time people should turn as naturally to a just Providence as flowers to the sun. Thanks should be offered for the privilege of seeking the solace of an everlasting and an ever-present Power.

On Thanksgiving Day America's assignment and its great privilege is to seek by petition and entreaty, with an humble and contrite heart, the strength of faith.

Dr. Bush Is Gloomy

Dr. Vannevar Bush, atomic scientist, has already engaged in a great many predictions as to what the next war may be like. What he says does not make cheerful reading, and isn't intended to. Its purpose is to stimulate military minds and public opinion to prepare for the next war, not the last one.

Dr. Bush's latest remarks on the subject go beyond the military lessons that are being learned in Korea. In Korea U. S. ground-support aviation and the U. S. Navy have been virtually unopposed. But these are the departments in which Dr. Bush fears the Russians have this nation outclassed.

The U. S. Tactical Air Force, used in support of field armies, he considers definitely inferior to what the Russians can now put into the air. And he says it may be necessary to think about using the atom bomb as a tactical weapon, dropping it on large enemy concentrations.

Such use of the atom bomb would, in fact, seem far less unpalatable to most of the people of the world than dropping it on cities. The difficulty, as the U. S. Air Force found when it tried area bombing in Korea, may be in locating enemy concentrations suitable for such treatment.

But if it is true that the atom bomb as a strategic weapon may be a disappointment, it might be well to canvass the possibilities of using it tactically.

The defense against strategic bombing is mounting, as Dr. Bush points out. Little is known about Russia's defensive preparations—though distance alone will make delivering atom bombs there sufficiently complicated. The public knows that this country's defenses include radar, air-to-air and ground-to-air missiles, jets, and so on—on hand or on order. Russia may have gone further.

There is a possibility, too, that Russia is in position to challenge U. S. command of the seas, too, despite claims that the snorkel will be taken care of. The United States has been too complacent on this point in two wars. The first nation that succeeds—as Germany twice barely failed—in denying the seas to the free world will have a tremendous advantage.

Dr. Bush, unfortunately, is no crank. His gloomy comments make it clear that no amount of money spent for defense may be good enough unless it is directed into the right channels.

Noise Annoys

Noise can be bad for you. R. Allen Wilson, an acoustics engineer, says it slows the mind, clouds the judgment, cuts working output, and ruins the disposition. Excessive exposure to noise, he says, can make you harried, irritable, ready to blow your top. It may even drive you crazy.

This is disturbing news for parents of young children. Child psychologists tell them that normal children are rather noisy. If your child is too quiet, he is displaying a symptom which psychiatrists view with more concern than manifestations of over-aggressiveness, violence, and noise.

If we add the findings of Mr. Wilson to those of the child psychologists, here's what we get: If your child is quiet, something may be driving him crazy. If he is noisy, he may drive you crazy.

If he's noisy enough to drive you crazy, he's probably normal. But he doesn't have much chance of staying that way. Few children can stay normal for long if they live with parents who are being driven crazy.

If it's not already too late, you may feel like avoiding this dilemma by not having children. But psychiatrists say that a normal family life, complete with children, is a wholesome influence for mental health.

The moral seems to be that the more expert advice you listen to, the more confused you become. If you're a parent, actual or prospective, what you need most is a durable sense of humor.

Their Day May Come

You can't fight everybody. When a major war is on, it is unwise to add new enemies. This unpleasant truth actuated Winston Churchill, according to the latest volume of his memoirs, when in 1941 he abandoned resistance to the Russian determination to annex the Baltic states. Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia are non-Russian in population and liberty-loving, and in their days of independence were well governed. The Russians coveted their territory, and following the 1939 pact with Hitler, Russia annexed them. Churchill demurred at accepting this accomplished fact, but eventually decided that beating Hitler was more important, and that these little Baltic states would have to wait. The United States took much the same attitude; we have not yet recognized the validity of the annexation by Russia.

The German seizure of Alsace-Lorraine in 1870 and the partition of Poland by Germany, Prussia and Austria in the 1790's are examples of historic wrongs which seemed at one time as if they would never be redressed. After many years they were righted, and so, Americans will hope, will be the injustice done to Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Red Eye

WHEN AN EYE SMARTS and becomes red there is a chance that simple inflammation exists. But there are other possibilities and most of us prefer an expert opinion when the eyes are involved. After all, sight is too precious to take chances.

The severity of a red eye depends upon whether it is caused by external irritation or infection or an internal disturbance within the orbit. The latter is more serious and should be suspected when the physician discovered, for example, that one pupil is larger than the other or that the clear cornea in front of the eye lacks luster and is cloudy. This difference is most noticeable when only one is affected and the two eyes can be compared. Iritis, inflammation of the cornea, and glaucoma are the most likely origins. These are treacherous diseases and should be treated immediately.

Simple conjunctivitis is the most common cause of red eye. This represents inflammation or irritation of the white outer membrane and the inside of the lid. A tiny speck of dust, when unattended, may lead within a few hours to intense redness, tearing, and a burning sensation. The same symptoms may stem from inflammation and if the individual does not remember when the particle entered he may blame bacteria rather than dust. This only serves to prolong the agony because relief occurs rapidly after the fragment is removed. Those who believe that they are capable of removing foreign objects need a word of caution: even tho a speck cannot be seen, one still could be present. Sometimes these objects are transparent and cannot be detected.

Other conditions that produce temporary congestion are exposure to wind, smoke, bright lights, or glare. Errors of refraction or imperfectly fitted glasses and overuse of the eyes in poor illumination as well as alcoholism and misplaced lashes are additional causes. Redness sometimes accompanies gout.

The conjunctivia is easily burned, especially by the sun when the rays are reflected from water or snow. Chemical burns from acids or other caustics also are occurring with greater frequency. After such a mishap the eye should be irrigated immediately with large quantities of water. This is best accomplished by placing water in the cupped palm of the hand or holding the nose and ducking the face in a basin of water and opening and closing the burned eye. Meanwhile the physician should be called for followup treatment to prevent further damage of the tissues.

Bacteria and viruses find the conjunctivia a fertile field for their operations. In many types of conjunctivitis, the sulfonamides and antibiotic have been most helpful; some of the tougher varieties are now being treated with ACTH and cortisone. Allergy also must be considered as a source of congestion. Anyone who has observed the eyes of a hay fever victim knows what this condition is like. The lids itch and are read and puffy, and in many there is an overflow like Niagara falls. The number of potential allergens is large, but cosmetics, drugs, and soap head the list. Nail polish is a common offender; the chemicals reach the eyes thru direct contact with the hands.

SATURDAY: Heat applications often relieve pain.

GARLIC

M. J. writes: I have been warned never to touch garlic when I have an open wound on a finger because it might enter the blood stream and prove fatal. Is this possible?

REPLY

Poppycock! Actually, when garlic is absorbed from the stomach, it enters the blood stream. It is then eliminated through the lungs, as any one who comes within 5 feet of the offender can testify.

BLOOD VESSEL EMERGENCIES

A. H. M. writes: Is cerebral hemorrhage the same as a blood clot on the brain?

REPLY

They often produce the same symptoms but in the strict sense hemorrhage occurs when a blood vessel ruptures whereas clot obstructs the vessel.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Visit To Ellis Island Reveals Human Story Behind Anti-Subversives Law; Thanksgiving Meaningless To Those Detained Due To McCarran Act

Says DREW PEARSON

ELLIS ISLAND, N. Y.—Thanksgiving began as a day on which a group of English immigrants gave thanks for being able to weather the rigors of one year on a new continent.

Today, three centuries later, immigrants are still arriving in small numbers in this country; only on this Thanksgiving Day the latest arrivals have little to be thankful for.

For the Statue of Liberty which once welcomed new arrivals like a beacon of hope in New York's cluttered harbor, stands with its back turned, both actually and figuratively, on Ellis Island.

This austere island has been doing a brisk business since the McCarran Communist control law went into effect. And Thanksgiving Day is anything but that for those who came seeking the land of promise, but found themselves shunted behind the red brick walls and high wire fences here along with stowaways and undesirable aliens.

Immigrants come along only in a trickle now—about 1,000 a month, compared with a million or so a month in the old days. And ironically, out of the approximate 1,000 new arrivals since the McCarran Act, only a handful are suspected of being Communists. The rest are guilty of nothing more than belonging to a Hitler or Mussolini front, usually as school kids or to get ration books.

To get the human story behind the law, you have to visit Ellis Island yourself. There the detainees stand in sullen clusters, mumbling in strange languages, gazing longingly at the New York skyline.

A lady immigrant passed the time giving haircuts, a father patiently taught his youngster to say "hallo" and "okay" to the guards, a mother tugged at an official's sleeve and pleaded in broken English: "My baby, she is sick!" Others wept quietly.

A pretty, 23-year-old German war bride, her eyes afloat, clutched a tiny bouquet of flowers. Her ex-G. I. husband had given them to her at the dock, then she had been whisked off to Ellis Island.

G. I. Husband Waits

"My husband is at the dock..." she sniffled. "Only five minutes... I see him only five minutes."

Her name was Henny Jacobsen—Mrs. Fred Jacobsen, she added through the tears. She met Fred in Essen, Germany, after the war. They were married in 1948, came to America and settled down in Baltimore. She was supposed to become an American citizen in December. Then her mother suffered a stroke, and Henny sailed back to Germany this summer to be at her side.

The guards asked Henny not to cry. They even tried to locate her husband by telephone.

"We don't like this any better than you," said one, gently.

Later in the afternoon, Henny was sworn in and faced an examiner.

"I was not a nazi. I told the man on the boat I was not a nazi," she pleaded.

But it turned out that Henny had joined a girls' group in school at the age of ten. It was on the list of Hitler organizations.

Though Henny had been forced to join and had quit as soon as she left school, the law made no exceptions. So the examiner intoned that Henny Jacobsen was "excluded from entering the United States," that her citizenship could not be granted.

Temporary Stay

Then, as she sobbed quietly, he dropped his formal manner and urged her not to worry. Attorney General McGrath, he said, had mercifully decreed that immigrants who had held only "nominal" membership in totalitarian organizations could be admitted for six months. By that time, maybe Congress would change the law.

It was the same story for elderly Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Vassal, who had come to live with their daughter, Mrs. Liesselote Masia of Chicago.

"My employer (in Germany) told me that if I wanted to work for him, I must be registered for the nazi party," Mr. Vassal, a frail ex-chauffeur, told the examiner. In spite of this, he became so disgusted with the nazis that he pulled out in 1938.

"A very good friend—he had a Jewish wife—and I like them so much that I said I am not going to belong to the nazi party," Mr. Vassal shrugged. "I went to the party and I told them I don't want to be a member any more."

The Vassals, too, got six months' grace, but, under the law, they can't stay in this country.

Six-Year-Old Blackshirt

Probably the most pathetic case was Antonio De Maria and his pregnant, 22-year-old wife who had left Italy in search of economic freedom, only to be stopped at Ellis Island.

The expectant mother, her eyes wet, admitted that she had belonged to a fascist organization—at the age of six.

"While I attended school, because all students were compelled to belong to some fascist youth movement, I enrolled at the age of six as a member of Balilla," she confessed.

This small confession will send her back to Italy in six months—unless the McCarran Act is amended.

"But my child will be an American citizen," she smiled triumphantly.

Those immigrants who had been approved for six months gathered up their frayed bundles and boarded an ancient ferry for the New York mainland. As the boat pushed through the congested harbor, a handful of immigrants, left behind, pulled out white handkerchiefs and waved pathetically. They didn't stop waving until the ferry touched the other side.

But the accepted immigrants were already thronging eagerly in the bow. When the docking was completed, they burst headlong off the ferry and raced on the mainland, shouting joyfully. They had reached America.

NOTE: In six months, however, they will be sent back--unless Congress changes the law it passed during the pre-election hysteria.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

What Are They Up To?

WASHINGTON

WHAT are the Chinese really up to in Korea?

There has never been a time when those experts who are supposed to have a ready answer for this sort of question have been more obviously puzzled and uncertain. The uncertainty springs from the contradiction between what the Chinese are doing and what they are saying.

Everything the Chinese Communists are saying points clearly to the conclusion that they are ready for a war with the United States. The Chinese leaders are quoted approvingly in the Moscow press as shouting that the "American interventionists" must be driven into the sea. The whole tone of the internal Chinese propaganda is that of a nation being prepared for all-out war.

Yet the evidence of the battlefield suggests just as clearly that the Chinese are by no means anxious for total war with this country. Since the first fierce attack, the Chinese have put up little real resistance. The Chinese could only seriously hope to defeat MacArthur's forces, which enjoy a great superiority in airpower and firepower, by overwhelming manpower. Yet the estimated 60,000 or so Chinese troops in Korea, are enough only for a tentative holding action—and all the indications are that the 60,000 figure is very greatly inflated. Moreover, this Chinese force is now receiving only a thin trickle of reinforcements. Thus the contradiction between Chinese words and Chinese deeds.

Cultivated Panic

According to certain State Department officials (whose views are strongly supported by the British), both Chinese words and Chinese deeds indicate a real, and hysterical, panic in Peking, which is being sedulously cultivated by the Soviets. The Chinese Communists are utterly without past experience or present contact with the Western world, and they may actually be convinced that the fighting in Korea is a planned prelude to the invasion of China.

According to this school of thought, the best way to prevent the war from spreading—which is the universally agreed American objective—is to instruct MacArthur to hold his troops back 10 or 20 miles from the Chinese borders. The Chinese should be offered a U.N.-administered buffer zone along the borders, and there should be no threats of bombing supply lines in China proper. Since what must be avoided is a conclusive, fear-motivated Chinese reaction.

A precisely contrary view is held in the Defense Department, and clearly by Gen. MacArthur himself. This is that the way to discourage the Chinese from all-out intervention is to press on to the borders, at the same time making it clear to the Chinese that if they seriously challenge MacArthur in Korea they will have to pay the price of heavy bombing of their vital installations in Manchuria. Both these views have been presented to the National Security Council, and all the indications are that the second has prevailed.

It may be that, faced with a bold front, the Chinese will quietly back down, as the Russians have repeatedly done. Yet the fact is that hope of any real settlement with the Chinese is increasingly faint and flickering. It is significant, for example, that the chief of the Chinese delegation now on its way to Lake Success is the Russian-educated and Russian-speaking Wu Hsiu-chuan. Ws is expected merely to repeat the fierce, familiar phrases of Russia's Malik and Vishinsky. It will be nothing short of miraculous if he shows the faintest inclination to negotiate seriously.

Brings War Close

It may be that the Chinese, in their total isolation from all contact except with Moscow, really expect the United States and its allies to bow to the tentative show of force in Korea. If so, they will, of course, be disappointed. And bar an unostentatious Chinese withdrawal from Korea, this brings a real war between this country and China very near indeed.

The United States could, if need be, fight a war of a sort with China, by establishing a defense line at the narrow neck of the Korean peninsula, bombing Chinese industry and supply lines, and actively supporting the half million or so anti-Communist guerrillas in South China. For a time, perhaps, it may come to this. But the fact is that this kind of war is an essentially futile and impossible war—"a war between the shark and the tiger," as one of the experts put it. It would be insanity for this country to commit itself to a war which would be both endless and strategically meaningless. On this point again, there is universal agreement among responsible officials.

There is agreement on a further point. The question—what are the Chinese up to in Korea?—is really the wrong question. The real question is: What are the Russians up to in Asia? The answer to this question appears plainer every day. The Russians intend to engage American power indefinitely in Asia, while Russian power is left free to move elsewhere. This is an answer which, in the long run, this country cannot and will not accept.

Dissent Against Fair Deal Shown By Farley's Talk

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Probably the sagest of the political observers of our times is James A. Farley, who, after twice piloting a presidential nominee to success at the polls, nevertheless parted from that same individual on a matter of principle—opposing a break in the third-term tradition.

What Mr. Farley says now in analyzing the recent election is particularly significant and revealing. For it is the opinion of a man who, more than any other outside of public office, knows what the Democratic party really means to its followers and what it can mean in pursuing a course that might be termed sane instead of insane liberalism.

The man who not only served in the late President Roosevelt's Cabinet as postmaster general but who led the Democratic National Committee is certainly entitled to speak about the Democratic party as an institution.

Opposed To Third Party

"First," says Mr. Farley concerning the last election, "it showed in Ohio and in several other places that neither the Republican nor the Democratic parties, nor the working man himself, nor the voters generally want an independent labor party. I have many times made myself clear on this subject.

"Since labor unions became an effective force in our economy it has been suggested by some that labor might conceivably form a political party of its own, with the avowed objective of presenting its aims through the medium of a platform sponsored by an independent labor party.

"I want to say that I am definitely opposed to such an idea because I am a firm believer in the two-party system . . .

"The great danger since the two big labor federations have set up their own political organization is that in many districts and in some states these organizations might well supplant one or both of the regular parties. The result of this would be the elimination of policies by one issue and by one group in the community. That is quite contrary to the whole theory of government in this republican under a two-party system. The fear of that in Ohio I know in this year's election drove many Democrats to vote for Taft. And it is also clear that thousands of union members refused to be told how to vote by the political arms of the unions and voted for Taft in protest."

Federal Law Not Best

This is a frank exposition by one who knows the trends in party fortunes and the changing attitudes of voters. Mr. Farley, however, not only refers to what happened in Ohio but in his latest speech—made in the deep south at Tampa, Florida—he calls attention to the way the American Labor party, which he says "came to be heavily influenced by Communists," ran a ticket in New York State that was thoroughly buried by the regular party vote. He adds that he is "happy to note that the outlook is very dark for third or fourth parties in this country."

The former chief of the Democratic National Committee condemns also "the Brannan play, socialized medicine and other unsubstantial experiments" and calls on the President to summon the leaders of the South to solve civil-rights problems "on a regional and state basis."

"To pass a law," he remarks with reference to this issue that has aroused the South, "especially a federal law, is never the best way to correct an injustice."

What Mr. Farley says to his fellow Democrats and to the nation will be discussed widely. For it is the beginning of a very important dissent against new dealism and fair dealism which has been smouldering for some time but which is now coming to the surface as the independent Democrats, forced to choose between radicalism under the Democratic banner or anti-radicalism in the opposite party, are voting in favor of Republican candidates. Thus they do not hesitate to leave their party for the time being—at least until the Democratic party can get back on the track again.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Thanksgiving, 1950

ON APRIL 5, 1621, the Mayflower sailed away and the Pilgrims were cut off from the outside world. Life had been tough for them and the dead were numerous. Still, aided by some Indians, these English folk had learned how to grow corn and they had 20 acres of it.

Then the Indian summer came along in its blaze of New England colors, and they decided on a harvest festival of Thanksgiving. According to George F. Willison in his "Saints and Strangers," they had: "Venison, roast duck, roast goose, clams and other shellfish, succulent eels, white bread, corn bread, leeks and watercress and other 'sallet herbes,' with wild plums and dried berries as dessert—all washed down with wine, made of the wild grape, both white and red . . ."

Massasoit came with 90 braves, who did very well with the food.

Life, however, became increasingly more difficult. Out of their hardships they built our great nation, and each year, more or less, there has been a Thanksgiving Day.

Nowadays, we celebrate all our holidays as days of material pleasure. One would imagine that we were not thankful to God but to the turkey. We have substituted the turkey for the golden calf, just as we have made Christmas a holiday for exchange of gifts, not for religious worship.

It is characteristic of our time that this should be so, because we live in a materialistic age when little else cunts but what is provable and demonstrable. In a word, beauty, which is intangible; love, which is unmeasurable; charity, which is the cord that binds us everlastingly to God—the virtues of humanity—and not these alone—are buried in the junk heap of things that clutter our lives.

So, on Thanksgiving Day, we gorge, but do not pray; we thrill to the turkey, but not in humility, on bended knees, do we thank God that we live in this free land and that neither the course of events nor the stupidity of men nor the debasement of public and private morals has destroyed our liberties.

For that we are thankful to God's mercies.

On this day, I always turn again to Abraham Lincoln, who in times as dark as these, when the blood of our children was being spilled because men had been without truth, gave, in 1863, to his countrymen one of the most profound prayers:

"Whereas the Senate of the United States, devoutly recognizing the supreme authority and just government of almighty God in all the affairs of men and of nations, has by resolution requested the President to designate and set apart a day for national prayer and humiliation; and

"Whereas it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord;

"And inasmuch as we know that by His divine law nations, like individuals are subjected to punishments and chastisements in this world, may we not justly fear that the awful calamity of civil war which now desolates the land may be but a punishment inflicted upon us for our presumptuous sins, to the needful end of our national reformation as a whole people? We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of Heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us.

"It behooves us, then, to humble ourselves before the offended power, to confess our national sins, and to pray for clemency and forgiveness."

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

PERLE Mesta—Perle Mesta—Perle Mesta! Just thought you'd like to see her name in the paper.

Young lawyer Marvin Braverman, recently elected to the board of The Travelers Aid, gave aid and comfort to the Traveler From Luxembourg. . . At the cocktail party he tossed in honor of Mrs. Mesta the other afternoon, no announcement staggered the assemblage of diplomats, cabinet officers, military brass and senators, both elected and recently lame-ducked.

AUSTINE

Some of Perle's friends had winked knowingly for days beforehand that a "big secret" would be unfolded at the party. . . But the only thing out of the ordinary I noticed was Mrs. Harold Burton's hat. . . The size of a wagon wheel but more becoming.

●—●—●

Faye Emerson looked as pretty as she had been when she stayed at the White House a few years back. . . Introducing her next husband to be—Skitch Henderson—Faye said stacks of mail have flooded her since she announced her engagement on her television program. . . As usual she bubbled pleasantly and had a few wise comments on affairs of the day.

Remarked that the California Gold Rush has been reversed. . . Instead of rushing to Hollywood, eager young actors from California now rush to New York to do television shows. . . The other day, it seems, a wide-eyed, cutie pie reported from the Coast to make her name 'n fame on TV. . . Wouldn't make a move without calling her agent in Hollywood. . . He told her how to wear her hair, how to act at the Stork Club, what to say to the press and the minute she got to "21" for lunch the other day, she sat down at the table and telephoned her agent in Hollywood. . . "What shall I eat for lunch?" she asked him.

Chic, petite columnist, Florence Mahoney, recently divorced from the able newspaper editor, was causing bewilderment when she introduced her six-foot son. . . Looked more like a sister-brother team. . . Florence has found a house on Prospect Avenue in Georgetown. . . It'll be a jewel box before she gets through with it, never fear.

BILL DOUGLAS AND MILDRED:

Associate Justice William O. Douglas has made a promise to Mildred. . . Now a senior at Whitman College, that daughter of his has known for years what she wanted. . . A brand new, shiny convertible? . . . A Breath-of-Spring mink? . . . A trip to Europe? . . . Not on your life. . . Mildred yearns for cows. . . Has always wanted a cattle ranch. . . And Papa has promised that the money from his best seller "Of Men and Mountains" can be sunk into steers. . . .

Son William O. Douglas, Jr., still at Lawrenceville, hasn't made up his mind yet what profession he'd like. . . "He probably won't want to be a lawyer in daddy's footsteps," says his mother. "You never can tell, though. His father couldn't make up his mind till he was out of college either."

DOWNEY AND GURNEY:

Next year, when Nixon takes his seat, ex-Senator Sheridan Downey may take charge of representing California water users in Washington. . . He'll push for repeal of existing limitations on water in California. . . The Pentagon is beckoning to ex-Senator Gurney of S. Dak. to come on in and take a high-up job. . . He was once chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

TYDINGS AND RADCLIFFE:

Over the defeat of Tydings (Armed Services committee last chairman) certain Marylanders made no complaint. . . Among them, friends of former Maryland Senator Radcliffe. . . They recall that when Radcliffe was battling former Gov. O'Conor, Tydings made no effort to help Radcliffe who had ably represented Maryland for 12 years.

THOMAS AND TOBIN:

Defeated Sen. Thomas of Utah, who was chairman of the Labor committee, may get an easy chair as a Labor department advisor.

KEFAUVER AND CLUBS:

Wits are wagging that "Sen Estes Kefauver has started something—the new Bookie of the Month Club."

For allure and flattery, choose the V-neckline. This season you'll find it in new and varied styles for every occasion!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IT beats me why the woman who has reached that "certain" age and size riles up at the mere mention of the V-neckline. Any woman who knows what is good for her welcomes this current fashion—unless she has an extremely delicate, pointed chin.

The fact that expert and authoritative designers use the V-angle to minimize the appearance of a round or squarish jaw, a heavy neck and bosom, should convince the woman who is just beginning to discover that her pounds are showing. Instead, it throws many a one into a panic. And in spite of all the good advice available, these ladies leave the flattering V to the rail of a girl who doesn't need it—and then they envy her for the way she looks.

New Slenderizing Effects

Let's end this waste of line and emotion and acknowledge now that the V neckline in either the little or middle-size version is your best ally. I'll admit that the deep, open, plunging V is a bit chancy. But you can easily get the same fashion effect, and perhaps more subtly, with a set-in drape of lace or chiffon that harmonizes or matches the main color of your dress.

Now don't throw up your hands in horror! The new, beautifully manipulated drapes are nothing like the little piece of pink tulle your Great Aunt Victoria pinned in her dress for the sake of maidenly modesty. They're a clever, luscious finish to the dress.

The new, slenderizing versions of the diagonal neckline are found this year in costumes for every occasion. Look for the new V turned to its side and pulled across the collar bone to end in a point just below the center of the shoulder blade. See the clever diagonal that is a cuffed surplice. (Just be sure that the wide part of the cuff starts under your arm and that it tapers from there to a narrow band at a point near the shoulder joint).

Everything You Want

To distinguish your evening wear, choose the sweetheart or portrait neckline with a moderately low front cut and a high back; they're flattering from every view. They form a beautiful frame for the neck and face, cut the girth of the bosom from the side and hide the flesh at the nape of the neck. That is a no hit, no run, no error performance. What more could you ask of a neckline?

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

PERLE Mesta—Perle Mesta—Perle Mesta! Just thought you'd like to see her name in the paper.

Young lawyer Marvin Braverman, recently elected to the board of The Travelers Aid, gave aid and comfort to the Traveler From Luxembourg. . . At the cocktail party he tossed in honor of Mrs. Mesta the other afternoon, no announcement staggered the assemblage of diplomats, cabinet officers, military brass and senators, both elected and recently lame-ducked.

AUSTINE

Some of Perle's friends had winked knowingly for days beforehand that a "big secret" would be unfolded at the party. . . But the only thing out of the ordinary I noticed was Mrs. Harold Burton's hat. . . The size of a wagon wheel but more becoming.

• — • — •

Faye Emerson looked as pretty as she had been when she stayed at the White House a few years back. . . Introducing her next husband to be—Skitch Henderson—Faye said stacks of mail have flooded her since she announced her engagement on her television program. . . As usual she bubbled pleasantly and had a few wise comments on affairs of the day.

Remarked that the California Gold Rush has been reversed. . . Instead of rushing to Hollywood, eager young actors from California now rush to New York to do television shows. . . The other day, it seems, a wide-eyed, cutie pie reported from the Coast to make her name 'n fame on TV. . . Wouldn't make a move without calling her agent in Hollywood. . . He told her how to wear her hair, how to act at the Stork Club, what to say to the press and the minute she got to "21" for lunch the other day, she sat down at the table and telephoned her agent in Hollywood. . . "What shall I eat for lunch?" she asked him.

• — • — •

Chic, petite columnist, Florence Mahoney, recently divorced from the able newspaper editor, was causing bewilderment when she introduced her six-foot son. . . Looked more like a sister-brother team. . . Florence has found a house on Prospect Avenue in Georgetown. . . It'll be a jewel box before she gets through with it, never fear.

• — • — •

BILL DOUGLAS AND MILDRED:

Associate Justice William O. Douglas has made a promise to Mildred. . . Now a senior at Whitman College, that daughter of his has known for years what she wanted. . . A brand new, shiny convertible? . . . A Breath-of-Spring mink? . . . A trip to Europe? . . . Not on your life. . . Mildred yearns for cows. . . Has always wanted a cattle ranch. . . And Papa has promised that the money from his best seller "Of Men and Mountains" can be sunk into steers. . . .

Son William O. Douglas, Jr., still at Lawrenceville, hasn't made up his mind yet what profession he'd like. . . "He probably won't want to be a lawyer in daddy's footsteps," says his mother. "You never can tell, though. His father couldn't make up his mind till he was out of college either."

• — • — •

DOWNEY AND GURNEY:

Next year, when Nixon takes his seat, ex-Senator Sheridan Downey may take charge of representing California water users in Washington. . . He'll push for repeal of existing limitations on water in California. . . The Pentagon is beckoning to ex-Senator Gurney of S. Dak. to come on in and take a high-up job. . . He was once chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

• — • — •

TYDINGS AND RADCLIFFE:

Over the defeat of Tydings (Armed Services committee last chairman) certain Marylanders made no complaint. . . Among them, friends of former Maryland Senator Radcliffe. . . They recall that when Radcliffe was battling former Gov. O'Conor, Tydings made no effort to help Radcliffe who had ably represented Maryland for 12 years.

• — • — •

THOMAS AND TOBIN:

Defeated Sen. Thomas of Utah, who was chairman of the Labor committee, may get an easy chair as a Labor department advisor.

KEFAUVER AND CLUBS:

Wits are wagging that "Sen Estes Kefauver has started something—the new Bookie of the Month Club."

For allure and flattery, choose the V-neckline. This season you'll find it in new and varied styles for every occasion!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IT beats me why the woman who has reached that "certain" age and size riles up at the mere mention of the V-neckline. Any woman who knows what is good for her welcomes this current fashion—unless she has an extremely delicate, pointed chin.

The fact that expert and authoritative designers use the V-angle to minimize the appearance of a round or squarish jaw, a heavy neck and bosom, should convince the woman who is just beginning to discover that her pounds are showing. Instead, it throws many a one into a panic. And in spite of all the good advice available, these ladies leave the flattering V to the rail of a girl who doesn't need it—and then they envy her for the way she looks.

New Slenderizing Effects

Let's end this waste of line and emotion and acknowledge now that the V neckline in either the little or middle-size version is your best ally. I'll admit that the deep, open, plunging V is a bit chancy. But you can easily get the same fashion effect, and perhaps more subtly, with a set-in drape of lace or chiffon that harmonizes or matches the main color of your dress.

Now don't throw up your hands in horror! The new, beautifully manipulated drapes are nothing like the little piece of pink tulle your Great Aunt Victoria pinned in her dress for the sake of maidenly modesty. They're a clever, luscious finish to the dress.

The new, slenderizing versions of the diagonal neckline are found this year in costumes for every occasion. Look for the new V turned to its side and pulled across the collar bone to end in a point just below the center of the shoulder blade. See the clever diagonal that is a cuffed surplice. (Just be sure that the wide part of the cuff starts under your arm and that it tapers from there to a narrow band at a point near the shoulder joint).

Everything You Want

To distinguish your evening wear, choose the sweetheart or portrait neckline with a moderately low front cut and a high back; they're flattering from every view. They form a beautiful frame for the neck and face, cut the girth of the bosom from the side and hide the flesh at the nape of the neck. That is a no hit, no run, no error performance. What more could you ask of a neckline?

Miss Bean To Be Honored By Nat'l. Group

MAUDE A. BEAN

The National Home Demonstration Association Council is awarding a Distinguished Honor to Miss Maude A. Bean, Allegany county home demonstration agent, at the annual meeting of the association being held at the Hotel Stevens, Chicago, November 26-29.

Miss Bean leaves here Saturday for Chicago, where she will represent Maryland at the council. Five other Extension Agents throughout the country will receive tribute.

Coming to Allegany county May 17, 1925, Miss Bean has served as home demonstration agent, conducting programs for the homemakers and 4-H girls. The Extension Service of the University of Maryland, reports that in no other county has home demonstration work made a greater impression upon the homemakers and youth than in Allegany, for Miss Bean has "cooperated enthusiastically with the county agent in mobilizing community expression and organization." It also has noted that although Allegany is distant from the university, the homemakers have attended Rural Women's Short Course in greater numbers than from any other county; many 4-H club members have taken part and made fine records in state and national contests; and the older youth movement has "made fine progress."

The program for the meeting includes business sessions, panel discussions, exhibits, and talks beides the officers' breakfasts, luncheon-meetings and banquets.

Rehearsal Party Given

Mrs. George G. Young, Washington Lee Apartments, and Mr. and Mrs. Ferman McFerran, Clarksburg, W. Va., entertained in complement to the former's son, George McAlpine Young, and his financee, Miss Elizabeth Wilton Jenkins, last evening at the Cumberland Country Club.

Miss Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Edwin Jenkins, Frostburg, is to become the bride of Mr. Young this evening in a ceremony in First Methodist Church, Frostburg.

An all white bridal motif was carried out in the flowers and candles decorating the table.

Besides the honor guests and the parents of the bride-elect other guests were Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Wheeldon, Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bell, Baltimore; Rev. and Mrs. John B. Jones, Mrs. Gladys Porter, Jonathan Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Jenkins, Frostburg; Miss Betty J. Tinsman, Glyn Ellyn, Ill.; Miss Virginia Pflaum, Wauwatosa, Wis.; Harry Byer, Pittsburgh; Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Earle Cobey, Mr. and Mrs. G. William Bibby, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Schaidt, 3rd; and Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Steidings, Cumberland.

Cop To Make Annual Transition From Policeman To Santa Claus

WILLIAMSPORT, Md.—(AP)—The transition from jolly old St. Nicholas to a hard boiled cop is a wide one—but after 21 years you get used to it.

Jacob H. Mills is Williamsports' dual personality. Adults in the town know him as an alert, unyielding officer of the law. And for the past 21 years he has been Santa Claus to Williamsport children.

"I'm starting to feel that I've had the job long enough. I wouldn't mind if some younger fellow took it over," Mills said.

But the annual miracle of Christmas is drawing near again, the eyes of Williamsport kids are getting wider and brighter, and Mills is taking the mothballs out of his Santa suit. He can't help it.

One year Mills got a call that Santa Claus had never been seen by some children in the Chariton area. He got a wonderful reception when he answered the call.

But on the way back, the car broke down and Mills had to tramp through rain and ankle-deep mud before he got home.

The Santa Claus that returned to Williamsport that night was a damp, bedraggled specimen who didn't give a wreath of holly if he ever heard a sleigh bell again.

Probably Mills accomplishes most when he visits the little people who are ill at Christmas time.

Aspirin tablets taste like taffy candy when Santa Claus in person brings wonder into a youngster's world.

Nurses there can tell you that visit brought lots of Christmas color to the pale little faces propped on sick-bed pillows.

One year during the Yule season, Mills saw a little girl—her name was Alice Hull—step into the side of a moving truck on a Williamsport street.

He was a block away, powerless to prevent the accident.

But he was quick to apply the Santa therapy right at her bedside just as soon as she was able to receive visitors.

This year again Washington county youngsters will be hearing the age-old tale of how the Wise Men brought rich gifts to an Infant who was born in a manger.

And Jacob Mills will be bringing his personal gift to the youngsters of Williamsport—the wonder of the Christmas legend of Santa Claus.

INGENUITY, ALONG WITH PAPER, PASTE, RIBBONS AND BOWS JOIN TO HELP MAKE CHRISTMAS JOLLY

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Paper and paste, ribbon and bows, go a long way to making Christmas the gay, jolly time that it is. Pretty gift wrappings, holiday party caps for the children and home decorations are easy to make if you get an early start.

When wrapping your gifts, remember that any item looks better in a box, says Drusilla Lowrie in her new book, "The Art of Gift Wrapping." She suggests that you ask for boxes when buying gifts and that you save all clean, strong, attractive looking boxes, cracker and cake boxes, ice cream cartons and other unusual boxes such as cheese boxes, which make very useful containers.

Odd boxes and containers can be utilized by painting them or covering with wall paper, decals or Christmas paper.

If you use a milk carton, ideal for a man's pipe, toys and even a bottle of toilet water, rinse the carton well, cut the top along three sides so that it will open as a lid and wrap the whole carton with gift paper.

Breakable gifts often come in factory packed corrugated boxes. Instead of removing the contents and risking breakage and another packing problem, why don't you transform the box into an attractive gift container by papering it with wallpaper or gift paper, suggests the book.

Tin or plastic boxes should be used for gifts of food and candy. If cardboard boxes are used, line them carefully with waxed paper, aluminum foil or cellophane.

To wrap a cylinder, cut paper slightly longer than the cylinder to be covered. Roll paper around the cylinder and seal. Fold ends neatly. Cover with a large seal. Leave one end of paper long and tie, then fringe by cutting the paper into narrow strips and add stars if you like for interest. If cellophane is used, the ends can be fluffed.

Bowls and jars can be wrapped prettily by cutting squares of cellophane in the same or contrasting colors. Set the bowl, jar or other container in the center, then bring all edges together at the top of the container. Tie with ribbon. Allow enough paper to give a nice spreading effect at top.

The best way to wrap a wine bottle is to use aluminum foil or metallic paper, crushing it around the neck of the bottle. Or wrap it in cellophane which is then twisted at the top.

You can find all kinds of tying materials. Take your choice of satin, taffeta, moire or novelty ribbons. Printed ribbons with designs personalze the package. One ribbon shows Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer making his merry way across green, red, blue or white ribbon—fun for small fry or sophisticates.

Children who like to make their own Christmas party favors will have fun making hats out of brightly colored tissue paper and red and green cellophane tape. A cone shaped cap can be cut out of red tissue paper; the two sides bound with the transparent tape, and white cotton pasted around the hat rim.

Youngsters can make pretty party caps out of two half-circles, cut large enough so that the diameter is half the head size. The straight half of the half-circles should be cut in points. Colored cellophane tape can be used to join the round sides of the two half-circles and also to run around the points and reinforce them. Use the tape in a checkerboard pattern for a pretty design.

Lovely decorative designs can be done in the house with colored decorative tape. This tap, which resembles adhesive tape except for its color and smoothness, is pliable and easy to handle. You can spell out Merry Christmas on the fireplace, front door or on the walls, and remove it in a jiffy just by stripping it off. A cute idea is to use silver decorative tape and put a few musical bars such as Jingle Bells on the window.

The canning process of preserving food in U. S. was introduced in 1820 by William Underwood.

New System Set For Publications

Maryland children have a better chance to learn about their state under a new system of distributing publications, according to Helen M. Clark, Director of the Division of Library Extension.

This division of the Department of Education distributed to the schools at cost last year more than 61,000 publications of the various state agencies.

The new method of distribution was worked out with the Department of Information, the Board of Natural Resources, the University of Maryland, and the Department of Health.

In the past, individual inquiries by pupils and teachers for publications results in an expensive and uneven distribution. The reason for this is that no state agency ordinarily puts out as many as 65,000 copies of a booklet, which is the number required to take care of all pupils studying Maryland.

Under the new system, county school supervisors place orders for the publications with the various agencies and buy the material at cost, usually a few cents a copy.

Short Gap Society Votes Yule Gifts

The Short Gap WSCS voted to take a box of candy to each of the patients at the County Home for Christmas when the group met recently at the home of Mrs. Clyde Shobe, Knobley Road. It was decided to have the next meeting in the form of a Christmas party, December 15, at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Sisk.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Artis Massey, who also read a Thanksgiving piece; Mrs. Helen Riley read the Scripture, Mrs. Chester Miller, a poem and Mrs. Bruce Blauch offered prayer. "Health in a Rural Community."

Democrat Meeting Not Expected To Reconvene

Delegates of Allegany County to the Maryland Democratic convention are expected to vote against reconvening the meeting as proposed at an earlier session, it has been announced.

Most of the delegates from other areas are expected to vote the same way. The delegates are being polled by telegram.

After nominating candidates for state office Oct. 2, the convention recessed until "not later than Nov. 27" when it was to work out some new method of alloting unit votes by which candidates are nominated.

Harry T. Gross, counsel to the Democratic state central committee, said the party leaders now feel that with the probability of a constitutional convention which would thrash out the whole nominating procedure, a party gathering on the issue would be unnecessary.

In a general election referendum, Marylanders voted overwhelmingly in favor of calling a convention to redraft the state's constitution. The charter sets the formula for representation of the state's political subdivisions which forms the basis of the unit system.

A cry to change the unit system of nominating arose within the Democratic party after Governo Lane received the most unit votes and the nomination in the September primary even though George P. Mahoney led by 17,000 in the popular vote.

A similar situation developed in the Republican senatorial primary when Senator-elect John Marshall Butler was nominated under the unit vote system even though D. John Markey received the greater popular vote total.

Streets Are Patched For Winter Months

An asphalt spreader has been preparing surfaces torn up by the installation of flood conduits in downtown Cumberland.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, city street commissioner, said the flood project contractor is placing a second layer of temporary patching on the path of the conduit.

On the other side of the Western Maryland Railway tracks, the intersection of Greene, Washington, and Cumberland streets in front of the Algonquin Hotel has been torn up for the installation of a four-inch main by the C. and A. Gas Company. This work is slated to be finished this week.

By BOB CONSIDINE

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS. (INS)

IT WAS a revelation to come back to this handsome old place, the Greenbrier, whose quiet grandeur, setting and service were once so roundly praised by a resident named Robert E. Lee.

I knew it before Dorothy Draper came in with her gift of transformation, and before it became a favorite resort of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and the home course of the great Samuel Snead.

Last time I was this way, Greenbrier and its white cottages in the pleasant green hills were Ashford general hospital, and its halls and rooms swarmed with the wounded. It was just after the end of World War II.

It was a time of wonder and speculation for the maimed. They paced the endless sweeps of corridors, like members of a quiet religious order in their old maroon bathrobes. Or they sat in the sunny parlors, playing cards or listening to the juke box, or down at the casino they watched the trim nurses and doctors playing tennis. Or they just sat and stared.

Peace—endless peace, they presumed—lay before them. And it worried many of them. They had given up their whole lives and hearts, and, in some cases, a great portion of their bodies, to the army—reluctantly at first, and then as if it were something for which they had been born.

They had become children of the army. It had bought them their clothes, their shoes, and now, with brisk gratitude, was mending them, shoring up the agony. It had done all their thinking for them for a long time.

It had told them when to get up, when to fight, when not to fight, when to eat, what to eat, when to sleep, when not to sleep. It had paid them in the coin of the realm, given them special prices at the PX to compensate for what it could not pay them; had given them free shows and other little services.

But now the thing was over, except for those very bad off, and the bulk of the men would be released. To what? Would their jobs be there where they had dropped them? Would the fellow with the flat feet or the punctured ear-drum, or the kids, have gone far beyond them in the plant, the shop, the office? Would anybody really give a darn, now that the thing was over?

They wondered about the GI Bill of Rights, and what to go in for at the schools which beckoned to them. And they wondered whether it wouldn't be better just to give up the whole notion of going to (or back to) school—and set sail. They wondered about their girls and their wives, and how much they had changed.

And, above all, the badly wounded wondered how much of a burden they would be and, wondering, sometimes grew quietly white with anger over the imagined slights and maudlin pity they'd received—once they had to leave this haven in the quiet West Virginia hills.

My reason for being there was to ghost a book for Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, the ultimate expendable. He told his gallant and pitiable story with an economy of sentimentality, day after day, while we sat on the porch of his cottage and he relieved the tortured years of his defeat and captivity.

In the month I spent with him I came to respect and even love him with something close to the emotion which was aroused in one of his men—the night Wainwright was forced by Gen. Homma to sign the surrender papers on Corregidor.

He told the story simply. As he walked away from the surrender table he passed through a field of his starved, diseased and defeated men—prisoners like himself. And as he did a GI got up from the dirt, got in step with the old gentleman and officer, and put his arm around Wainwright's shoulder.

"Don't worry, General," the GI said. "You did the best you could."

It was a line, the General told me, that helped him to survive what followed. He looked down the green hill in front of his bungalow as he told me the story . . . down into the little valley where another defeated general had once lived.

"I had always been a student of Civil War history," he said, quietly, "but it was not until that boy spoke to me that I truly knew how Robert E. Lee felt at Appomattox."

Anthropologist Believes Human Brain Came Last

CHICAGO — (AP) — Which came first in human evolution: Man's body structure or his brain?

A University of Chicago anthropologist advanced the theory—based on laboratory tests with animals—that the brain came last, a mere 50,000 years ago.

This would fix man's age on the earth at only 50,000 years, rather than around a million years as some investigators assumed.

Sherwood L. Washburn, associate professor of physical anthropology, gave this timetable of the past for man's parts.

Trunk and arms—10,000,000 years old.

Leg structure (upright posture)—1,000,000 years.

Skull structure and brain—50,000 years.

Washburn has been able to modify drastically the skull form of adult rats by cutting certain muscles in the heads of one day old rats. This surgery parellels evolutionary steps.

He told members of the university's citizens board that his work indicated that changes in the bony structure of mammals, including humans, might not have required the many slow evolutionary steps previously assumed. Simple evolutionary changes in muscles, he said, could cause drastic modifications in bone structures.

He said only a relatively few changes in genes—the factors which control heredity—may have been required to bring the enlarged skull capacity man needs for his brain.

153 New Words In Six Months

NEW YORK, (INS) — The American language, which already has to many words that too few persons can define, has acquired 153 new words in the last six months.

Funk and Wagnalls lexicographers — and old word meaning people who make up dictionaries — compiled the upstarts in their full edition of the semi-annual "new words.

Some of these are more familiar to the multitude than many of the old words — for example, L'il Abner's kigmy, and roller derby.

The Korean war has added to our vocabularies such terms as gook, fire-fight, shaped charge, and trooplet. Television has brought us craspedomorphosogy, which is the study of resolving power of photographic lenses, and phototrasistor, wich is something else entirely. But to long to define

It remained for the supreme word-wranglers, the advertising trade and Radio Moscow, to make the most vivid contributions. From the bucksters came ear-owner, meaning any target for radio plugs, and from Moscow came atomshik, a atomic war-mongerer.

Bikini Bathing Suit Is Here To Stay, Top Designer Says

MIAMI—(INS)—The Bikini bathing suit, that whisp of twine and handkerchief which has hung by a thread in more ways than one since its French creation four years ago, has apparently reached firm ground in the United States.

A leading designer says it's here to stay.

But don't start rushing for the beach, boys. That's only one man's opinion and even he admits that it will take two to three years to get the girls accustomed to parading around with not much more than what nature provided as a barrier against curious eyes.

Mal Marshall, a Miami clothing designer who has a phobia about stuffy wearing apparel, predicted today that within a matter of months the Bikini suit will catch more attention on American beaches than the atom bomb caught at its namesake.

And, Marshall continued, within a few years grandmothers will be saying "I remember when" about the torso covers the girls are wearing now.

The daring designer shrugs off the thought that some people might frown on his prediction.

"They'll just have to get used to seeing nudes on the beach," Marshall remarked. "Those people were shocked when girls took their hose off and men quit wearing high-collared shirts. They'll get used to it."

Marshall cited what he calls the "great technological problem of design" as one reason why the suits have not hit the mass market. He explained:

"Designing a Bikini is like cutting a diamond. The subject is so tiny that it's hard to get the proper perspective.

"Then, of course, every inch of the suit serves what you might call an essential purpose. You don't have extra material to play around with."

To solve that problem, the designer plans to rely on colors and unique materials to give his suits variety.

"My hottest idea yet," he revealed, "is a fluorescent job. You can't miss a babe on the beach night or day if she's wearing one of them."

So far, about the only Bikini suits to be spotted around Miami Beach this season have been stretched around models' shapes for photographic purposes. Press - agenting photographers look on the suits as the greatest boon to photography since Sally Rand discovered fans.

"A Bikini suit," said one academic lensman, "gives more cheesecake per square inch than a Minsky stripper shows in a week."

Court Sessions To Be Held In Hagerstown

Associate Judge George Henderson will be in Hagerstown next week to hear trials on the criminal docket of Washington County Circuit Court, he has announced.

He will be there Monday through Friday returning here Saturday. Monday, December 4, and Tuesday, December 5, he will return to Washington County for the manslaughter case involving an Allegany County man.

Judge Henderson said the case is against William J. Hughes, 24, of Midland, who was the driver of the truck that struck and killed Thomas Robertson, 43, of Lonaconing, last May 3 during picketing operations on Old Cemetery Road, Knapp's Meadow.

The trial was ordered moved to Hagerstown in October from Allegany County Circuit Court after affidavits were produced attempting to prove that Hughes would not get a fair and impartial trial here.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

An oldie but is still good is the story of the cranky storekeeper in a backwoods Alabama town who told a traveling salesman, "Things is so high, nobody hearabouts has got money fer anything." The salesman started to blame the Administration when he suddenly recalled he was in Alabama, and apologized. "Sorry I forgot everybody in these parts is a Democrat." "We sure are," agreed the storekeeper. "Voted straight Democrat all my life, and my Pappy and Granpappy afore me. But let me tell you something, Mister. If you Damyankees don't stop voting Democratic too, yer gonna ruin this whole darn country."

The growing popularity in France of a cola drink America has cherished for years had the wine industry in a tizzy, it tried to persuade the French government to ban the sale of the concoction by a legal injunction. The bill was defeated. One American correspondent says the Council probably cried, "Let 'em eat Coke!"

Bikini Bathing Suit Is Here To Stay, Top Designer Says

MIAMI—(INS)—The Bikini bathing suit, that whisp of twine and handkerchief which has hung by a thread in more ways than one since its French creation four years ago, has apparently reached firm ground in the United States.

A leading designer says it's here to stay.

But don't start rushing for the beach, boys. That's only one man's opinion and even he admits that it will take two to three years to get the girls accustomed to parading around with not much more than what nature provided as a barrier against curious eyes.

Mal Marshall, a Miami clothing designer who has a phobia about stuffy wearing apparel, predicted today that within a matter of months the Bikini suit will catch more attention on American beaches than the atom bomb caught at its namesake.

And, Marshall continued, within a few years grandmothers will be saying "I remember when" about the torso covers the girls are wearing now.

The daring designer shrugs off the thought that some people might frown on his prediction.

"They'll just have to get used to seeing nudes on the beach," Marshall remarked. "Those people were shocked when girls took their hose off and men quit wearing high-collared shirts. They'll get used to it."

Marshall cited what he calls the "great technological problem of design" as one reason why the suits have not hit the mass market. He explained:

"Designing a Bikini is like cutting a diamond. The subject is so tiny that it's hard to get the proper perspective.

"Then, of course, every inch of the suit serves what you might call an essential purpose. You don't have extra material to play around with."

To solve that problem, the designer plans to rely on colors and unique materials to give his suits variety.

"My hottest idea yet," he revealed, "is a fluorescent job. You can't miss a babe on the beach night or day if she's wearing one of them."

So far, about the only Bikini suits to be spotted around Miami Beach this season have been stretched around models' shapes for photographic purposes. Press - agenting photographers look on the suits as the greatest boon to photography since Sally Rand discovered fans.

"A Bikini suit," said one academic lensman, "gives more cheesecake per square inch than a Minsky stripper shows in a week."

Court Sessions To Be Held In Hagerstown

Associate Judge George Henderson will be in Hagerstown next week to hear trials on the criminal docket of Washington County Circuit Court, he has announced.

He will be there Monday through Friday returning here Saturday. Monday, December 4, and Tuesday, December 5, he will return to Washington County for the manslaughter case involving an Allegany County man.

Judge Henderson said the case is against William J. Hughes, 24, of Midland, who was the driver of the truck that struck and killed Thomas Robertson, 43, of Lonaconing, last May 3 during picketing operations on Old Cemetery Road, Knapp's Meadow.

The trial was ordered moved to Hagerstown in October from Allegany County Circuit Court after affidavits were produced attempting to prove that Hughes would not get a fair and impartial trial here.

An oldie but is still good is the story of the cranky storekeeper in a backwoods Alabama town who told a traveling salesman, "Things is so high, nobody hearabouts has got money fer anything." "We sure are," agreed the storekeeper. "Voted straight Democrat all my life, and my Pappy and Granpappy afore me. But let me tell you something, Mister. 512 Highway Deaths Noted

If all persons killed by speed or carelessness on Maryland highways in 1949 stood hand in hand, they would form a human chain a half mile long.

This fact was brought out this week by Dr. Russell S. Fisher, chief medical examiner of Maryland, in his annual report to Governor Lane on the work of the Department of Post Mortem Examiners.

The examiners performed a total of 4,173 post mortems. Major causes of death, besides 512 highway casualties, were disease, accidents such as falls, suicides, and homicides.

Of the highway deaths, Dr. Fisher commented, "It is our belief that the public does not realize fully the dangers inherent in even the "temperate drinking of alcoholic beverages when coupled with the use of the automobile."

He reported that a Baltimore study showed seven out of 15 drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking before the accident. Of the 39 pedestrians killed, ten may well owe their deaths to alcohol rather than to negligence of drivers, he added.

Commenting on the 309 Maryland deaths by suicide, he said that if it is true that most suicides occur during a period of mental unbalance, "Then the need for wider extension of mental hygiene and psychiatric guidance is evident." There were 231 male ad 78 female suicides. The chief means were illuminating gas, hanging, firearms, and sleeping tablets.

During the year there were 159 murders, chiefly effected with firearms, sharp and blunt instruments.

Police Say No Drinking At Alco-Sentinel Game

Intoxicants will not be tolerated today at the Alco-Sentinel football game in Fort Hill Stadium, Chief of Police Emmett Flynn has announced.

Regular members of the Cumberland Police Department and patrolmen of the auxiliary force will be on hand to direct traffic, curb confusion in general and keep imbibing at a minimum, he said.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, head of the Traffic Bureau, reported that a parking area at the rear of Fort Hill High School will accommodate about 300 cars. Motorists parking on white lines in front of the stadium and school will be arrested, he said.

Lilya said "Turkey Day" plans call for patrolmen to direct traffic with the help of signs pointing to parking areas. Only vehicles loading and unloading will be permitted to stop in front of the stadium.

The name "dune" was first given to the sand hills which stretch along the seacoast of the Netherlands and the north of France.

Nurses Make Tour Of Local Dairy Plant

Forty-eight new students at Memorial Hospital School of Nursing visited the Queen City Dairy plant yesterday afternoon for an on-the-spot inspection of pasteurization processes.

The group was accompanied by J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian; Mrs. Gladys Brooks, educational director; and Miss Violet Popp, who is in charge of classes for new students at Memorial.

The inspection visit was arranged as part of the course in food sanitation being conducted by the Health Department for the student nurses.

Classes are being held at the hospital by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, deputy state health officer; and Dowling.

The group visited the milk weighing, sampling and testing room; the compressing room where ice machines and cooling equipment are kept; the processing room and bottle filling and pasteurizing room.

The tour concluded with a visit to the dry storage room and plant laboratory. In the latter place, the students heard talks on bacteria testing and the phospotase test, which detects incomplete pasteurization.

Also explained was the "high temperature short time" pasteuri-Fahrenheit and held there at least 15 seconds, to meet U. S. Public zation process in which milk is heated to at least 160 degrees Health Code requirements.

Hospital Group Visits Dairy

Exhibits Attract Interest

Two exhibits are being held at the Cumberland Free Public Library for the remainder of this month, Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian said last night.

In connection with Book Week, which was observed November 12-18, the exhibit shows a fox reading a book about "Hansel and Gretel," while a doll, representing a child, is reading a book, "Foxie." Miss Walsh explained the artist designing the poster said he always saw pictures of children reading about animals so decided to have an animal reading about children and chose a fox because he is the smartest of animals.

Upstairs in the children's room the SS. Peter and Paul Elementary School has a Thanksgiving exhibit. It is the first this year under the sponsorship of the Civic Committee of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, with Mrs. F. Perry Smith, chairman, which is encouraging the schools of the city to submit exhibits for the children's room.

Various Thanksgiving activities were represented in panels. They depict the children's ideas of Thanksgiving, and show in the first panel a boy in the woods, who is scared at the sight of an Indian; then a turkey in a tree, which is shot by the Indian and later the boy and Indian are making a fire to cook the turkey and have their first Thanksgiving. Other ideas of Thanksgiving are shown by the hundreds of entries which include turkeys, posters, shadow boxes and booklets on the history of Thanksgiving.

A NICKEL IS STILL THE PRICE TO PAY FOR COKE

Year in, year out, through wars and depressions, through good times and bad, the price of Coca-Cola has always been a nickel—the quality has always been the same. Today, in spite of continually rising production and distribution costs, you can still get Coke for 5¢ a bottle, 25¢ a carton, $1.00 a case. We think that's a mighty big value in refreshment.

Nurses Make Tour Of Local Dairy Plant

Forty-eight new students at Memorial Hospital School of Nursing visited the Queen City Dairy plant yesterday afternoon for an on-the-spot inspection of pasteurization processes.

The group was accompanied by J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian; Mrs. Gladys Brooks, educational director; and Miss Violet Popp, who is in charge of classes for new students at Memorial.

The inspection visit was arranged as part of the course in food sanitation being conducted by the Health Department for the student nurses.

Classes are being held at the hospital by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, deputy state health officer; and Dowling.

The group visited the milk weighing, sampling and testing room; the compressing room where ice machines and cooling equipment are kept; the processing room and bottle filling and pasteurizing room.

The tour concluded with a visit to the dry storage room and plant laboratory. In the latter place, the students heard talks on bacteria testing and the phospotase test, which detects incomplete pasteurization.

Also explained was the "high temperature short time" pasteuri-Fahrenheit and held there at least 15 seconds, to meet U. S. Public zation process in which milk is heated to at least 160 degrees Health Code requirements.

Hospital Group Visits Dairy

Exhibits Attract Interest

Two exhibits are being held at the Cumberland Free Public Library for the remainder of this month, Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian said last night.

In connection with Book Week, which was observed November 12-18, the exhibit shows a fox reading a book about "Hansel and Gretel," while a doll, representing a child, is reading a book, "Foxie." Miss Walsh explained the artist designing the poster said he always saw pictures of children reading about animals so decided to have an animal reading about children and chose a fox because he is the smartest of animals.

Upstairs in the children's room the SS. Peter and Paul Elementary School has a Thanksgiving exhibit. It is the first this year under the sponsorship of the Civic Committee of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, with Mrs. F. Perry Smith, chairman, which is encouraging the schools of the city to submit exhibits for the children's room.

Various Thanksgiving activities were represented in panels. They depict the children's ideas of Thanksgiving, and show in the first panel a boy in the woods, who is scared at the sight of an Indian; then a turkey in a tree, which is shot by the Indian and later the boy and Indian are making a fire to cook the turkey and have their first Thanksgiving. Other ideas of Thanksgiving are shown by the hundreds of entries which include turkeys, posters, shadow boxes and booklets on the history of Thanksgiving.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22 (INS)—Twenty-four hours ago, Robert Dane was the chief inspector at the Technicolor plant working the night shift between midnight and 8 a.m.

Today he is the leading man in "The Bridge" given the role by Hugo Haas. Apparently Haas just loves to give breaks to unknowns! Look what he did for Beverly Michaels in "Pick-up." It will make her a star.

Haas, who will write, produce and star in "The Bridge," met the tall, dark, good-looking Dane at a party recently and the boy told him he wanted to be an actor.

But just in case he isn't a hit, he's asked for his old job back at Technicolor when the movie is finished.

As you are eating your turkey dinner, don't forget to be thankful that you are living in a great, free country; that you can sit down with your loved ones and discuss any subject you wish and that you can go to the church of your faith to thank God for your privileges as heirs to the greatest title in the world—American citizens!

Our Thanksgiving, like yours, is the day we spend with our families and friends at the bountiful board—unless, of course, you are a movie star like poor Gregory Peck who is eating tamales, tacos and chili beans on location in Nogales.

This is the anniversary of Marianne and Philip Dorn so they are substituting a wedding cake for the pumpkin pie.

Vic Damone won't eat alone. His mother flew out from New York in time to eat—and cook—Vic's dinner for him.

Me? I'll slide in just under the wire to dine with my family after a flying trip to San Francisco to put on a show for the wounded vets.

Maurice Evans' long stay in Hollywood has an interesting aftermath. He has become interested in Hollywood actors. He has signed Ruth Hussey for the Ethel Barrymore role in "Royal Family," the stage play which had such a long run on Broadway.

Ruth comes home today to have Thanksgiving with her family, and she will return to New York in time for rehearsals in January.

Maurice, who will not appear in this play as an actor, is also interested in getting Robert Walker to star in a revival of "Golden Boy" on Broadway in the spring. Bob has all but signed the contract.

An eyebrow lifter — Dan Dailey and his estranged wife, Liz, very chummy at the Sportsmen's Lodge. They say it was just a friendly get together over the property settlement.

The late Carole Landis' house is up for sale again. The present owner tried to dispose of the property at the time of Carole's tragic death but no takers.

Irene Hervey, back from Europe minus Alan Jones, telling friends at the House of Murphy that he won't be home from England until January.

Poor Joan Evans won't even get a nibble on a turkey bone. She had two impacted wisdom teeth out today.

It isn't too late to send CARE a check for a holiday package for the needy all over the world. Get out that checkbook—do it now

Betty Meehan called to tell me that her lovely little daughter, Frances Meehan, opens tomorrow at the Pasadena Playhouse in Lynn Root's new comedy, "Heaven Help The Angels."

The two women in Franchot Tone's life, Barbara Payton and Jean Wallace, were at Mocambo's community sing night ignoring each other politely. Barbara was with Bob Calhoun and Jean with Kurt Grotter.

Jose Ferrer sat out the premiere of "Cyrano" in a Beverly Hills cafe because he was scared of the Hollywood reaction! And all they said was—he's terrific.

That clever child actor, eight-year-old Gordon Gebert, plays Ray Milland's juvenile pal in "People In Love" at Paramount.

Patricia Medina goes with David Selznick and Jennifer Jones to Arrowhead Springs for the weekend.

That's all today. See you Saturday.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE INDIRECT SERVICE

BESIDES the chance of enabling your side to buy a desirable contract, an immediate overcall of the opponents' opening bid can render several other services for your side. One indirect service is its influence on the bidding of the other fellows. Sometimes it happens that they have a good situation for seeking a No Trump game, with each of them owning a single stopper in your suit. But neither knows about his partner's stopper and may be unwilling to take the risk of such a contract with only a single winner in your suit.

	♠ Q J 10 6 4 ♥ 10 5 ♦ A 6 5 ♣ J 9 4
♠ A 8 7 ♥ A 9 6 ♦ K Q J 10 8 4 ♣ K	N W E S	♠ K 5 ♥ K J 8 3 ♦ 9 7 ♣ Q 8 7 5 2
	♠ 9 3 2 ♥ Q 7 4 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ A 10 6 3

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

	West	North	East	South
1.	1 ♦	1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♠
	3 ♦
2.	1 ♦	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
	2 ♦	Pass	2 NT	Pass
	3 NT

Notice the influence that North's overcall at Table 1 exerted on the rest of the bidding. East extended himself a bit to make his free bid of 2-Clubs over the 1-Spade by North, a call which might have been easy if North had passed and he was keeping the bidding open for a possibly strong partner. South's tenuous showing of a spade fit made the job still tougher for the stronger pair.

West, with just the singleton K in his partner's suit and the single stopper of the A in spades, felt that he had better rebid diamonds. When the 3-Diamonds reached East, he was afraid to try 3-No Trumps, as he expected his spade K to be consumed in the first trick or two, after which it would be necessary to run eight consecutive additional tricks. He of course didn't know about his partner's spade A. A bolder bidder would have tried the 3-No Trumps in his position. But bear in mind that in bridge you are playing against the particular human beings you happen to have at your right and left, and many of them react the way both East and West did here.

At Table 2 of the same duplicate game, North did not like to overcall with his hand—bad judgment when he was not vulnerable and the opponents were. His pass left it easy for the other side to bid smoothly into a natural No Trump game, which could be made plus an extra trick by normal play. Only the same ten tricks, for no game, were made in the diamond contract.

If West bids 1-Heart, East 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades, West 3-Clubs, North doubles, East 3-Hearts and North doubles that, what factor makes North's defense awkward?

POSITION CHANGES RANK

IT IS perfectly true that the location of your honors in the opponent's trump suit has a big influence on their trick-taking value. If they are at the left of the hostile honors, they ordinarily are more valuable than if they were at the right. But it is also true that their rank is altered, so far as effectiveness is concerned, if your partner has none of the suit and can't lead them through the declarer. A canny player of the cards may manage to make you wind up leading a trump to him.

	♠ J 2 ♥ A Q 10 6 2 ♦ A 7 ♣ Q 9 8 7
♠ A 5 ♥ K 9 8 4 3 ♦ 8 ♣ A J 5 3 2	N W E S	♠ Q 10 8 ♥ J 7 5 ♦ Q 10 5 4 3 ♣ K 6

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♦	2 ♠
3 ♣	Dbl	3 ♥	Pass
Pass	Dbl

A player should not double such contracts with a hand like North's unless he knows how to do a sound job of defensive play. In this case, he botched it so badly that the declarer made the contract and got away with a game which was surely not dealt in the cards.

North opened the J of his partner's spades. The Q went on and South decided not to cover, putting on his 3. The diamond 3 was led, South playing low and the 8 forcing the A. Now the spade 2 brought the 8, 9 and A and the heart 3 was led. North, if he realized the awkwardness of the situation, should have come in with the Q, laid down the A and then led the 2 to destroy the dummy's ruffing ability. But he put on the 2, and West finessed the 7 successfully—pretty low for a first round trick.

The club K and A were scored and the 3 ruffed by the heart 5. The closed hand was re-entered by ruffing the diamond 4 with the heart 4 and the club 5 ruffed by the heart J. That made three tricks won by dummy's three trumps. Now, with North having nothing but four trumps and West already owning eight tricks, the spade 10 was led, the club J being put on it. North had to ruff, which he did with the heart 6. But nothing could now prevent him from giving West the contract trick with the heart K. He scored the A, then led the 10 to the K, and the Q took the final trick.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Arthur Godfrey In Three Colors

I TOOK three strong drinks today and then went off to look at Arthur Godfrey in three colors. "We anticipated something of an historic occasion—the first regularly scheduled commercial color television program. But due to circumstances beyond our control . . ." said the announcer. The circumstances were a court action in Chicago. The occasion, with or without court action, was somewhat less than historic.

John Crosby

Godfrey in full color, the real live Godfrey who is displayed over at CBS in an open cage during the hours he's not on the air, is a wonderfully colorful spectacle. His hair is brick red, a sort of dark Williamsburg brick—aged, it seems by several centuries. His freckled and ruddy complexion contributes a good deal to a personality that is easily one of the wonders of our time.

• — • — •

In color, though—that is, televised CBS color as opposed to 485 Madison Avenue color or as it is sometimes known God's color—Godfrey was a grave disappointment. Arthur's hair, one of the glories of the universe, came out pretty close to black. His complexion was streaked with red lines, like an Indian in full warpaint, and when he wrinkled his forehead, he looked as if he had scarlet fever.

This is especially frustrating to me because I have touted CBS color television to my friends for months as a very fine thing. However, the CBS color I have seen has been piped into CBS studios; this was actually broadcast over the air in order to demonstrate what would come into your homes, provided all those legal barriers were lifted. Well, CBS color is still a pretty wonderful thing but it is not as good as I had said it was, (though, of course, it is always astonishing to anyone who is accustomed to black and white).

As a show, the first almost-regularly-scheduled commercial television show wasn't much. It opened, as do all CBS color combinations, with Miss Patty Painter who is generally known around CBS as Miss Color Television. Miss Painter has been in full color longer than any other living human being. She is a blonde with blue eyes, endowed with a magnificent facility for gab. In fact, they turn her on at CBS like a water spigot—fifteen minutes, half an hour or hour, forever—and Miss Patty Painter, as long as the color cameras are on her, displays and discusses roses, anemones, taffeta, green lace, black lace, Chesterfields, Palmolive, Dreft, Rinso—well, name anything. She can do this indefinitely. It'd be a terrible thing if the CBS vice president in charge of Patty Painter forgot to turn her off some night. They'd find her in all the primary colors, still talking about the beauty of anemones the next morning.

In order to get an objective look at Miss Painter, I took along my secretary—she's a girl—whose outlook on females is more disinterested than mine. I append her comments: "Struck by fact inanimate objects look wonderful but Patty Painter looks awful. Skin a pale gray. Mouth smeary. Hair brassy with greenish tinge and dark roots." I wouldn't have been that severe myself but I think that girls have an eye for feminine details which elude me.

The tri-color Godfrey—I'll take this chore on personally—wore a lei of red carnations, a print Hawaiian shirt and posed against a pale blue painted sea, strumming a ukelele. "From the sublime to the ridiculous," he muttered as the color cameras shifted from Miss Painter to himself. He sang a song, "When You Love The Ukelele Style", and then introduced a Hawaiian dancer, outfitted in a blue fringe skirt, silver girdle, blue halter and pink carnation lei. She danced.

• — • — •

Janette Davis, of the regular Godfrey crew, appeared. Miss Davis is a red head, too, but she appeared almost black-haired to the color cameras. More comments from my secretary: "Hair looks dull, dark brown and lips smeary. Skin ghastly pale shade. Everybody looks as if they have hangovers." The two sang a duet, "If I Had You On A Dessert Island," a song which appears to reflect temporary neuroses, and then fell to discussing color television. "Peter Goldmark and Frank Stanton have got 98 per cent of their blood in it. That's why it's good," says Mr. Godfrey.

It's only fair to add—having looked over the rather sour comments above—that color television brings a depth and detail to television that isn't possible in black and white. The first almost-regularly-scheduled commercial telecast just didn't do it justice.

Arthur Godfrey In Three Colors

John Crosby

I TOOK three strong drinks today and then went off to look at Arthur Godfrey in three colors. "We anticipated something of an historic occasion—the first regularly scheduled commercial color television program. But due to circumstances beyond our control . . ." s d the announcer. The circumstances were a court action in Chicago. The occa ion, with or wi out court act n, was some at less than his ric.

Godfrey i full color, the re live Godfrey w o is displayed er at CBS in open cage du g the hours he not on the air, a wonderfully colorful spect cle. His hair i brick red, a sor of dark Wil jamsburg brick—aged, it seems by several centuries. His freckle ard ruddy complexion contribut a good deal to a personality tha is easily one of the wonders of ou time.

In color, though— hat i, televised CBS color as oppose to 485 Madison Avenue color o as it is sometimes known God color—Godfrey was a grave disappointment. Arthur's hair, o of the glories of the universe, ame out pretty close to black. H complexion was streaked with re lines, like an Indian in full warpaint, and when he wrinkled his orehead, he looked as if he had sca et fever.

This is especially ustrating to me because I have to ed CBS color television to my frie s for months as a very fine thin However, the CBS color I have se has been piped into CBS studic this was actually broadcast ove the air in order to demonstrate wat would come into your homes, ovided all those legal barriers wer lifted. Well, CBS color is still a retty wonderful thing but it is n as good as I had said it was, (t ugh, of course, it is always aston ning to anyone who is accustomed black and white).

As a show, e first almost-regularly-schedule commercial television show wa t much. It opened, as do all CBS or combinations, with Miss Patty ainter who is generally known aro d CBS as Miss Color Television Miss Painter has been in full color nger than any other living hum being. She is a blonde with bl eyes, endowed with a magnifi nt facility for gab. In fact, they t n her on at CBS like a water igot—fifteen minutes, half an hou or hour, forever—and Miss Patty ainter, as long as the color c ers are on her, displays and disc ses roses, anemones, taffeta, gre lace, black lace, Chesterfields, Pa olive, Dreft, Rinso—well, name ar hing. She can do this indef-in ely. It'd be a terrible thing if the CS vice president in charge of tty Painter forgot to turn her f some night. They'd find her in l the primary colors, still talking bout the beauty of anemones the ext morning.

In order to get an objective look at Miss Painter, I took along my secretary—she's a girl—whose outlook on females is more disinterested than mine. I append her comments: "Struck by fact inanimate objects look wonderful but Patty Painter looks awful. Skin a pale gray. Mouth smeary. Hair brassy with greenish tinge and dark roots." I wouldn't have been that severe myself but I think that girls have an eye for feminine details which elude me.

The tri-color Godfrey—I'll take this chore on personally—wore a lei of red carnations, a print Hawaiian shirt and posed against a pale blue painted sea, strumming a ukelele. "From the sublime to the ridiculous," he muttered as the color cameras shifted from Miss Painter to himself. He sang a song, "When You Love The Ukelele Style", and then introduced a Hawaiian dancer, outfitted in a blue fringe skirt, silver girdle, blue halter and pink carnation lei. She danced.

• — • — •

Janette Davis, of the regular Godfrey crew, appeared. Miss Davis is a red head, too, but she appeared almost black-haired to the color cameras. More comments from my secretary: "Hair looks dull, dark brown and lips smeary. Skin ghastly pale shade. Everybody looks as if they have hangovers." The two sang a duet, "If I Had You On A Dessert Island," a song which appears to reflect temporary neuroses, and then fell to discussing color television. "Peter Goldmark and Frank Stanton have got 98 per cent of their blood in it. That's why it's good," says Mr. Godfrey.

It's only fair to add—having looked over the rather sour comments above—that color television brings a depth and detail to television that isn't possible in black and white. The first almost-regularly-scheduled commercial telecast just didn't do it justice.

Oakland's Yule Season To Open Saturday Night

Decorations Will Be Illuminated Then

OAKLAND — The Christmas season will officially open Saturday night with the turning on of street decorations and a concert by the Terra Alta High School band, according to Karl Lehman, chairman of the mercantile division of the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce.

Lehman said Oakland stores would have holiday merchandise on display beginning this week, and called attention to the large variety of gift items offered.

Beginning December 7, stores will remain open each Thursday afternoon through December 28, he added, to give shoppers in the area an opportunity to complete their gift lists.

Special events are planned each Saturday until Christmas. On December 2, a free children's movie will be shown at the Maryland Theatre beginning at 9 a.m. All children will be admitted free to this special cartoon program.

On December 9, a number of valuable prizes will be given to shoppers at 3 p.m. The awards will be distributed on the corner of Alder and Second Streets.

Saturday, December 16, promises to be the big day, with the arrival of Santa Claus and the distribution of the annual kiddies treat. This will take place on the Episcopal Church lawn at 2 p.m.

He has been chosen as "Poster Boy" for the 1951 March of Dimes campaign for $50,000,000 next January. The youth was stricken with polio in 1949. (International)

Five Additional Gas Permits Issued In Garrett County By State Board

More Wells Planned In Mt. Lake Area

OAKLAND—Five additional permits for gas wells have been issued by the Maryland Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources to drill wells in the immediate vicinity of Mt. Lake Park.

Dr. Joseph T. Singewald, Jr., state geologist, made the announcement at a recent dinner at the Pickwick Inn given by officials of the Columbian Carbon Company. Oakland officials also attended.

Permits have been issued to the Columbian Carbon Company, the Nollem Oil and Gas Corporation, the Petroleum Drilling Company and two to Sneel and Eberly.

Two Wells In

Interest was apparently stimulated by the bringing in of two wells by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and the Columbian Carbon Company in 1949 and 1950 respectively.

The Deer Park anticline extends across the county from the West Virginia line in a northeasterly direction to the Pennsylvania line for a distance of nearly 50 miles. A well recently drilled northeast of Avilton was a dry hole, but Dr. Singewald declared the entire 50 miles was a potential gas-producing territory worthy of careful geologic study for structural highs.

The Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, had been waiting completion of the topographic resurvey of the county. This would provide a topographic base map that would permit the more accurate mapping of the structural details.

The new topographic map became available in 1949 and Dr. Thomas W. Amsden spent the summers of 1949 and 1950 in mapping portions of this anticline, including areas to the southwest and to the northeast of Mt. Lake Park.

Map Valuable

Although this work was undertaken to provide a new geologic map of the county, the portion completed is especially valuable in connection with the present gas explorations, Dr. Singewald said.

The Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, is also logging cuttings from the wells in an effort to find horizon markers in the thick series of shales that overlie the gas horizon. These will be helpful guides to drillers.

Officials of the Columbian Carbon company present at the dinner were O. W. Van Petten, Lloyd Haynes, Sigle Burdette, A. G. Womack, Robert Jarvis, Clark Lewis, Eugene Campbell, R. B. Anderson, Lee Byrd, Vernon Vande Linde.

Oakland's Yule Season To Open Saturday Night

Decorations Will Be Illuminated Then

OAKLAND — The Christmas season will officially open Saturday night with the turning on of street decorations and a concert by the Terra Alta High School band, according to Karl Lehman, chairman of the mercantile division of the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce.

Lehman said Oakland stores would have holiday merchandise on display beginning this week, and called attention to the large variety of gift items offered.

Beginning December 7, stores will remain open each Thursday afternoon through December 28, he added, to give shoppers in the area an opportunity to complete their gift lists.

Special events are planned each Saturday until Christmas. On December 2, a free children's movie will be shown at the Maryland Theatre beginning at 9 a.m. All children will be admitted free to this special cartoon program.

On December 9, a number of valuable prizes will be given to shoppers at 3 p.m. The awards will be distributed on the corner of Alder and Second Streets.

Saturday, December 16, promises to be the big day, with the arrival of Santa Claus and the distribution of the annual kiddies treat. This will take place on the Episcopal Church lawn at 2 p.m.

Five Additional Gas Permits Issued In Garrett County By State Board

More Wells Planned In Mt. Lake Area

OAKLAND—Five additional permits for gas wells have been issued by the Maryland Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources to drill wells in the immediate vicinity of Mt. Lake Park.

Dr. Joseph T. Singewald, Jr., state geologist, made the announcement at a recent dinner at the Pickwick Inn given by officials of the Columbian Carbon Company. Oakland officials also attended.

Permits have been issued to the Columbian Carbon Company, the Nollem Oil and Gas Corporation, the Petroleum Drilling Company and two to Sneel and Eberly.

Two Wells In

Interest was apparently stimulated by the bringing in of two wells by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and the Columbian Carbon Company in 1949 and 1950 respectively.

The Deer Park anticline extends across the county from the West Virginia line in a northeasterly direction to the Pennsylvania line for a distance of nearly 50 miles. A well recently drilled northeast of Avilton was a dry hole, but Dr. Singewald declared the entire 50 miles was a potential gas-producing territory worthy of careful geologic study for structural highs.

The Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, had been waiting completion of the topographic resurvey of the county. This would provide a topographic base map that would permit the more accurate mapping of the structural details.

The new topographic map became available in 1949 and Dr. Thomas W. Amsden spent the summers of 1949 and 1950 in mapping portions of this anticline, including areas to the southwest and to the northeast of Mt. Lake Park.

Map Valuable

Although this work was undertaken to provide a new geologic map of the county, the portion completed is especially valuable in connection with the present gas explorations, Dr. Singewald said.

The Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, is also logging cuttings from the wells in an effort to find horizon markers in the thick series of shales that overlie the gas horizon. These will be helpful guides to drillers.

Officials of the Columbian Carbon company present at the dinner were O. W. Van Petten, Lloyd Haynes, Sigle Burdette, A. G. Womack, Robert Jarvis, Clark Lewis, Eugene Campbell, R. B. Anderson, Lee Byrd, Vernon Vande Linde.

Local guests were Cecil Smith, A. D. Naylor, Dwight Stover, Joseph Hinebaugh, Howard Naylor, Nelson Langan, Emeric Dusic, Charles Briner, W. R. Offutt, J. Albert Moore Gets Two Terms In Killing Case

Frostburg Woman One Of Two Slain In July

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Albert Stark Moore, 30, has pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying of Joseph Blaney and Mrs. Margaret Lease Miller and sentenced to two terms of from 5 to 18 years each.

Blaney was bludgeoned to death with an oar wielded by Moore on the bank of the Monongahela River near Uffington last July 8 and Mrs. Miller was drowned at the same spot because she had witnessed the Blaney slaying.

Mrs. Miller, a former resident of Frostburg, was buried at Frostburg.

Moore, who lived in a cabin near one used by Blaney for fishing trips, had previously entered pleas of not guilty to the two indictments on the separate murder charges. He changed his pleas when the state agreed to second degree murder on each indictment.

According to the state's agreement Moore accepted sentences that are to run one after the other, not concurrently, and it was explained to him by Judge Charles G. Baker that he was accepting a sentence that would mean virtual life imprisonment. He indicated he understood and the sentences were imposed without recommendation for parole. The second sentence will begin after he has served the full 18 years of the first.

The bodies of Blaney, a grocer, and Mrs. Miller, a house maid, were found after Blaney's overturned fishing boat was sighted in the river, and it was first believed they had drowned accidentally. An autopsy, however, disclosed Blaney had been beaten to death and that Mrs. Miller had been drowned.

Moore was arrested two days after the discovery and confessed to county police that he had killed the couple. He said in his statement, that he had done some work on Blaney's cabin and had gone there to finish the work and collect his pay. He and Blaney argued, traded blows, and then Moore struck the grocer with the boat oar.

Mrs. Miller tried to intervene, Moore confessed, and he threw her into the river knowing that she could not swim. Blaney's body was then put into the river and Moore said he turned the boat over to make it appear as though the deaths were accidental.

Homemakers Club Is To Elect Officers Friday

WESTERNPORT — The annual election of officers of the Westernport Homemakers Club will take place at their regular monthly meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Virgil Morrison, 208 West Fairview Street, Piedmont.

Mrs. Robert Young, Cumberland, president of the Allegany County Council, who was a delegate to the National Convention of the Homemakers Club held in Biloxi, Mississippi, will give a report of the meeting. Mrs. Joseph Love, president of the local club also attended the convention.

Mrs. Maud A. Bean, Cumberland, home demonstration agent of Allegany County is expected to be present at the meeting.

IOOF Official Visits Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va.—Edward T. Davis, Wierton, grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of West Virginia, was a visitor for two days this week in Keyser.

He attended a meeting of Queen's Point Lodge, where he was guest speaker. He discussed work being done at the Odd Fellows Home in Elkins, and drew attention to financial needs of that institution, where a number of aged members of the order and orphans of deceased members are cared for.

Davis was elected to the post of grand master at the annual convention in Huntington last month, and will make visits to all parts of the state.

In speaking of the home at Elkins, the grand master said there are 50 residents in the home, including small children.

He said the endowment fund for the home exceeds a mililon dollars. It is set up so that only the interest and profits from investments may be used for current maintenance expenses and other expenses do not figure in the original investment. Due to this, he said, other means must be found to raise funds with which to make repairs and improvements that are now needed.

Davis has been visiting Eastern Panhandle counties in the past week.

Dailey Nordeck Dies In Truck Wreck

KINGWOOD, W. Va.—Winter weather claimed its first victim of the season in this section last night when Dailey Edwin Nordeck, 42, Terra Alta, a timber truck driver, ran off a secondary road on top of Briery mountain in Preston county during a snow storm and was killed.

State Trooper W. L. Pike of the Kingwood detachment, who investigated, said Nordeck apparently missed the road in the snow. About one-half inch of snow covered the highway, Pike said.

The wreck, which occurred near the home of Harry Spahr, was discovered by Roy Spahr, R. F. D. 4, Terra Alta. Spahr reported to the officer that Nordeck was dead when he found him.

The heavy timber truck left the road and plunged over a steep embankment, turning over three times, the trooper said. It came to rest about 175 feet from the road, and the driver had been thrown about 40 feet further down the slope, Pike stated.

Surviving are the parents, Earl Nordeck, Morgantown, and Eva Nordeck, Terra Alta; two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Vought and Jean Nordeck, Terra Alta; two sisters, Mrs. Kathleen Frezee, Masontown, W. Va., and Mrs. Eva Davis of Oakland, Md.

The PTA will purchase a banner to be used by the Moorefield High School band.

Grover, Mrs. Raymond Sindy and a men's team of Wade Stickley, Ted Burns, E. B. Simmons, L. R. Grover and Irvin Bowman, were question by John A. Mathias. They dealt with local government activities of the council, and various tax rates as well as West Virginia and Moorefield history. The judges, Rev. Charles Kernan, Judge H. M. Calhoun and C. B. Hiett, gave 10½ points to each side.

Refreshments were served by Home Room Sponsors for the first and second grades. The prize for the most members present went to L. Wayne Wilson's 12th grade, Miss Ella Bergdoll and Miss Mildred Racey who had a similar number of parents, giving way to the high school.

Land Purchased For State Forest

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 22 (AP) — The West Virginia Conservation Commission today authorized purchase of about 20,000 acres for a new state forest in Berkeley and Morgan Counties.

Acting at a special meeting, it also accepted a proposal to take over from the U. S. Forest Service a federal tree nursery at Parsons. The nursery is to be operated under a 15-year lease.

Land for the new state forest will be purchased for $35,000 from the Farmers Bank of Pittsburgh which has owned it since 1909. The commission was informed the bank wants to sell the property now as a preliminary to a merger with the Mellon National Bank in Pittsburgh.

The tract is about 18 miles long and from three to four miles wide. It includes two mountains and the intervening valley, through which flows Meadow Branch. Conservation Director C. F. McClintic emphasized that the land was bought for less than $2 an acre, including all mineral rights.

Commission representatives said the land had good wild turkey and other game possibilities, and that some deer now are on the land.

The sloth lives most if its life upside down.

Albert Moore Gets Two Terms In Killing Case

Frostburg Woman One Of Two Slain In July

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Albert Stark Moore, 30, has pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying of Joseph Blaney and Mrs. Margaret Lease Miller and sentenced to two terms of from 5 to 18 years each.

Blaney was bludgeoned to death with an oar wielded by Moore on the bank of the Monongahela River near Uffington last July 8 and Mrs. Miller was drowned at the same spot because she had witnessed the Blaney slaying.

Mrs. Miller, a former resident of Frostburg, was buried at Frostburg.

Moore, who lived in a cabin near one used by Blaney for fishing trips, had previously entered pleas of not guilty to the two indictments on the separate murder charges. He changed his pleas when the state agreed to second degree murder on each indictment.

According to the state's agreement Moore accepted sentences that are to run one after the other, not concurrently, and it was explained to him by Judge Charles G. Baker that he was accepting a sentence that would mean virtual life imprisonment. He indicated he understood and the sentences were imposed without recommendation for parole. The second sentence will begin after he has served the full 18 years of the first.

The bodies of Blaney, a grocer, and Mrs. Miller, a house maid, were found after Blaney's overturned fishing boat was sighted in the river, and it was first believed they had drowned accidentally. An autopsy, however, disclosed Blaney had been beaten to death and that Mrs. Miller had been drowned.

Moore was arrested two days after the discovery and confessed to county police that he had killed the couple. He said in his statement, that he had done some work on Blaney's cabin and had gone there to finish the work and collect his pay. He and Blaney argued, traded blows, and then Moore struck the grocer with the boat oar.

Mrs. Miller tried to intervene, Moore confessed, and he threw her into the river knowing that she could not swim. Blaney's body was then put into the river and Moore said he turned the boat over to make it appear as though the deaths were accidental.

Homemakers Club Is To Elect Officers Friday

WESTERNPORT — The annual election of officers of the Westernport Homemakers Club will take place at their regular monthly meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Virgil Morrison, 208 West Fairview Street, Piedmont.

Mrs. Robert Young, Cumberland, president of the Allegany County Council, who was a delegate to the National Convention of the Homemakers Club held in Biloxi, Mississippi, will give a report of the meeting. Mrs. Joseph Love, president of the local club also attended the convention.

Mrs. Maud A. Bean, Cumberland, home demonstration agent of Allegany County is expected to be present at the meeting.

IOOF Official Visits Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va.—Edward T. Davis, Wierton, grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of West Virginia, was a visitor for two days this week in Keyser.

He attended a meeting of Queen's Point Lodge, where he was guest speaker. He discussed work being done at the Odd Fellows Home in Elkins, and drew attention to financial needs of that institution, where a number of aged members of the order and orphans of deceased members are cared for.

Davis was elected to the post of grand master at the annual convention in Huntington last month, and will make visits to all parts of the state.

In speaking of the home at Elkins, the grand master said there are 50 residents in the home, including small children.

He said the endowment fund for the home exceeds a milion dollars. It is set up so that only the interest and profits from investments may be used for current maintenance expenses and other expenses do not figure in the original investment. Due to this, he said, other means must be found to raise funds with which to make repairs and improvements that are now needed.

Davis has been visiting Eastern Panhandle counties in the past week.

Dailey Nordeck Dies In Truck Wreck

KINGWOOD, W. Va.—Winter weather claimed its first victim of the season in this section last night when Dailey Edwin Nordeck, 42, Terra Alta, a timber truck driver, ran off a secondary road on top of Briery mountain in Preston county during a snow storm and was killed.

State Trooper W. L. Pike of the Kingwood detachment, who investigated, said Nordeck apparently missed the road in the snow. About one-half inch of snow covered the highway, Pike said.

The wreck, which occurred near the home of Harry Spahr, was discovered by Roy Spahr, R. F. D. 4, Terra Alta. Spahr reported to the officer that Nordeck was dead when he found him.

The heavy timber truck left the road and plunged over a steep embankment, turning over three times, the trooper said. It came to rest about 175 feet from the road, and the driver had been thrown about 40 feet further down the slope, Pike stated.

Surviving are the parents, Earl Nordeck, Morgantown, and Eva Nordeck, Terra Alta; two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Vought and Jean Nordeck, Terra Alta; two sisters, Mrs. Kathleen Frezee, Masontown, W. Va., and Mrs. Eva Davis of Oakland, Md.

Beall High School will play host to LaSalle High of Cumberland today in the fifth straight Thanksgiving Day football contest in the Mountain City.

Phil Carolan's Explorers and Joe Hoopengardner's Mountaineers will tangle in the Beall High Stadium at 2 p. m., and the home team, enjoying its best season since the sport was revived in 1946, is conceded a slight edge.

Both Beall and LaSalle lost to Allegany by the same margin—13 points. Beall whipped Keyser 41-0 and LaSalle topped KHS 24-0. LaSalle lost to Ridgeley at the local stadium, 14-13, and Beall drubbed the Hawks in Ridgeley, 28-6.

LaSalle Leads In Series

The Explorers hold a 3-1 edge in the series, 26-0, 20-0 and 25-19. Beall was the victor last year, 12-0.

The Mountaineers will be playing their 38th game in five seasons under Coach Hoopengardner and this will be the first in which they'll finish with an average of .500 or better. In the 37 contests to date, Beall has won 12 and lost 25. LaSalle will be closing out its 4th season under Phil Carolan. In 36 games under Carolan who made his debut in 1943 and also held the reins the past three years, the Explorers have won 12, lost 22 and tied 2.

Beall has a 4-0-3 record for the season while LaSalle has won one and lost eight.

Play In Final Game

Eight LaSalle seniors will be playing their final high school game today. They are Jimmy Byrnes, Lucindo Fabbri, Joseph Fair, Charles Hines, Thomas Keech, James Moran, Ronald Proud and Ronald Ruffo.

Who Won? Winner Will Know In December

NEW YORK, (AP)—The winner of the Wanamaker Mile race at the 1950 Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden will not be decided until the national AAU convention in Washington, D. C., in December—nearly a year after the race was run.

Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin and Fred Wilt of the New York A. C. breasted the tape in a virtual dead heat when the race was held last January. First the judges awarded the decision to Gehrman, but the local AAU body decided that the judging procedure was incorrect and gave the win to Wilt.

Finally, the problem of "who won" was thrown in the lap of the national AAU convention, and that group will decide whether Gehrmann or Wilt came home first.

Cheering For Brother Costs Player $100 Fine

DETROIT — (AP) — Gil Johnson, quarterback with the Detroit Lions football team, learned the expensive way that blood is thicker than water. Johnson, former SMU star who played with the New York Yankees in 1949, has a brother, Bill Johnson, with the San Francisco '49ers.

"I was riding the bench when Bill intercepted a Yankee pass and ran for a touchdown," Gil recounts. "I automatically stood up and cheered my older brother. The Yankee coach acted automatically, too. He fined me a hundred dollars for what he said was 'fraternizing' on my part."

Staley Retires After 21 Years As Grid Official

Potomac Valley Group Re-elects Shelton

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 22—Daniel R. Staley, veteran football coach and game official, announced at the annual dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Officials' Association Tuesday at the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, that he was concluding 21 years' activity in the sport.

Staley told the group that he made his decision after long thought. A native of Frederick county, Md., where he was born on a farm, Staley began his career as an official-coach 21 years ago in Pennsylvania. After coaching at several schools in the Keystone State he turned to officiating. He once taught school in Mt. Savage, went to Pennsylvania to coach and later served as manager of the Cumberland office of the Maryland Unemployment Service. At the present time he is personnel manager of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant at Luke, Md.

In announcing his retirement, Staley stated that football officiating has come a long way since he started officiating and added that the game is better because officiating is better.

Don Phillips, head coach of Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va., said that he, too, has seen a vast improvement in officiating, especially in the past two years. He expressed the belief that there are too many officials who want to be referees and added that more good umpires are needed as they are the men who are closest to the players and the plays.

John Shelton was reelected president of the association and John A. Blough was named secretary-treasurer. The vice-presidency, an honorary post, was given to Dan Staley for the coming year.

A "bull session" was held during which questions and answers were featured. Participating in this session were: Dana G. "Horse" Lough, William Hahn, Eck Miers, Bobby Cavanaugh, Edward Milbrada, Fred "Tack" Clark, Richard "Dick" McIlwee, Charles "Shack" Bolyard, Brother Joseph, LaSalle High School; John J. Blough, Johnny Paugh, Jim Gaffney and Dan Staley.

Others who were in attendance were: Ralph D. Basilio, Robert E. Pence, Jonathan Paugh, Eck Miers, G. R. Hawkins, Hurbert J. Feeney, James T. Gaffney, John Angellatta, Carl E. Diehl, William B. Orndorff, C. William Spangler, John Barger and W. A. "Mike" Wenner.

Ed Sadowski of the Baltimore Bullets, a veteran of 10 years of pro basketball play, has been placed on the retirement list by the Bullets.

Tom Henrich Plans Broadcasting Stint

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — The New York Yankees said today that there is a possibility that outfielder-first baseman Tommy Henrich may assist in the broadcast of Yankee baseball games next year.

Yankee publicity director Red Paterson pointed out, however, that the subject had just reached the "conversation stage."

Henrich, who was signed by the Yanks as a free agent in 1936, saw limited service last year because of a bad knee.

Sanctioned Little Baseball Leagues now are operating in 28 states and total 302. The players must be between the ages of eight and 12.

Georgia To Play In "Cup" Contest

Signs To Meet Texas A. & M. Dec. 9

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Touchdown-Happy Texas A. and M. and defense-minded Georgia will meet in the Presidential Cup football game Dec. 9.

Representatives of the two schools today signed a contract with the American Legion, sponsors of the game. It will be played in the University of Maryland stadium in surburban College Park, Md.

Texas A. and M. won six games and lost three, all by close margins. It bowed to Oklahoma, 34-28; to Baylor, 27-20, and to Rice, 21-13. It still has one game to play—and a big one it is — against Texas on Nov. 30.

Georgia has won five games, tied three and lost one, to Alabama, 14 to 7. It has two games left, and at least one could be exceedingly rough. Georgia plays Furman Nov. 25 and then meets Georgia Tech in one of those traditional dog-eat-dog affairs on Dec. 2.

Both teams are better than one might guess from a quick look at their records.

Texas A. and M. was nudged out in the final two minutes by Oklahoma, now rated the No. 1 team in the nation in the Associated Press poll.

Wadiak Sets New Grid Rushing Mark

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 22 (AP) — Steve Wadiak, University of South Carolina halfback, has set a new Southern Conference football rushing record, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau announced today.

Wadiak's 972 yards on 147 rushes so far this season have sent him past the 943 total of North Carolina's Charlie Justice during his great 1946 season, bureau records showed.

With one game remaining against Wake Forest Saturday, Wadiak, leading his nearest rival for conference rushing honors by more than 200 yards, stands a good chance of going beyond the 1,000-yard mark.

Penn Lineman Voted The Best

Bernie Lemonick Is Star Against Badgers

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — For his outstanding role in crushing Wisconsin's attack on Saturday at Philadelphia, Bernie Lemonick, 200-pound defensive left guard of the Penn Quakers, has been chosen as the Associated Press' lineman of the week.

In all, 34 of the up-front huskies were nominated for the honor by the nation's sportswriters and radiocasters, but Lemonick's striking performance in the key intersectional game won him the heaviest support.

The two who pressed Lemonick hardest for the week's laurels were Elmer Costa of North Carolina State, a tackle, and Bobbie Ward of Maryland, a guard. Each received four nominations from Southern experts.

Another Southern bulwark who received strong backing was Bill (Pug) Pearman, Tennessee's rugged tackle. Three press box observers extolled his "vicious" tackling against Mississippi and gave him most of the credit for stopping John Dottley, Old Miss' great runner.

Other linemen who received lavish praise included center Irving Hollash, of North Carolina for his brilliant defense play in the Tar Heels' 14-7 victory over South Carolina, and Paul Giroski, Rice tackle, for his all-around excellence in the Owls' upset of the Texas Aggies.

Culmone Boosts Lead Over Rival

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — Joe Culmone took the lead over Willie Shoemaker in their battle for 1950 jockey honors by riding a triple today at Bowie.

This gave Culmone 336 victories for the season compared to 333 for Shoemaker who was blanked in the first six races at Hollywood.

Five years have elapsed since a football team from Allegany High School gained the verdict over a gridiron aggregation from Fort Hill.

Today the Blue and White and the Scarlet and White come to grips for the 15th straight year in a Thanksgivig Day contest and the undefeated and unbeaten eleven coached by William P. Hahn has been installed as the favorite by two or three touchdowns.

Sentinels Won 16 In Row

On the eve of the game here were some of the questions the fans were asking:

1. Can AHS crack the Sentinels' winning streak of 16 games that began early in the 1949 season?

2. Will the Sentinels become Cumberland's first undefeated and untied grid team since the AHS eleven of 1942?

3. The biggest victory margin in this series is 25 points. Can Fort Hill's powerhouse which bumped off teams like Washington and Lee (Arlington), Martinsburg, Hagerstown and Bedford by comfortable margins whip AHS by more than 25 points?

4. Could this be Bob Pence's year? His teams have never won a Turkey Day game and his 1948 eleven got a 6-6 draw.

Fort Hill goes into the final battle of the season with an 8-0 record. The Campers have won 7 and lost 2. Both schools whipped Martinsburg, Keyser, LaSalle and Ridgeley. Hagerstown trimmed AHS 12-6 while Fort Hill downed the Hubs, 20-7.

Game Off Air Lanes

The game promises to attract about 7,000 persons to the stadium. The opening kickoff is set for 2 o'clock. There will be no radio broadcast as in recent years.

General admission tickets for standing room will go on sale at the stadium this morning.

Allegany students and rooters will occupy the concrete stand on the west side of the stadium while the wooden stands on the east side of the field have been reserved for Fort Hill.

Fort Hill's co-captains are Kenneth Owens and Eddie Landis while three captains, namely, Kenneth "Mike" Birmingham, Don "Elbie" Fletcher and Ronnie Chapman will captain the Campers.

Allegany will sport blue jerseys and the Hilltoppers will don white.

The Officials

Officials for the contest are Newton Anderson, assistant principal at Buckhannon (W.Va.) High School, referee; Fred P. "Chick" Weihl, principal of Weston (W.Va.) High School, umpire; Hank Mazza, Clarksburg (W.Va.) high school coach, head linesman, and Dr. Louis J. Wojcihovski, coach at Mt. St. Joseph's, Baltimore, field judge. Weihl and Anderson will be working the local classic for the fifth consecutive year.

Bands of both schools will participate in the pre-game and half-time ceremonies.

Who Won? Winner Will Know In December

NEW YORK, (AP)—The winner of the Wanamaker Mile race at the 1950 Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden will not be decided until the national AAU convention in Washington, D. C., in December—nearly a year after the race was run.

Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin and Fred Wilt of the New York A. C. breasted the tape in a virtual dead heat when the race was held last January. First the judges awarded the decision to Gehrman, but the local AAU body decided that the judging procedure was incorrect and gave the win to Wilt.

Finally, the problem of "who won" was thrown in the lap of the national AAU convention, and that group will decide whether Gehrmann or Wilt came home first.

Cheering For Brother Costs Player $100 Fine

DETROIT — (AP) — Gil Johnson, quarterback with the Detroit Lions football team, learned the expensive way that blood is thicker than water. Johnson, former SMU star who played with the New York Yankees in 1949, has a brother, Bill Johnson, with the San Francisco '49ers.

"I was riding the bench when Bill intercepted a Yankee pass and ran for a touchdown," Gil recounts. "I automatically stood up and cheered my older brother. The Yankee coach acted automatically, too. He fined me a hundred dollars for what he said was 'fraternizing' on my part."

Staley Retires After 21 Years As Grid Official

Potomac Valley Group Re-elects Shelton

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 22—Daniel R. Staley, veteran football coach and game official, announced at the annual dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Officials' Association Tuesday at the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, that he was concluding 21 years' activity in the sport.

Staley told the group that he made his decision after long thought. A native of Frederick county, Md., where he was born on a farm, Staley began his career as an official-coach 21 years ago in Pennsylvania. After coaching at several schools in the Keystone State he turned to officiating. He once taught school in Mt. Savage, went to Pennsylvania to coach and later served as manager of the Cumberland office of the Maryland Unemployment Service. At the present time he is personnel manager of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant at Luke, Md.

In announcing his retirement, Staley stated that football officiating has come a long way since he started officiating and added that the game is better because officiating is better.

Don Phillips, head coach of Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va., said that he, too, has seen a vast improvement in officiating, especially in the past two years. He expressed the belief that there are too many officials who want to be referees and added that more good umpires are needed as they are the men who are closest to the players and the plays.

John Shelton was reelected president of the association and John A. Blough was named secretary-treasurer. The vice-presidency, an honorary post, was given to Dan Staley for the coming year.

A "bull session" was held during which questions and answers were featured. Participating in this session were: Dana G. "Horse" Lough, William Hahn, Eck Miers, Bobby Cavanaugh, Edward Milbrada, Fred "Tack" Clark, Richard "Dick" McIlwee, Charles "Shack" Bolyard, Brother Joseph, LaSalle High School; John J. Blough, Johnny Paugh, Jim Gaffney and Dan Staley.

Others who were in attendance were: Ralph D. Basilio, Robert E. Pence, Jonathan Paugh, Eck Miers, G. R. Hawkins, Hurbert J. Feeney, James T. Gaffney, John Angellatta, Carl E. Diehl, William B. Orndorff, C. William Spangler, John Barger and W. A. "Mike" Wenner.

Ed Sadowski of the Baltimore Bullets, a veteran of 10 years of pro basketball play, has been placed on the retirement list by the Bullets.

Tom Henrich Plans Broadcasting Stint

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — The New York Yankees said today that there is a possibility that outfielder-first baseman Tommy Henrich may assist in the broadcast of Yankee baseball games next year.

Yankee publicity director Red Paterson pointed out, however, that the subject had just reached the "conversation stage."

Henrich, who was signed by the Yanks as a free agent in 1936, saw limited service last year because of a bad knee.

Sanctioned Little Baseball Leagues now are operating in 28 states and total 302. The players must be between the ages of eight and 12.

Vols Accept Bid To Cotton Bowl

DALLAS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Tennessee tonight was selected to play Texas in the Cotton Bowl January 1.

Tennessee, coached by Bob Neyland, a former Texas A. and M. football player, has won eight of nine games this season and has two to play—against Kentucky Nov. 25 and Vanderbilt Dec. 2.

The lone loss was 7-0 to Mississippi State early in the season.

Texas, champion of the Southwest Conference, has won seven out of eight games with two to play—Texas A. and M. Nov. 30 and Louisiana State Dec. 9. The lone loss was 14-13 to Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team.

Georgia To Play In "Cup" Contest

Signs To Meet Texas A. & M. Dec. 9

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Touchdown-Happy Texas A. and M. and defense-minded Georgia will meet in the Presidential Cup football game Dec. 9.

Representatives of the two schools today signed a contract with the American Legion, sponsors of the game. It will be played in the University of Maryland stadium in surburban College Park, Md.

Texas A. and M. won six games and lost three, all by close margins. It bowed to Oklahoma, 34-28; to Baylor, 27-20, and to Rice, 21-13. It still has one game to play—and a big one it is — against Texas on Nov. 30.

Georgia has won five games, tied three and lost one, to Alabama, 14 to 7. It has two games left, and at least one could be exceedingly rough. Georgia plays Furman Nov. 25 and then meets Georgia Tech in one of those traditional dog-eat-dog affairs on Dec. 2.

Both teams are better than one might guess from a quick look at their records.

Texas A. and M. was nudged out in the final two minutes by Oklahoma, now rated the No. 1 team in the nation in the Associated Press poll.

Wadiak Sets New Grid Rushing Mark

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 22 (AP) — Steve Wadiak, University of South Carolina halfback, has set a new Southern Conference football rushing record, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau announced today.

Wadiak's 972 yards on 147 rushes so far this season have sent him past the 943 total of North Carolina's Charlie Justice during his great 1946 season, bureau records showed.

With one game remaining against Wake Forest Saturday, Wadiak, leading his nearest rival for conference rushing honors by more than 200 yards, stands a good chance of going beyond the 1,000-yard mark.

Penn Lineman Voted The Best

Bernie Lemonick Is Star Against Badgers

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — For his outstanding role in crushing Wisconsin's attack on Saturday at Philadelphia, Bernie Lemonick, 200-pound defensive left guard of the Penn Quakers, has been chosen as the Associated Press' lineman of the week.

In all, 34 of the up-front huskies were nominated for the honor by the nation's sportswriters and radio casters, but Lemonick's striking performance in the key intersectional game won him the heaviest support.

The two who pressed Lemonick hardest for the week's laurels were Elmer Costa of North Carolina State, a tackle, and Bobbie Ward of Maryland, a guard. Each received four nominations from Southern experts.

Another Southern bulwark who received strong backing was Bill (Pug) Pearman, Tennessee's rugged tackle. Three press box observers extolled his "vicious" tackling against Mississippi and gave him most of the credit for stopping John Dottley, Old Miss' great runner.

Other linemen who received lavish praise included center Irving Holdash, of North Carolina for his brilliant defense play in the Tar Heels' 14-7 victory over South Carolina, and Paul Giroski, Rice tackle, for his all-around excellence in the Owls' upset of the Texas Aggies.

Culmone Boosts Lead Over Rival

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — Joe Culmone took the lead over Willie Shoemaker in their battle for 1950 jockey honors by riding four winners today at Bowie.

A crowd of 4,921 saw little Joe boot home His Image, $7.00 in the third; True Dream $8.80, in the sixth and Eugarp, $6.00, in the eighth and last race.

This gave Culmone 336 victories for the season compared to 333 for Shoemaker who was blanked in the first six races at Hollywood.

Five years have elapsed since a football team from Allegany High School gained the verdict over a gridiron aggregation from Fort Hill.

Today the Blue and White and the Scarlet and White come to grips for the 15th straight year in a Thanksgivig Day contest and the undefeated and unbeaten eleven coached by William P. Hahn has been installed as the favorite by two or three touchdowns.

Sentinels Won 16 In Row

On the eve of the game here were some of the questions the fans were asking:

1. Can AHS crack the Sentinels' winning streak of 16 games that began early in the 1949 season?

2. Will the Sentinels become Cumberland's first undefeated and untied grid team since the AHS eleven of 1942?

3. The biggest victory margin in this series is 25 points. Can Fort Hill's powerhouse which bumped off teams like Washington and Lee (Arlington), Martinsburg, Hagerstown and Bedford by comfortable margins whip AHS by more than 25 points?

4. Could this be Bob Pence's year? His teams have never won a Turkey Day game and his 1948 eleven got a 6-6 draw.

Fort Hill goes into the final battle of the season with an 8-0 record. The Campers have won 7 and lost 2. Both schools whipped Martinsburg, Keyser, LaSalle and Ridgeley. Hagerstown trimmed AHS 12-6 while Fort Hill downed the Hubs, 20-7.

Game Off Air Lanes

The game promises to attract about 7,000 persons to the stadium. The opening kickoff is set for 2 o'clock. There will be no radio broadcast as in recent years.

General admission tickets for standing room will go on sale at the stadium this morning.

Allegany students and rooters will occupy the concrete stand on the west side of the stadium while the wooden stands on the east side of the field have been reserved for Fort Hill.

Fort Hill's co-captains are Kenneth Owens and Eddie Landis while three captains, namely, Kenneth "Mike" Birmingham, Don "Elbie" Fletcher and Ronnie Chapman will captain the Campers.

Allegany will sport blue jerseys and the Hilltoppers will don white.

The Officials

Officials for the contest are Newton Anderson, assistant principal at Buckhannon (W.Va.) High School, referee; Fred P. "Chick" Weihl, principal of Weston (W.Va.) High School, umpire; Hank Mazza, Clarksburg (W.Va.) high school coach, head linesman, and Dr. Louis J. Wojcichowski, coach at Mt. St. Joseph's, Baltimore, field judge. Weihl and Anderson will be working the local classic for the fifth consecutive year.

Bands of both schools will participate in the pre-game and half-time ceremonies.

THANKSGIVING

At this time, as our forefathers did, we celebrate Thanksgiving with a deep appreciation for His generosity. But now, as then, we are faced with the necessity of carrying arms to protect ourselves from forces of darkness that threaten to smother the light of liberty. Yet, with faith in Him we are certain that liberty will conquer, as it did then.

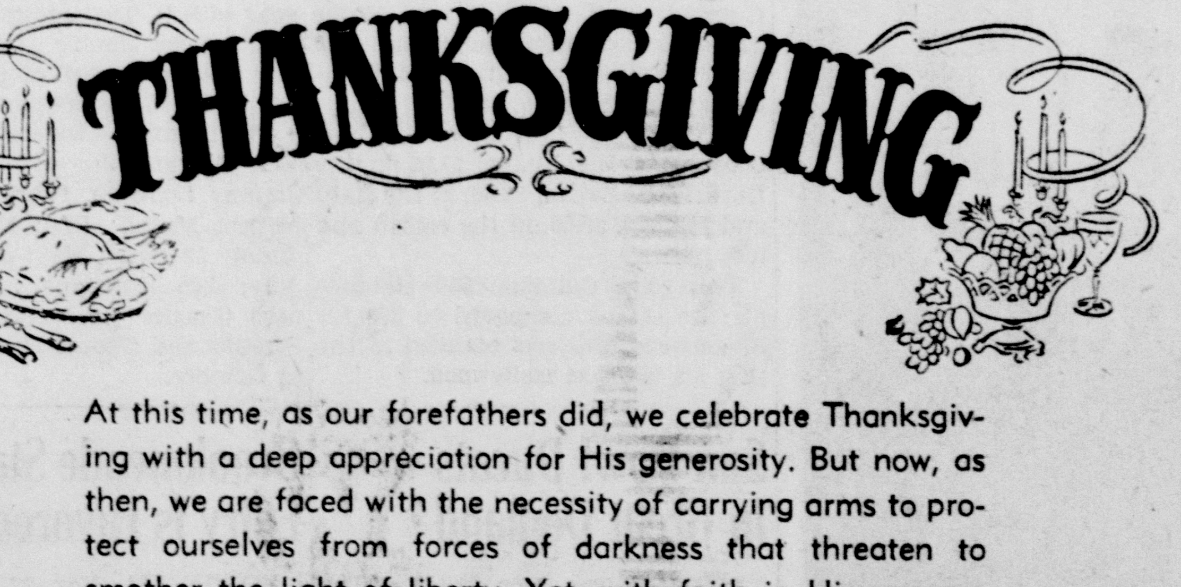
THANKSGIVING



At this time, as our forefathers did, we celebrate Thanksgiving with a deep appreciation for His generosity. But now, as then, we are faced with the necessity of carrying arms to protect ourselves from forces of darkness that threaten to smother the light of liberty. Yet, with faith in Him we are certain that liberty will conquer, as it did then.

Plan Special Race With Top Jockeys

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 22 (AP) — Two of racing's hottest jockeys, Willie Shoemaker and Joe Culmone, may pit their skill against each other in a unique showdown match race here Monday.

L. Ed O'Hara, Bowie general manager, is working on a special race with only two horses to be ridden by Culmone and Shoemaker after the regular eight events.

Shoemaker, tied with Culmone at 333 firsts apiece going into today's races, will fly here Sunday from California to race on Bowie's Monday program. He'll go back immediately to resume riding at Hollywood Park.

The two jockeys, who have broken Johnny Longden's modern record of 319 winners in one year, will be in most of the usual eight races. But O'Hara is trying to make conditions as even as possible in a saddle-to-saddle ninth race between them.

He has instructed Racing Secretary John P. Turner to find two horses rated equal in ability. Shoemaker and Culmone will draw lots to determine who rides which one.

Plan Special Race With Top Jockeys

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 22 (AP) — Two of racing's hottest jockeys, Willie Shoemaker and Joe Culmone, may pit their skill against each other in a unique showdown match race here Monday.

L. Ed O'Hara, Bowie general manager, is working on a special race with only two horses to be ridden by Culmone and Shoemaker after the regular eight events.

Shoemaker, tied with Culmone at 333 firsts apiece going into today's races, will fly here Sunday from California to race on Bowie's Monday program. He'll go back immediately to resume riding at Hollywood Park.

The two jockeys, who have broken Johnny Longden's modern record of 319 winners in one year, will be in most of the usual eight races. But O'Hara is trying to make conditions as even as possible in a saddle-to-saddle ninth race between them.

He has instructed Racing Secretary John P. Turner to find two horses rated equal in ability. Shoemaker and Culmone will draw lots to determine who rides which one.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, George H. Emerick, who died three years ago, November 24, 1947.

Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And the ones who think of you today,
Are those who loved you best,
They say time heals all sorrows,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proven
How much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose him,
No one will ever know.
Three long years have slowly passed,
Since we were forced to part,
But time and space can not erase,
Your memory from our hearts.

Sadly missed by his wife and children,
MRS. GEORGE H. EMERICK

BERGMAN—In loving memory of my dear husband, George, who passed away twenty years ago, November, 1930.

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.

Loving Wife Elizabeth and Children

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, George H. Emerick, who died three years ago, November 24, 1947.

Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And the ones who think of you today,
Are those who loved you best,
They say time heals all sorrows,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proven
How much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose him,
No one will ever know.
Three long years have slowly passed,
Since we were forced to part,
But time and space can not erase,
Your memory from our hearts.
Sadly missed by his wife and children,
MRS. GEORGE H. EMERICK

BERGMAN—In loving memory of my dear husband, George, who passed away twenty years ago, November, 1930.

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.
Loving Wife Elizabeth and Children

Firemen Travel Four Miles To Blaze

Alvin Uplinger, who drove two other members of Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Department some four miles in response to an alarm at the dump on Oldtown Road about 5 p. m. yesterday, learned that the fire was out when they reached their destination.

A bulldozer at the dump had caught fire, Uplinger said. Persons near the scene had extinguished the flames, caused by an overheated motor, with a hand extinguisher, the volunteer fireman stated. He was not certain how Bowman's Addition firemen were called on the fire.

Uplinger also reported that the long run also cost the department an Indian pump, valued at some $25. He requests that the person who found it at the dump return it to the department.

Republicans To Seek Tax Directive Change

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — The outnumbered Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee said today they are going to ask Congress next week to broaden the wording of its instructions to prepare a new tax bill.

The present directive is: Write an excess profits tax on corporations, period.

The Republicans — backed almost solidly by businessmen — want the instructions changed so that the committee also could consider a "corporate defense profits tax," which in effect would amount to a straight percentage increase in the present corporate tax rates.

During the seven days of hearings which ended today the 15 Democrats on the committee repeatedly have overridden the 10 Republicans and refused to receive testimony about any other tax than one on excess profits. The Democrats say that is what Congress ordered.

Developments in Asia and Africa particularly will be noted, an aide to Stassen said today. The University of Pennsylvania president has not included Russia on his five-week trip by air.

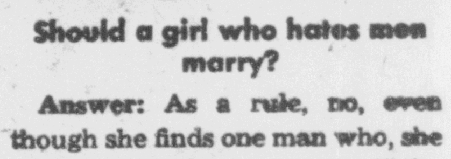
MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Does "forgetting faces" mean you are self-centered?

Answer: It means first of all that you don't really look at people. For what you see clearly you cannot help but remember. You may be afraid to look for various unconscious reasons like a childish feeling that if you do, other people will "see through you." But you are most likely not to look at someone you meet because you are so much wrapped up in your own desires and problems that no one else greatly interests you. People resent being forgotten because they sense that it means you did not bother noticing them.



Should a girl who hates men marry?

Answer: As a rule, no, even though she finds one man who, she believes, is "different from all the others." For either he will be no real man, in which case the woman in her will eventually suffer from frustration, or—more probably—she will find that the supposed difference was imaginary and transfer her sex hostility to a partner whose only real fault is maleness. She'll interpret his efforts to share normal satisfactions with her as proof of the desire to exploit her for his pleasure which she was taught to look for.

Is creative art good for mental patients?

Answer: Yes, writes Mary Huntoon in the Bulletin of the Menninger Clinic, reporting on the experience of more than 1000 patients at the Winter V. A. Hospital who were sent to the art shop by their physicians. The most benefit was felt by those whose doctors visited the studio and helped them "integrate" their efforts. In creative art, the patients see their repressed wishes come true, gain a sense of competence that makes reality seem easier to face, release inner tensions, and learn to see their problems objectively.

Firemen Travel Four Miles To Blaze

Alvin Uplinger, who drove two other members of Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Department some four miles in response to an alarm at the dump on Oldtown Road about 5 p. m. yesterday, learned that the fire was out when they reached their destination.

A bulldozer at the dump had caught fire, Uplinger said. Persons near the scene had extinguished the flames, caused by an overheated motor, with a hand extinguisher, the volunteer fireman stated. He was not certain how Bowman's Addition firemen were called on the fire.

Uplinger also reported that the long run also cost the department an Indian pump, valued at some $25. He requests that the person who found it at the dump return it to the department.

Republicans To Seek Tax Directive Change

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — The outnumbered Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee said today they are going to ask Congress next week to broaden the wording of its instructions to prepare a new tax bill.

The present directive is: Write an excess profits tax on corporations, period.

The Republicans — backed almost solidly by businessmen — want the instructions changed so that the committee also could consider a "corporate defense profits tax," which in effect would amount to a straight percentage increase in the present corporate tax rates.

During the seven days of hearings which ended today the 15 Democrats on the committee repeatedly have overridden the 10 Republicans and refused to receive testimony about any other tax than one on excess profits. The Democrats say that is what Congress ordered.

Russia Not Included On Stassen's World Trip

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22 (AP) — As a private citizen seeking information on economic and political developments, Harold E. Stassen Republican leader and presidential aspirant, will leave next week on a round-the-world journey.

Developments in Asia and Africa particularly will be noted, an aide to Stassen said today. The University of Pennsylvania president has not included Russia on his five-week trip by air.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Does "forgetting faces" mean you are self-centered?

Answer: It means first of all that you don't really look at people. For what you see clearly you cannot help but remember. You may be afraid to look for various unconscious reasons like a childish feeling that if you do, other people will "see through you." But you are most likely not to look at someone you meet because you are so much wrapped up in your own desires and problems that no one else greatly interests you. People resent being forgotten because they sense that it means you did not bother noticing them.

Should a girl who hates men marry?

Answer: As a rule, no, even though she finds one man who, she believes, is "different from all the others." For either he will be no real man, in which case the woman in her will eventually suffer from frustration, or—more probably—she will find that the supposed difference was imaginary and transfer her sex hostility to a partner whose only real fault is maleness. She'll interpret his efforts to share normal satisfactions with her as proof of the desire to exploit her for his pleasure which she was taught to look for.

Is creative art good for mental patients?

Answer: Yes, writes Mary Huntoon in the Bulletin of the Menninger Clinic, reporting on the experience of more than 1000 patients at the Winter V. A. Hospital who were sent to the art shop by their physicians. The most benefit was felt by those whose doctors visited the studio and helped them "integrate" their efforts. In creative art, the patients see their repressed wishes come true, gain a sense of competence that makes reality seem easier to face, release inner tensions, and learn to see their problems objectively.

Cumberland Set For Observance Of Thanksgiving

Holiday Travel Takes Upturn

Thanksgiving Day in Cumberland will be marked with numerous church services, the traditional football classic between Allegany and Fort Hill High Schools, and big turkey dinners at home.

All business places and state, county and city offices will be closed for the day. School children are enjoying a long weekend holiday.

State Police reported that traffic is expected to get heavier this morning as motorists start out to spend Thanksgiving with relatives in distant places.

Highways were clear last night but the weatherman predicts mostly cloudy and rather cold weather today with the possibility of rain in the late afternoon.

Bus and railroad travel was taking its anticipated holiday upturn last night. Blue Ridge officials reported extra sections on both east and westbound buses last night, but no extra sections were added to Baltimore and Ohio trains.

Traffic was equally heavy both east and west, officials said.

Food Distributed

Cheery Thanksgiving baskets of food were distributed to 52 families yesterday afternoon by the Associated Charities. A city truck collected the baskets and took them to the various homes. Articles of food were donated by students at Allegany and Fort Hill, the Girl Scouts and several local churches.

Maj. Elmer Wall said the Salvation Army answered several emergency calls for grocery orders but that baskets were not distributed by that agency on a large scale.

The Salvation Army also will mark Thanksgiving with a special service tonight at 7:45 at the Virginia Avenue Outpost, with Maj. Wall officiating.

Services of thanksgiving will be held at many area churches throughout the day.

A special service is planned at 10:30 this morning at St. Philip's Episcopal Chapel, with Morning Prayer and Holy Communion.

A community Thanksgiving service will be held at Park Place Methodist Church, Narrows Park, at 10 a.m., with Rev. Charles E. Shaw, pastor, preaching from the text of Psalm 147:30 "He hath not dealt so with any nation, and as for his judgments they have not known them. Praise ye the Lord." Special music will be presented by the choirs.

At 9:30 a.m. Rev. Donald F. Brake, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, will speak to his congregation on "Growth in Gratitude." The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Robert H. Mann, will sing.

Rev. M. A. Keesecker will have as his sermon topic at Kingsley Methodist Church "Our Response to God For His Benefits Toward Us." The Youth Choir will sing "Song of Peace," by Lloyd Stone, and the Senior Choir will present "Rejoice, Give Thanks," by Fred B. Holton.

The Thanksgiving program at Central Methodist Church will begin at 10:45 a.m. with organ music by Miss Virginia Fatkin, "Ode to Thanksgiving," by Beethoven, "Trust," by Groetzinger, and "A Hymn of Thanksgiving," by Wilson. The choir will sing "Praise Ye The Father," by Gounod, and the pastor, Rev. Crates S. Johnson, will preach on "The Man Who Forgot His Manners."

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor, will speak on "The Thank in Thanksgiving."

A service will be held at the LaVale Baptist Church today at 8 p.m. The speaker will be Rev. J. C. Ledbetter, the former pastor.

A union service will be held at today at 11 a. m. in Metropolitan A.M.E. Church.

Congregations of Ebenezer Baptist, McKendree Methodist and Metropolitan Churches will join in the service.

Rev. George A. Tate, pastor of McKendree Church, will preach the sermon.

A service will be held, today at 10 a.m. at First Methodist Church, Bedford Street, with Earl E. Manges, local attorney, as guest speaker.

Who's Gonna Win Today?

That was the question uppermost in the mind of every Fort Hill and Allegany High School student as each school held assemblies and pep rallies yesterday, getting set for the big Turkey Day football clash today. The upper picture shows Allegany girls striking a fighting pose in the spirit of their slogan, "Fight, Alco, Fight!" The poster at the school shows an Allegany player knocking out a hapless Sentinel team member. Kneeling are Marlene Taylor (left) and Patsy Minke. Standing (same order) are Beverly Bruce, Helen Yoder and Franny Reynolds. The lower picture was taken during a skit presented at the Fort Hill assembly yesterday. Acted out in pantomime, the skit was a takeoff on the "Allegany Campers," as can be seen by the makeshift tent with a large "A" tacked on it. The bewildered expressions are supposed to be those worn by the Campers facing the prospect of meeting Fort Hill.

MYF Collects $700 In Food For Boys Home

Approximately 3,000 cans of canned food, valued at $700, was collected by the Cumberland Sub-District Methodist Youth Fellowship at its annual Booth Festival held at Grace Methodist Church.

The food is being sent to the Strawbridge Home for Boys, Sykesville.

Blue and gold ribbons, the MYF colors, were awarded various booths. Centre Street Church won for having the most food quantity; Barton Church, for originality of the booth; and Park Place Church for best carrying out of the theme, "God Our Maker Doth Provide."

Judges were Rev. A. B. L. Fisher, Rev. Kenneth Grove and Rev. M. A. Keesecker.

Payroll Savings Campaign To Be Started Here

Workers In County Will Be Urged To Buy Bonds

As the first step toward expanding sales of Savings Bonds to meet the economic situation created by the stepped-up national defense program, a campaign to increase bond buying through the Payroll Savings Plan will be conducted in business and industry here beginning this month, according to Lynn C. Lashley, acting chairman of the drive in Allegany County.

The campaign, which will be part of a nation-wide promotion starting this month, will have two goals, Lashley said: to get firms that do not now offer the Payroll Savings Plan to their employes to install it, and to endeavor, through company promotions in which management and workers join, to sign up a minimum of 50 per cent of employes in all companies.

"Bond savings help relieve immediate pressure on prices," Lashley added. "Bond sales reduce the need of the Treasury to borrow from the banking system which can only create more inflationary pressure, present and future. The bond buyer thus makes his dollars do double duty against inflation, and double service to himself, now and in the future."

Pilgrims Would Be Delighted With Modern Thanksgiving Feast

The Pilgrims who celebrated the first Thanksgiving in 1821 would be delighted, but somewhat surprised at today's traditional Thanksgiving dinners.

For scholars have learned that the bill of fare for that first three-day Thanksgiving celebration included chiefly venison, roast ducks and geese, clams, shellfish and eels.

These main dishes were supplemented with white and corn bread, leeks, watercress, wild plums and dried berries.

Wine, made from wild grapes, which the Pilgrims termed "sweet and strong" accompanied the feasts.

Wild turkeys undoubtedly appeared on the bill of fare, but records fail to prove the fact.

Cranberries, part of every good Thanksgiving dinner, were available, historians report, but add there is doubt that the Pilgrims at that time had learned to use them.

There is considerable doubt, too, that pumpkin pie was served on that first Thanksgiving, although it soon gained a permanent place in America's Thanksgiving dinner.

The three-day celebration was observed in October during a spell of Indian summer.

Records also hint at the fact that the feast would have turned into pretty slim pickings had not a few of Massasoit's 90 braves, who were invited to the feast, gone into the woods to bag five deer to add to the bill of fare.

The celebration was not all devoted to eating, however, as Captain Miles Standish staged an elaborate military review, while games of skill and chance helped to enliven the hours.

$12,000 Store Building Is Planned Here

North Centre Site Will Be Used

A permit for a new store building estimated to cost $12,000 and to be located on North Centre Street at the site of the 1941 explosion was granted yesterday in the city engineer's office.

Owners of the property, located at 18-20-22 North Centre Street, were listed as David and Jules Kaufman, 114 East 23rd Street, New York City.

Work will be done by the Frater Realty and Construction Company, of the New York address, with a local contract to be let.

M. P. Rayburn, New York, architect for the project, applied for the permit.

Rayburn said the new one-story building will be designed to house three stores. The space will be rented but identity of the occupants was not disclosed.

The building will be located on the site of the parking lot now operated by William B. Kaldor adjacent to his photography studio.

It will be constructed on two lots having a frontage of about 39 feet on North Centre Street and a depth of slightly over 60 feet.

The disastrous 1941 explosion wrecked three store buildings on the site, which was partially built up again recently. A new building was erected to house the Strand Liquor Store, Heinrich and Jenkins Store and Hauger's Jewelry Store.

The new Kaufman building will connect with the present structure by using the wall of Hauger's Store as its lower wall.

On the upper end the new store building will extend against the wall of Kaldor's Studio.

Rayburn said the Kaufmans purchased the property from the Wilson estate within the past 30 days. Purchase price was not disclosed.

Work will start as soon as the contract is let, Rayburn said. If necessary materials are available, construction should be completed in about 60 or 75 days from the start of the work.

The concrete block building will measure 38.88 by 56 feet, with a 12-inch concrete foundation and built-up roofing over steel, if the latter is available.

Plans were furnished by C. L. Herath, this city.

The parking lot has been operated at the site for about a year. Prior to that time Christmas trees were sold on the vacant lots each year, with no other business operated there since 1941.

A. M. Jack obtained a permit yesterday to build a two-story garage, with one apartment on the second floor, at Lots 20-21-22, St. Mary's Avenue, on the rear of the lots.

The concrete block and inselbrick building will measure 20 by 30 feet, with a ruberoid shingle roof. Work will be done by Harry Whisner from plans drawn by the Allegany Trades School. Estimated cost is $3,800.

A 17-year-old boy received critical head injuries when his car crashed through a fence and overturned three or four times on State Route 28 in Ridgeley, W. Va.

The accident occurred at 3:30 p. m. and he was listed as being in critical condition late last night by hospital attaches.

Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell, Ridgeley, W. Va., said that the brakes on the car failed, causing the boy to be unable to slow down to make a turn. Another boy who was with Wolford at the time of the accident was unhurt.

All business places and state, county and city offices will be closed for the day. School children are enjoying a long weekend holiday.

Highways were clear last night but the weatherman predicts mostly cloudy and rather cold weather today with the possibility of rain in the late afternoon.

Who's Gonna Win Today?

That was the question uppermost in the mind of every Fort Hill and Allegany High School student as each school held assemblies and pep rallies yesterday, getting set for the big Turkey Day football clash today. The upper picture shows Allegany girls striking a fighting pose in the spirit of their slogan, "Fight, Alco, Fight!" The poster at the school shows an Allegany player knocking out a hapless Sentinel team member. Kneeling are Marlene Taylor (left) and Patsy Minke. Standing (same order) are Beverly Bruce, Helen Yoder and Franny Reynolds. The lower picture was taken during a skit presented at the Fort Hill assembly yesterday. Acted out in pantomime, the skit was a takeoff on the "Allegany Campers," as can be seen by the makeshift tent with a large "A" tacked on it. The bewildered expressions are supposed to be those worn by the Campers facing the prospect of meeting Fort Hill.

Faces Charge For Long Test Run

Robert William Herrell, 24, Paw Paw, W. Va., who allegedly drove a 1933 automobile away from a South Centre Street used car lot September 6 and never returned, was arrested yesterday afternoon on Oldtown Road by State Trooper John F. Browning and charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Trooper Browning said that Herrell had agreed to pay $50 for the car and was supposed to have driven it on a test run. The owner reported to the trooper that Herrell never returned either with the car or the money.

The West Virginian has been freed on $62.90 bond pending a hearing next Wednesday in Peoples Court. He also was accused of driving without a license.

$12,000 Store Building Is Planned Here

North Centre Site Will Be Used

A permit for a new store building estimated to cost $12,000 and to be located on North Centre Street at the site of the 1941 explosion was granted yesterday in the city engineer's office.

Owners of the property, located at 18-20-22 North Centre Street, were listed as David and Jules Kaufman, 114 East 23rd Street, New York City.

Work will be done by the Frater Realty and Construction Company, of the New York address, with a local contract to be let.

M. P. Rayburn, New York, architect for the project, applied for the permit.

Rayburn said the new one-story building will be designed to house three stores. The space will be rented but identity of the occupants was not disclosed.

The building will be located on the site of the parking lot now operated by William B. Kaldor adjacent to his photography studio.

It will be constructed on two lots having a frontage of about 39 feet on North Centre Street and a depth of slightly over 60 feet.

The disastrous 1941 explosion wrecked three store buildings on the site, which was partially built up again recently. A new building was erected to house the Strand Liquor Store, Heinrich and Jenkins Store and Hauger's Jewelry Store.

The new Kaufman building will connect with the present structure by using the wall of Hauger's Store as its lower wall.

On the upper end the new store building will extend against the wall of Kaldor's Studio.

Rayburn said the Kaufmans purchased the property from the Wilson estate within the past 30 days. Purchase price was not disclosed.

Work will start as soon as the contract is let, Rayburn said. If necessary materials are available, construction should be completed in about 60 or 75 days from the start of the work.

The concrete block building will measure 38.88 by 56 feet, with a 12-inch concrete foundation and built-up roofing over steel, if the latter is available.

Plans were furnished by C. L. Herath, this city.

The parking lot has been operated at the site for about a year. Prior to that time Christmas trees were sold on the vacant lots each year, with no other business operated there since 1941.

A. M. Jack obtained a permit yesterday to build a two-story garage, with one apartment on the second floor, at Lots 20-21-22, St. Mary's Avenue, on the rear of the lots.

The concrete block and inselbrick building will measure 20 by 30 feet, with a ruberoid shingle roof. Work will be done by Harry Whisner from plans drawn by the Allegany Trades School. Estimated cost is $3,800.

Youth Hurt When Car Overturns At Ridgeley

A 17-year-old boy received critical head injuries when his car crashed through a fence and overturned three or four times on State Route 28 in Ridgeley, W. Va.

Attaches at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted, listed him as Robert Wolford, Augusta, W. Va., and said he sustained a brain injury.

The accident occurred at 3:30 p. m. and he was listed as being in critical condition late last night by hospital attaches.

Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell, Ridgeley, W. Va., said that the brakes on the car failed, causing the boy to be unable to slow down to make a turn. Another boy who was with Wolford at the time of the accident was unhurt.

U. S. CHARGES RUSSIA RUNS COMMUNIST PARTY

Registration Under Control Law Is Asked

Justice Dept. Files Petition With Board

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Justice Department today formally charged the Communist Party of the United States with being run by the government of Soviet Russia.

The department made the accusation in filing a petition with the new subversive activities control board, asking that the party be ordered to register with the department, disclose its financing and list all of its members in this country.

This is the first such action under the new subversives control law, which requires registration of all Communists and Communists front organizations.

The 4,800-word petition, signed by Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, was filed with the board a few minutes after 6 p. m. EST.

Party Seen Fighting Action

At the same time the department served copies of the petition by air mail, on the party's headquarters in New York City at 35 East 12th Street. The service was marked for the attention of William Z. Foster, party chairman, and Gus Hall, described by the department as "a high party functionary."

Since the party has refused to take advantage of the opportunity to register voluntarily under the 1950 internal security law, it has been freely forecast that it will fight the action before the control board. Some officials have estimated that the forced registration proceeding, counting possible court appeal, may take two years.

The McGrath petition said that the party "has been and is substantially dominated and controlled by the government and Communist Party of the Soviet Union," and has taken its orders from the Russian government and the Communist International headquarters in Moscow.

"Action" Group, U. S. Says

A board order for registration, in the case of a Communist "action" group such as the party is alleged by the Justice Department to be, requires a showing at public hearings that the organization is dominated by a foreign power.

Only an "action" group must list its membership in registering. A "front" organization must report its officers and its financial dealings.

To suport his charge that the Soviet Union runs the Communist movement in the United States, McGrath traced the history of the U. S. party to show its close adherence to the world Communist Party line.

Rifle On Jeep Is New Tank Killer

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Nov. 22 (AP) — The Army has a new jeep-mounted recoilless rifle capable of knocking out the biggest known foreign tank, it was announced here today by Secretary of the Army Frank Pace.

The new weapon was unveiled during an all-day demonstration of American combat weapons at this Army testing ground.

"Today I have witnessed a firing demonstration of a new, 105 MM recoilless rifle mounted on a jeep," Pace said in his formal announcement.

"This new weapon when in full production will, along with the 3.5 bazooka, provide the front line combat soldier with the ability to knock out the most potent enemy tank known today."

Government Spy Conspiracy Case Defendants Guilty

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—Abraham Brothman and Miriam Moskowitz tonight were found guilty of conspiracy in a spy case.

The case went to a federal court jury at 3:38 p. m. (EST) today and the verdict was returned after nearly four hours of deliberation.

The defendants are accused of conspiring to cover up Brothman's dealings with Soviet Atom Spy Harry Gold by lying about the relationship to a grand jury.

Conviction carries a maximum penalty for Brothman of seven years in prison and a $15,000 fine; for Miss Moskowitz two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

B-36 Crashes; 2 Of Parachuting Crewmen Killed

Hope Abandoned For 21 On Missing DC-3

FORT WORTH, Nov. 22 (AP) — A crippled B-36 bomber fighting its way homeward on three engines crashed in a field 25 miles south of here today. Two of the 16-man crew were killed parachuting from the plane, the world's largest land-based bomber.

Most of the 14 other men were injured but none critically. The most serious injury was a broken leg. The parachuting airmen were scattered over a four-mile area and were not rounded up until hours after the crash.

Carswell Air Force base here, home of the long-ranging B-36 bombers and the Eighth Air Force, identified the dead as Capt. Horace C. Stewart, 33, Philadelphia, Miss., the navigator, and Capt. James H. Yeingst, 30, Mount Holly Springs, Pa., radar operator.

The Air Force said the big plane left at 5:05 a. m. today to make practice gunnery runs over Matagorda island off the Texas coast. En route south two of its six engines failed. On the homeward leg another engine went out. Heavy fog prevented any landing on coastal fields.

At 9:55 a. m. (CST) the plane thundered over the head of W. O. Doggett, who farms three miles south of the crash. "I saw objects falling from the plane," he said. "I thought they were practice bombs until I learned later they were parachuting crew members."

The wreckage burst into flames. Firemen warned spectators back from the isolated field as ammunition in the plane detonated.

21 Believed Dead In Wyoming Crash

MORAN, Wyo., Nov. 22 (AP) — Twenty-one persons are believed dead in the wreckage of a chartered plane which apparently crashed into the side of jagged Mount Moran last night.

All evidence pointed to the fact a missing twi-engine DC-3, carrying members of the New Tribes Mission, a religious organization, caused a fire spotted 1,000 feet below the crest of the mountain.

A resort owner said he believed he saw a glowing fuselage in the flames.

Aboard the missing plane were eight children, four women and nine men. Three of the men were crew members.

A ground party this morning began the slow, difficult job of ascending the rocky peak.

Shipment Of Steel To China Is 'Disgrace,' O'Conor Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) of a Senate investigating committee today angrily denounced federal authorities and Western European countries for permitting the shipment of steel to Red China—some of it since the outbreak of the Korean war.

"It's a disgrace," O'Conor declared.

The Maryland Senator said the steel was sent from Britain, France and Belgium to New York and then trans-shipped to Communist China.

Under Senate fire, the Commerce Department announced during the day that it is considering a ban on all shipments of war potential goods en route to Red China via the United Nations.

The embargo, if put into effect, would apply to trans-shipments bound for other Soviet-dominated countries.

Present bans apply on to "war potential" goods originating in the United States.

Earlier in the day the Commerce Department had offered to "take another look" into the advisability of clamping down controls over scrap steel and other items, even if they were considered of dubious strategic value.

By mid-afternoon, the department came up with its new suggestion: To extend export controls to all ship cargoes docked here en route to Red China or other Soviet bloc countries.

Allied Troops Advance Four To Five Miles

U. N. Patrols Near Red Defense Line

SEOUL, Thursday, Nov. 23 (AP) — Allied troops punched forward four to five miles and captured a road and rail center in frigid Northeast Korea Wednesday.

United Nations patrols probed nearer the Chinese and Korean Communist defense line in the northwest, meeting light opposition.

U. S. bombers and fighters rained explosive and fire bombs on Yalu river bridges connecting Manchuria and Korea and on Red battle staging areas all along the northern rim of Korea.

On the northeast front, South Korean (ROK) Capital Division spearheads advanced four to five miles on the east coast to a point about eight miles southwest of Chongjin, a big port 55 miles south of the Siberian-Korean border.

B-29s Raid Chongjin

The ROK troops drove ahead under covering fire from eight-inch guns of the U. S. cruiser St. Paul. American B-29 Superforts bombed Chongjin, where Reds were expected to make a stand.

Across a rugged snow-mantled mountain range and 50 miles southwest of Chongjin, the ROK Third Division's 22nd Regiment entered the rail and highway center of Hapsu. The third's 23rd Regiment ran into a battalion of Reds seven miles southwest of Hapsu. A spokesman for the U. S. Tenth Corps reported the Red battalion is being squeezed between the two Republican forces.

The U. S. Seventh Division on the Korean-Manchurian Yalu river frontier sent patrols west and south of the border town of Hyesanjin, 37 miles northwest of Hapsu, and reported the first opposition since it reached the Yalu Tuesday. One patrol skirmished with 40 Reds six miles west of Hyesanjin and killed 17 before the Reds pulled back. Another patrol met a small Red unit south of the city but the Communists fled after a few shots were fired.

Patrols Along Reservoir

The U. S. Seventh Marine Regiment sent patrols 10 miles north to Yudam on the west thumb of the Changjin reservoir. The patrols met no opposition. Marine patrols are operating along virtually the full length of the reservoir.

On the northwest front, the ROK Eighth Division captured Yongwon and, with other South Korean divisions, established a line running five to six miles north of Tokchon. Chinese Reds were reported digging in 11 miles to the north of the new Allied offensive line.

About 100,000 Chinese and Korean Communists were estimated in defense positions facing the Allied northwest front.

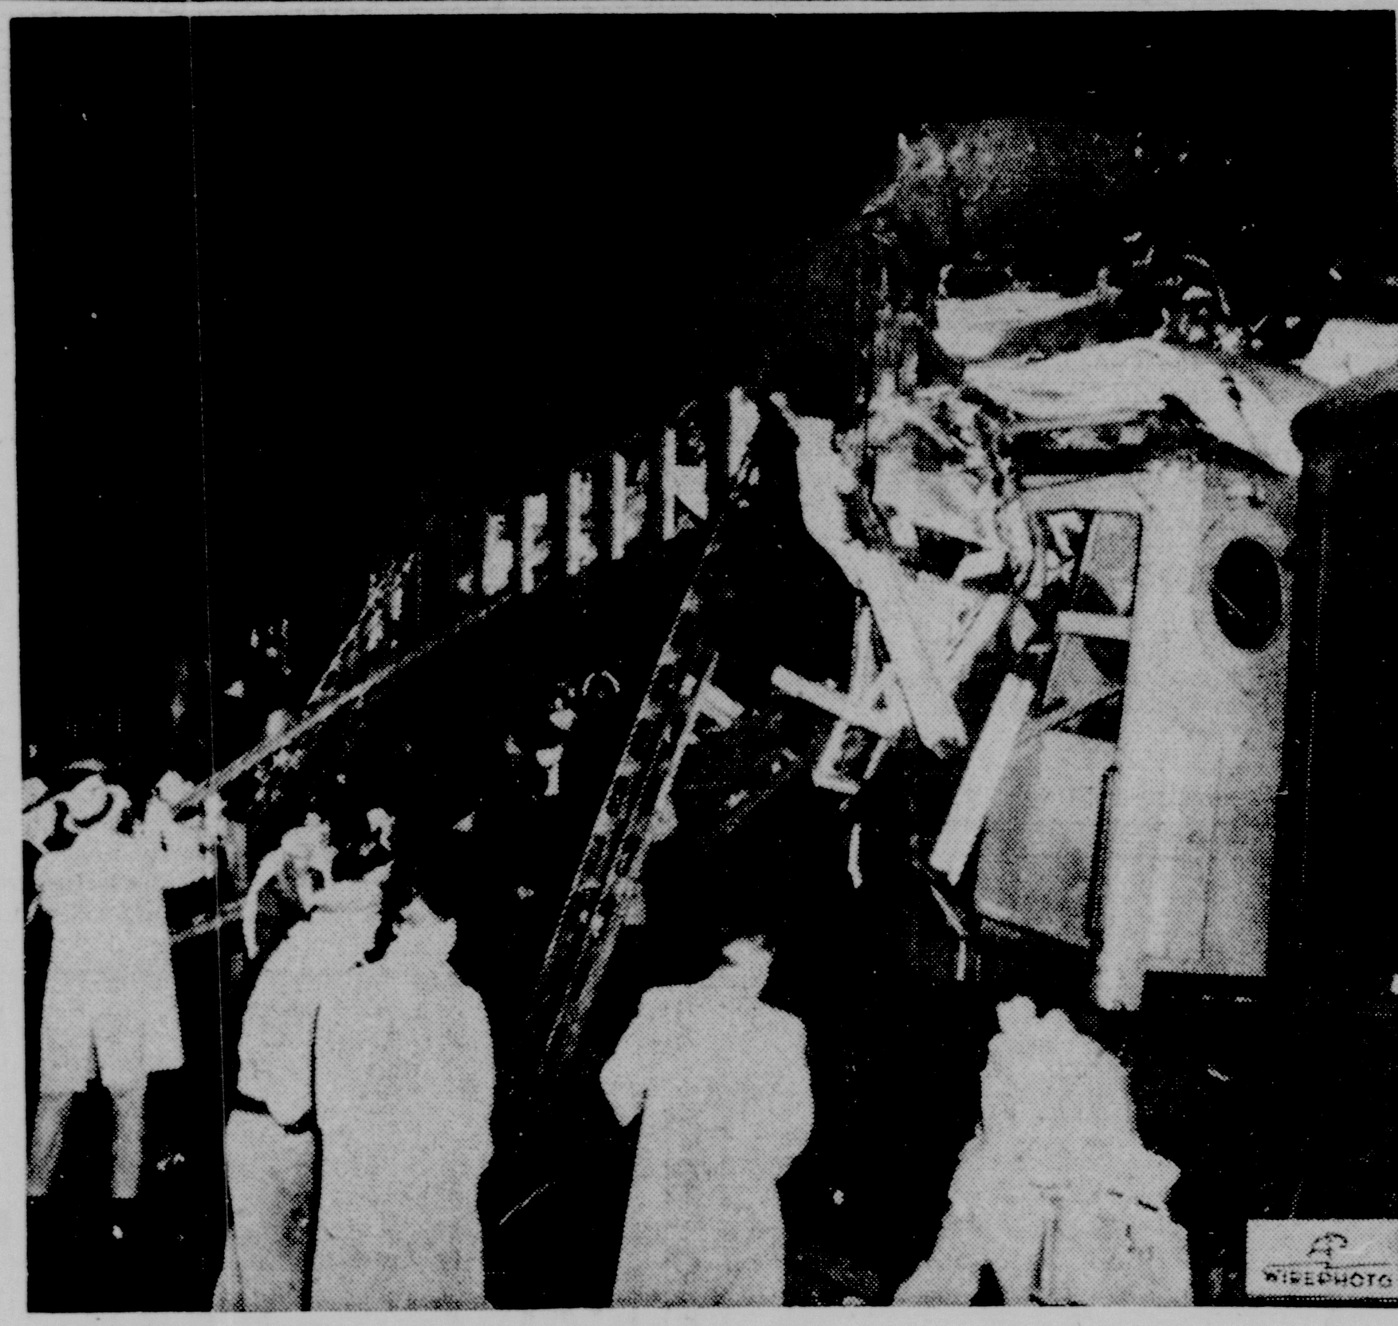
Chinese Appeal Seems Doomed

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Strong opposition from Britain, France and Russia apparently doomed today Nationalist China's appeal for a U. N. committee to investigate charges that the Soviet Union has been aiding the Chinese Communists. The United States countered that the issue could not be buried and suggested the Little Assembly study it another year.

Australia, Canada and members of the Soviet bloc group teamed with the three big powers in the U. N. Political Committee debate on Nationalist China's charges. Those countries said it would be a waste of time to deal with the problem any longer; that the evidence was in and the countries could make up their minds without further investigation.

The committee adjourned at 6:08 p. m. EST, until tomorrow without a vote. The U. N. will work a half-day schedule tomorrow because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

The committee debate dragged on all day with speakers of the Latin American and Middle East groups lining up behind a Syrian resolution which would send the charges back to the Little Assembly for more study. John Foster Dulles, U. S., delegate, insisted that the Assembly would bury the hopes of millions if it dropped the charges completely. He urged the committee to accept the Syrian proposal.



Cars Telescoped In Railroad Wreck

Firemen probe through telescoped cars of two Long Island Railroad trains which crashed in the Key Gardens sections of Queens county, New York, last evening. Killed and injured were homeward bound Manhattan office workers and Thanksgiving day visitors to Long Island homes.

Hickenlooper Asks Ouster Of Acheson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper today demanded a "thorough and extensive housecleaning in the State Department," including the dismmissal of Secretary Acheson and all his policy-making subordinates.

The Iowa Republican, with a fresh six-year hold on his Senate seat and a place on the Foreign Relations Committee, talked with newspapermen a few hours after Acheson had told a news conference that his recent criticism of "re-examinists" had been widely misinterpreted.

Rickenlooper said he doesn't think he misunderstands what Acheson meant by the five-syllable word. He said it could be taken only as "a bitter recrimination against Sen. Taft" (R-Ohio) or any other senator "who would dare look into the foreign policy of this country, past, present and future."

"The utterly unrealistic policies of the administration and the State Department—as far as China, Formosa and Korea prior to the Korean war are concerned — have led us directly into the mess we are in," Hickenlooper said.

"I think there must be a thorough and extensive housecleaning in the State Department."

While Hickenlooper inveighed against Acheson and the administration for what he called a failure to consult with the minority party on foreign policies, the Secretary of State declared he had taken counsel with Republican leaders in the past and would continue to do so. He would be glad to confer with Sen. Taft, he told a questioner.

No Arms Outside Pact

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Britain announced formally today she has stopped the sale of arms outside Atlantic pact nations "unless it is in our strategic interests."

Two Puerto Rican Nationalist Party Officials Held As Brains Behind Truman Murder Plot

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—Two top officials of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party in New York were arrested today as the possible brains behind a recent plot to assassinate President Truman.

Two nationalist gunmen stormed Blair House in Washington Nov. 1 but were cut down by guards' bullets before they could get to the President. One gunman and one guard died in the duel.

The Nationalists are a radical Puerto Rican group who demand full independence from the U. S. They recently sparked an armed uprising on the island.

More Arrests May Follow

Arrested today were Julio Pinto Gandia, 42, a veteran terrorist and New York president of the Nationalist Party, and Juan Bernardo Lebron, 28, a past president of the New York unit of the party.

More arrests may be in the offing, it was reported.

Already in custody are the wives of the two would-be assassins, Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola. Collazo is awaiting trial in Washington for the assassination attempt. Torresola was slain by Blair House guards.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Frederick H. Block said a grand jury has evidence of "the possible existence of an organized plot to assassinate the President of the United States Nov. 1, with Griselio Torresola and Oscar Collazo, gunmen, having been guided in their mission by Gandia and Lebron, and the gunmen's wives."

Held In $50,000 Bonds

Gandia and Lebron were charged with conspiring with the two wives—Mrs. Rosa Collazo, 42, and Mrs. Carmen Torresola, 22—against the safety of the President.

Both men were held in bonds of $50,000 each for a hearing Dec. 6.

Lebron, stocky, swarthy and mustached, stared steadily ahead during the arraignment, his hands folded before him. Gandia, thin-faced and also wearing a mustache, kept his hands in his pockets.

Price Supports For Eggs To End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced today that its producer price support program for eggs will be discontinued Dec. 31.

Continued over-production, involving heavy government buying of eggs for which it has no market, was given as the major reason for discontinuance.

Thus eggs in 1951 will be unsupported for the first time since 1942.

The department said, however, that it might buy a limited quantity of shell eggs in local areas in periods of low prices if immediate non-commercial outlets were available for their disposal.

No Agreement Reached On Korea Buffer Zone

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Top administration officials were reported receptive today to any "reasonable" proposal the Chinese Communists might make for a demilitarized buffer zone between North Korea and Manchuria.

Secretary of State Acheson told his news conference the idea of such a zone has been under discussion with friendly foreign governments and among officials here but so far no agreement has been reached.

Americans At Home, On Battlefronts Prepare To Observe Thanksgiving

[By The Associated Press]

Americans pause today in a world of turmoil and uncertainty to thank God for their blessings and to pray for peace.

The peace prayers were requested by President Truman, who in his Thanksgiving proclamation entreated his fellow countrymen to offer petitions for peace "in church, chapel and synagogue, in their homes and in the busy walks of life, every day and everywhere."

Thanksgiving day finds many Americans far from their homes in uniform — fighting aggression in Korea, stationed at far flung outposts from the equator to the Arctic, or training against any grim future eventuality.

Despite the overtones of anxiety, the nation found time in general for a merry family festival centered around the home. The traditional turkey and cranberry sauce was no monopoly of the home folks: The armed services planned to serve mouth-watering dinners to the troops, even those within a few thousand yards of the front lines.

A 35-pound tom turkey headed the menu at Blair House, temporary home of the Truman family. The President had no announced plans other than a quiet holiday.

Millions of Americans had crowded trains, planes and highways in the pre-holiday rush to get back home for the feasting. Big football games were on tap in the afternoon for sports fans.

The weather over most of the nation had a wintry touch, with a cold wave moving in on the mountain and plains states, and snow or rain forecast for much of the north central United States.

U. S. Drug Is Flown To Austria For Girl

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 22 (AP)—A new American drug unavailable in Austria was rushed here by plane from Washington to save a little Austrian girl's life.

Christa Hoelzl is in a local hospital with leukemia. Her doctor prescribed a-methoperin. When it could not be found here, the American-sponsored radio network sent a call for help to the Voice of America in Washington.

Robert Bauer, commentator, secured the drug from the Walter Reed hospital in Washington. It was flown to the U. S. air base outside Vienna and rushed to the hospital.

Railroad Wreck Is "Bloody Mess," Physician Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — "It's a bloody, bloody mess," said the physician in charge of Queen's General hospital's disaster unit as victims of the Long Island railroad wreck were being brought in tonight.

"Most of the people being brought in here are terribly cut-up and mangled," said Dr. Jack Ruthberg.

"War wouldn't be any worse. The poor people being brought in here are in terrible shape — mostly fractures and bad contusions."

Dr. Ruthberg said it was the first test of Queen's county's new civil defense setup:

"We've been rehearsing for weeks for just such a thing as this, and the machinery is working wonderfully," he said.

He said 100 visiting physicians had been called in for emergency work, together with scores of technicians.

Bomb Kills Drug Figure, His Wife And Unborn Child

Explosive Planted In Car Detonates

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP)—A bomb exploding in an auto killed a convicted member of the Green Dragon narcotic ring today. The same bomb injured his wife and unborn child.

About two hours later another automobile wired with a full quart jar of explosive was found at a residence three miles south of Fort Worth.

Nelson Harris, 41, was almost decapitated as nitroglycerine planted in his car detonated. Flying metal perforated his 25-year-old wife. Both she and the unborn baby, whose birth was expected in about a week, died shortly afterward.

The discovery of the wired second automobile came when Leroy Tincy Eggleston said he found his car hood partially opened and his suspicions were aroused. Air Force demolition experts removed the explosive and detonated it.

Harris was one of 21 persons convicted here in 1940 as members of the Green Dragon narcotic smuggling and peddling ring, operating from New York, Chicago and southwest headquarters. The ring got its name from a green dragon stamped on top of small boxes, resembling match boxes, in which narcotics were delivered.

Almost exactly a year ago — on Nov. 29, 1949 — a similar car bomb exploded in Dallas, killing the pretty wife of Dallas Gambler Herbert Noble. Police said that bomb was intended for Noble, who has survived several attempts on his life.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram quoted local gamblers as saying the two bombings were indirectly connected — that Harris had been using Noble's money to buck crap games here. One gambler said "somebody got tired of it."

Stranger Found In Bathtub Winds Up In Hoosegow

ELIZABETH, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP)—The frantic voice of a woman came in over the police telephone: "There's a strange man in my bathtub."

Two radio patrolmen hurried yesterday to the house and found Walter Sweeney singing happily in the bathtub.

Sweeney, 44, and homeless, said he had no idea how he got there. He was jailed overnight on a disorderly conduct charge and released this morning.

"I must have been drinking," he told police.

100 Seriously Hurt As Train Rams Another

Crowded Coaches Are Telescoped

NEW YORK, Nov 22 (AP)—A Long Island passenger train, jammed with Thanksgiving eve commuters, crashed into the rear of another tonight and police said at least 50 persons were killed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—A Long Island passenger train, jammed with Thanksgiving eve commuters, crashed into the rear of another tonight. Authorities said 25 to 50 persons were killed.

About 100 passengers were seriously injured and scores of others shaken, cut and bruised by flying glass or jagged, twisted metal.

Dr. Randy Wyman, a director of the municipal hospital system, alerted hospitals to "be prepared to receive 50 bodies." Police earlier had estimated the dead at from 25 to 50.

Queens General hospital reported 15 known dead.

It was the second major Long Island railroad disaster in nine months — 31 persons died Feb. 17 in a Rockville Centre crash.

The motorman of the first train said his brakes locked as he slowed his train at about 6:30 o'clock (EST). A second train, roaring in from behind knifed into the standing train.

The front and end cars that took the shock of the impact were telescoped or sliced apart "like a loaf of bread."

From all over the great New York City area poured rescue workers with power saws, jacks and acetylene torches to try and cut the trapped victims from the ghastly mess.

Lights Pick Out Victims

Searchlights picked out the still figures of passengers inside the cars, their heads lolling in death like pale rag dolls.

Said Howard Austin, conductor of the second train:

"Both of the telescoped cars were jammed with passengers and I don't see how any of them could have escaped alive."

The crash scene is 13 miles from Times Square, in the Kew Gardens section of Queens borough. It is on the Long Island's main line from Pennsylvania Station to the island.

CIO Fights Over Utilities Stand

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (AP)—A dispute over the CIO's stand on government operation of utilities touched off the first floor fight of the three-day-old CIO convention late today.

That hot argument developed shortly after one CIO leader accused the Democratic party of running "political hacks" in the recent election, and the delegates voted to extend, not curtail, activities of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

They decided the PAC should "redouble" efforts to elect labor-backed candidates.

All top officers of the CIO utility workers protested that a resolution on "principles of the Tennessee Valley Authority" would put the CIO on record as favoring nationalization of public utilities.

Other CIO leaders, headed by President Philip Murray, said that was not the intent at all. The dispute was settled and the resolution was adopted with only scattered opposition after Murray "clarified" the proposal.

Virginia Decides Old Bonds Found In Attic Worthless

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 22 (AP) — Mrs. Bonne Walker may as well put the two old Virginia revenue bonds back in the attic where she found them. The State of Virginia decreed today they aren't worth anything.

The 76-year-old Vinton, Va., woman had figured they were worth about a quarter million dollars, including compound interest over a 90-year period.

State Treasurer Jesse W. Dillon made the pronouncement after close scrutiny of one of the tattered old debentures — which listed a maturity value of $1,000.

"Sorry," said Dillon, "we can't pay off on bonds like this one."

The question was whether the bonds had been issued in 1861 or 1864. If issued on the earlier date Virginia would be inclined to regard them as an obligation to be honored.

If issued in the latter year, after secession, redemption of a bond aiding the confederate cause would be prohibited by both the federal and state constitutions.

"It is apparent that no coupons have been clipped from this bond and that the first coupon was due July 1, 1864," Dillon said. "Because of the number of these coupons and their maturity dates, it is obvious that the bond was issued on January 1, 1864."

TV 'Child Appeal' Ads Are Probed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today opened an inquiry into what it called a "child-appeal" advertising campaign designed to promote television set sales.

"Numerous complaints from parents and educators criticizing the ads prompted the commission to launch the investigation," an FTC statement said.

The commission acted after television manufacturers had decided to abandon in future advertisements the theme that children feel socially inferior without a television set in their home.

First step in the FTC investigation is to determine the "truth or falsity of statements and representations" appearing in recent advertisements.

Defense Conference

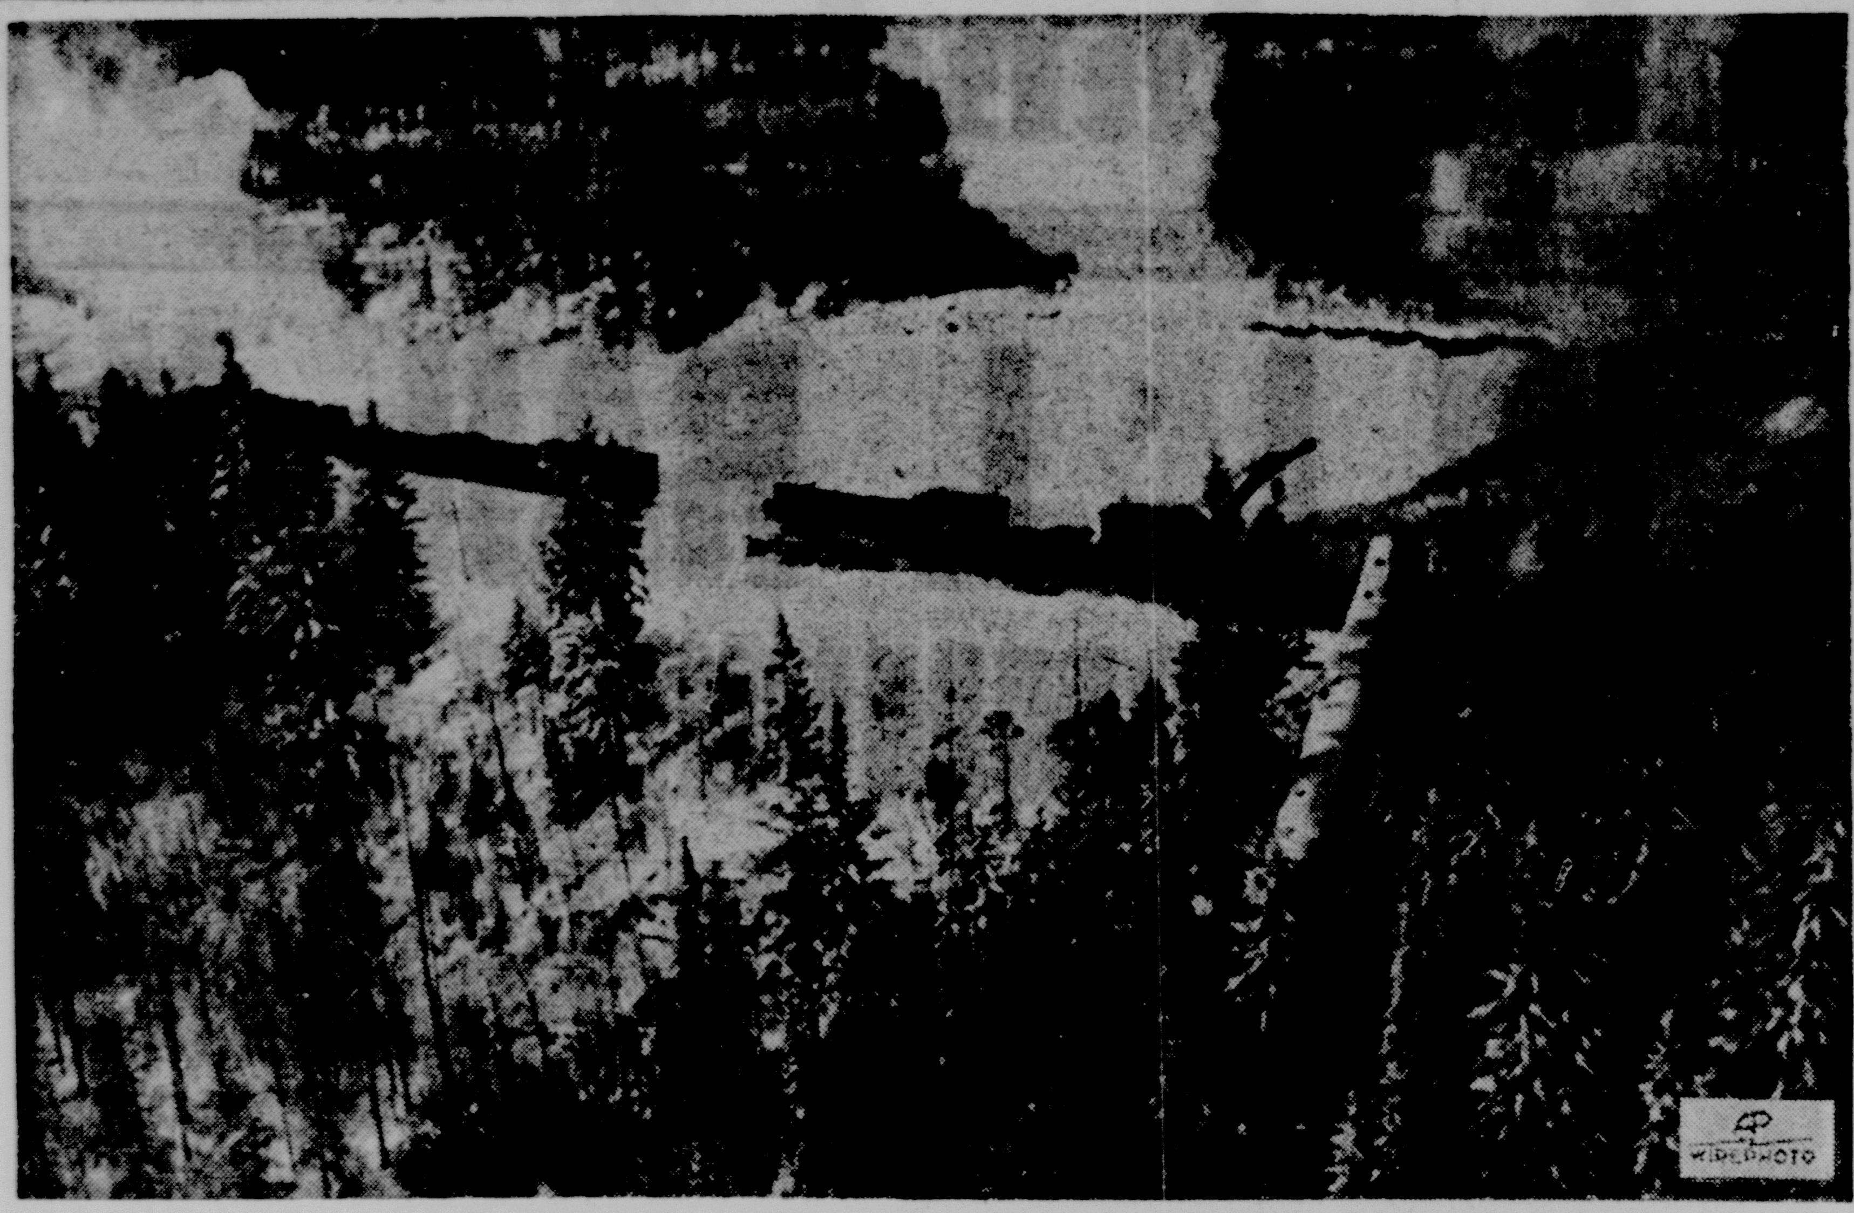
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—District of Columbia commissioners today invited the governors of Virginia and Maryland to send legal representatives to Washington for a civilian defense conference.

They were asked to meet here Dec. 4 to discuss methods of eliminating legal bariers to a formal mutual aid compact for the metropolitan district.

Licensor Licenceless

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 22 (AP) — J. W. Perkins, hardware merchant who issues radio licenses for the Canadian government, was fined $5 today. He didn't have a radio license.

One of the best health hints for the younger generation—go on home!



AIR VIEW OF CANADIAN WRECK—Wreckage of Canadian troop and passenger trains lies along the right-of-way after a head-on collision 312 miles west of Edmonton, Alta., late Tuesday. The toll rose yesterday to 20 soldiers and trainmen dead or missing and at least 61 injured, 22 seriously. A flaw in the delivery of train orders was blamed for the crash.

Motorman William Murphy on the first train told police he slowed for a caution signal. It changed to a go-ahead, he said, but for some unexplained reason his brakes jammed and he could not release them. His train ground to a stop.

There was no explanation why the railroad's block signal did not stop the second train.

"The train stopped for a few seconds," said Anthony Tartaglia, a passenger on the first train. "Then she tried to start up. Then all hell broke loose."

The crash came with what eyewitnesses described as a roar and a flash of light. There was no fire.

The lead car of the second train burrowed under the last car of the first train.

Said Accountant Jeff Kaufman, a passenger on the Babylon train:

"I saw steel shooting through the car. It was sheared right in half — like a slice of bread."

He said there was no panic but that shrieks of the dying filled the moment of awful silence that followed the ripping, grinding crash.

Few of the cars were derailed.

As thousands of horrified onlookers gathered, the grim rescue work commenced beneath the searchlights. Women wept and cried in the semi-daylight of the lights as they sought friends or relatives in the wreckage.

Arms and legs of victims hung out through holes or rips in the cars.

Priests, ministers and rabbis moved through the tangled mass of rescue apparatus, doing what they could to ease the torture of trapped or injured passengers.

First persons on the scene took some of the injured to private homes.

Utilities Spokesmen Predict Higher Rates If Profits Tax Levied

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Spokesmen for public utilities testified today that consumers may have to bear the burden of any excess profits tax that is levied on the utilities.

Predictions of higher rates for gas, electricity, telephone and transportation service to offset any such tax were given to the House Ways and Means Committee by spokesmen for the utilities industries.

They were the final witnesses as the committee ended seven days of public hearings on the administration's request for an excess profits levy to raise $4,000,000,000 more revenue.

The committee will meet again Friday behind closed doors to start writing a bill. It hopes to have the measure ready for consideration during the short session of Congress which convenes next Monday.

A pig purchased for a political banquet in Michigan was stolen. Imagine politicians with no pork.

How Many Ways Can We Say "Thanks"?

Merci ... Gracias ... Danke ... Tak ... Grazie ... yes, if we knew them all we could say "Thanks" in 2,796 languages.

But there are other, more important ways in which we—as Americans—can say "Thanks" for the many blessings we possess.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Freedoms by working and fighting to keep these freedoms against those who would destroy them.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Opportunities by using them not for personal gain alone, but for a better, more fruitful way of life for all.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Ingenuity by buying and using more of the products created out of the skills, the resources, the industry of our nation.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Schools by taking an active interest in the institutions that mold our children's futures.

We can say "thanks" for our American Armed Strength by remembering our soldiers individually with letters and love—and backing them collectively with U. S. Savings Bonds.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Homes by building them on the ideals of love, honor, and understanding—the ties that bind and keep a family together.

We can say "Thanks" for our American Plenty by digging into our Thanksgiving dinner.

Thanksgiving

America, in the midst of troubled times bringing distress of mind to many, today comes to a date hallowed by tradition in the realization that Thanksgiving is not merely an institution reserved for the usages of good times and happiness.

In America's span Thanksgiving has served this people in good times and bad, in weal and in woe. Culturally it is an all-inclusive day, catering to the spiritual needs of folk whatever their condition.

Thanksgiving is a time for heart searching and for personal endeavor to get in tune with the Infinite. This earth vouchsafes no regime and no order giving happiness to all.

The individual by his own efforts and in collaboration with his fellows achieves whatever approximation of content he may. That is very much a matter of facing the great climaxes as they come and surmounting them.

America and Americans are in an era of inflation against a background of uncertainty and fear. There is a vast search for security in an insecure world. In such a time people should turn as naturally to a just Providence as flowers to the sun. Thanks should be offered for the privilege of seeking the solace of an everlasting and an ever-present Power.

On Thanksgiving Day America's assignment and its great privilege is to seek by petition and entreaty, with an humble and contrite heart, the strength of faith.

Dr. Bush Is Gloomy

Dr. Vannevar Bush, atomic scientist, has already engaged in a great many predictions as to what the next war may be like. What he says does not make cheerful reading, and isn't intended to. Its purpose is to stimulate military minds and public opinion to prepare for the next war, not the last one.

Dr. Bush's latest remarks on the subject go beyond the military lessons that are being learned in Korea. In Korea U. S. ground-support aviation and the U. S. Navy have been virtually unopposed. But these are the departments in which Dr. Bush fears the Russians have this nation outclassed.

The U. S. Tactical Air Force, used in support of field armies, he considers definitely inferior to what the Russians can now put into the air. And he says it may be necessary to think about using the atom bomb as a tactical weapon, dropping it on large enemy concentrations.

Such use of the atom bomb would, in fact, seem far less unpalatable to most of the people of the world than dropping it on cities. The difficulty, as the U. S. Air Force found when it tried area bombing in Korea, may be in locating enemy concentrations suitable for such treatment.

But if it is true that the atom bomb as a strategic weapon may be a disappointment, it might be well to canvass the possibilities of using it tactically.

The defense against strategic bombing is mounting, as Dr. Bush points out. Little is known about Russia's defensive preparations—though distance alone will make delivering atom bombs there sufficiently complicated. The public knows that this country's defenses include radar, air-to-air and ground-to-air missiles, jets, and so on—on hand or on order. Russia may have gone further.

There is a possibility, too, that Russia is in position to challenge U. S. command of the seas, too, despite claims that the snorkel will be taken care of. The United States has been too complacent on this point in two wars. The first nation that succeeds—as Germany twice barely failed—in denying the seas to the free world will have a tremendous advantage.

Dr. Bush, unfortunately, is no crank. His gloomy comments make it clear that no amount of money spent for defense may be good enough unless it is directed into the right channels.

Noise Annoys

Noise can be bad for you. R. Allen Wilson, an acoustics engineer, says it slows the mind, clouds the judgment, cuts working output, and ruins the disposition. Excessive exposure to noise, he says, can make you harried, irritable, ready to blow your top. It may even drive you crazy.

This is disturbing news for parents of young children. Child psychologists tell them that normal children are rather noisy. If your child is too quiet, he is displaying a symptom which psychiatrists view with more concern than manifestations of over-aggressiveness, violence, and noise.

If we add the findings of Mr. Wilson to those of the child psychologists, here's what we get: If your child is quiet, something may be driving him crazy. If he is noisy, he may drive you crazy.

If he's noisy enough to drive you crazy, he's probably normal. But he doesn't have much chance of staying that way. Few children can stay normal for long if they live with parents who are being driven crazy.

If it's not already too late, you may feel like avoiding this dilemma by not having children. But psychiatrists say that a normal family life, complete with children, is a wholesome influence for mental health.

The moral seems to be that the more expert advice you listen to, the more confused you become. If you're a parent, actual or prospective, what you need most is a durable sense of humor.

Their Day May Come

You can't fight everybody. When a major war is on, it is unwise to add new enemies. This unpleasant truth actuated Winston Churchill, according to the latest volume of his memoirs, when in 1941 he abandoned resistance to the Russian determination to annex the Baltic states. Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia are non-Russian in population and liberty-loving, and in their days of independence were well governed. The Russians coveted their territory, and following the 1939 pact with Hitler, Russia annexed them. Churchill demurred at accepting this accomplished fact, but eventually decided that beating Hitler was more important, and that these little Baltic states would have to wait. The United States took much the same attitude: we have not yet recognized the validity of the annexation by Russia.

The German seizure of Alsace-Lorraine in 1870 and the partition of Poland by Germany, Prussia and Austria in the 1790's are examples of historic wrongs which seemed at one time as if they would never be redressed. After many years they were righted, and so, Americans will hope, will be the injustice done to Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Red Eye

WHEN AN EYE SMARTS and becomes red there is a chance that simple inflammation exists. But there are other possibilities and most of us prefer an expert opinion when the eyes are involved. After all, sight is too precious to take chances.

The severity of a red eye depends upon whether it is caused by external irritation or infection or an internal disturbance within the orbit. The latter is more serious and should be suspected when the physician discovered, for example, that one pupil is larger than the other or that the clear cornea in front of the eye lacks luster and is cloudy. This difference is most noticeable when only one is affected and the two eyes can be compared. Iritis, inflammation of the cornea, and glaucoma are the most likely origins. These are treacherous diseases and should be treated immediately.

Simple conjunctivitis is the most common cause of red eye. This represents inflammation or irritation of the white outer membrane and the inside of the lid. A tiny speck of dust, when unattended, may lead within a few hours to intense redness, tearing, and a burning sensation. The same symptoms may stem from inflammation and if the individual does not remember when the particle entered he may blame bacteria rather than dust. This only serves to prolong the agony because relief occurs rapidly after the fragment is removed. Those who believe that they are capable of removing foreign objects need a word of caution: even tho a speck cannot be seen, one still could be present. Sometimes these objects are transparent and cannot be detected.

Other conditions that produce temporary congestion are exposure to wind, smoke, bright lights, or glare. Errors of refraction or imperfectly fitted glasses and overuse of the eyes in poor illumination as well as alcoholism and misplaced lashes are additional causes. Redness sometimes accompanies gout.

• — • — •

The conjunctivia is easily burned, especially by the sun when the rays are reflected from water or snow. Chemical burns from acids or other caustics also are occurring with greater frequency. After such a mishap the eye should be irrigated immediately with large quantities of water. This is best accomplished by placing water in the cupped palm of the hand or holding the nose and ducking the face in a basin of water and opening and closing the burned eye. Meanwhile the physician should be called for followup treatment to prevent further damage of the tissues.

Bacteria and viruses find the conjunctivia a fertile field for their operations. In many types of conjunctivitis, the sulfonamides and antibiotic have been most helpful; some of the tougher varieties are now being treated with ACTH and cortisone. Allergy also must be considered as a source of congestion. Anyone who has observed the eyes of a hay fever victim knows what this condition is like. The lids itch and are read and puffy, and in many there is an overflow like Niagara falls. The number of potential allergens is large, but cosmetics, drugs, and soap head the list. Nail polish is a common offender; the chemicals reach the eyes thru direct contact with the hands.

SATURDAY: Heat applications often relieve pain.

GARLIC

M. J. writes: I have been warned never to touch garlic when I have an open wound on a finger because it might enter the blood stream and prove fatal. Is this possible?

REPLY

Poppycock! Actually, when garlic is absorbed from the stomach, it enters the blood stream. It is then eliminated through the lungs, as any one who comes within 5 feet of the offender can testify.

BLOOD VESSEL EMERGENCIES

A. H. M. writes: Is cerebral hemorrhage the same as a blood clot on the brain?

REPLY

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Visit To Ellis Island Reveals Human Story Behind Anti-Subversives Law; Thanksgiving Meaningless To Those Detained Due To McCarran Act

Says DREW PEARSON

ELLIS ISLAND, N. Y.—Thanksgiving began as a day on which a group of English immigrants gave thanks for being able to weather the rigors of one year on a new continent.

Today, three centuries later, immigrants are still arriving in small numbers in this country; only on this Thanksgiving Day the latest arrivals have little to be thankful for.

For the Statue of Liberty which once welcomed new arrivals like a beacon of hope in New York's cluttered harbor, stands with its back turned, both actually and figuratively, on Ellis Island.

This austere island has been doing a brisk business since the McCarran Communist control law went into effect. And Thanksgiving Day is anything but that for those who came seeking the land of promise, but found themselves shunted behind the red brick walls and high wire fences here along with stowaways and undesirable aliens.

Immigrants come along only in a trickle now—about 1,000 a month, compared with a million or so a month in the old days. And ironically, out of the approximate 1,000 new arrivals since the McCarran Act, only a handful are suspected of being Communists. The rest are guilty of nothing more than belonging to a Hitler or Mussolini front, usually as school kids or to get ration books.

To get the human story behind the law, you have to visit Ellis Island yourself. There the detainees stand in sullen clusters, mumbling in strange languages, gazing longingly at the New York skyline.

A lady immigrant passed the time giving haircuts, a father patiently taught his youngster to say "hallo" and "okay" to the guards, a mother tugged at an official's sleeve and pleaded in broken English: "My baby, she is sick!" Others wept quietly.

A pretty, 23-year-old German war bride, her eyes afloat, clutched a tiny bouquet of flowers. Her ex-G. I. husband had given them to her at the dock, then she had been whisked off to Ellis Island.

G. I. Husband Waits

"My husband is at the dock . . ." she sniffled. "Only five minutes . . . I see him only five minutes."

Her name was Henny Jacobsen—Mrs. Fred Jacobsen, she added through the tears. She met Fred in Essen, Germany, after the war. They were married in 1948, came to America and settled down in Baltimore. She was supposed to become an American citizen in December. Then her mother suffered a stroke, and Henny sailed back to Germany this summer to be at her side.

The guards asked Henny not to cry. They even tried to locate her husband by telephone.

"We don't like this any better than you," said one, gently.

Later in the afternoon, Henny was sworn in and faced an examiner.

"I was not a nazi. I told the man on the boat I was not a nazi," she pleaded.

But it turned out that Henny had joined a girls' group in school at the age of ten. It was on the list of Hitler organizations.

Though Henny had been forced to join and had quit as soon as she left school, the law made no exceptions. So the examiner intoned that Henny Jacobsen was "excluded from entering the United States," that her citizenship could not be granted.

Temporary Stay

Then, as she sobbed quietly, he dropped his formal manner and urged her not to worry. Attorney General McGrath, he said, had mercifully decreed that immigrants who had held only "nominal" membership in totalitarian organizations could be admitted for six months. By that time, maybe Congress would change the law.

It was the same story for elderly Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Vassal, who had come to live with their daughter, Mrs. Liesselote Masia of Chicago.

"My employer (in Germany) told me that if I wanted to work for him, I must be registered for the nazi party," Mr. Vassal, a frail ex-chauffeur, told the examiner. In spite of this, he became so disgusted with the nazis that he pulled out in 1938.

"A very good friend—he had a Jewish wife—and I like them so much that I said I am not going to belong to the nazi party," Mr. Vassal shrugged. "I went to the party and I told them I don't want to be a member any more."

The Vassals, too, got six months' grace, but, under the law, they can't stay in this country.

Six-Year-Old Blackshirt

Probably the most pathetic case was Antonio De Maria and his pregnant, 22-year-old wife who had left Italy in search of economic freedom, only to be stopped at Ellis Island.

The expectant mother, her eyes wet, admitted that she had belonged to a fascist organization—at the age of six.

"While I attended school, because all students were compelled to belong to some fascist youth movement, I enrolled at the age of six as a member of Balilla," she confessed.

This small confession will send her back to Italy in six months—unless the McCarran Act is amended.

"But my child will be an American citizen," she smiled triumphantly.

Those immigrants who had been approved for six months gathered up their frayed bundles and boarded an ancient ferry for the New York mainland. As the boat pushed through the congested harbor, a handful of immigrants, left behind, pulled out white handkerchiefs and waved pathetically. They didn't stop waving until the ferry touched the other side.

But the accepted immigrants were already thronging eagerly in the bow. When the docking was completed, they burst headlong off the ferry and raced on the mainland, shouting joyfully. They had reached America.

NOTE: In six months, however, they will be sent back—unless Congress changes the law it passed during the pre-election hysteria.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

What Are They Up To?

WASHINGTON

WHAT are the Chinese really up to in Korea?

There has never been a time when those experts who are supposed to have a ready answer for this sort of question have been more obviously puzzled and uncertain. The uncertainty springs from the contradiction between what the Chinese are doing and what they are saying.

Everything the Chinese Communists are saying points clearly to the conclusion that they are ready for a war with the United States. The Chinese leaders are quoted approvingly in the Moscow press as shouting that the "American interventionists" must be driven into the sea. The whole tone of the internal Chinese propaganda is that of a nation being prepared for all-out war.

Yet the evidence of the battlefield suggests just as clearly that the Chinese are by no means anxious for total war with this country. Since the first fierce attack, the Chinese have put up little real resistance. The Chinese could only seriously hope to defeat MacArthur's forces, which enjoy a great superiority in airpower and firepower, by overwhelming manpower. Yet the estimated 60,000 or so Chinese troops in Korea, are enough only for a tentative holding action—and all the indications are that the 60,000 figure is very greatly inflated. Moreover, this Chinese force is now receiving only a thin trickle of reinforcements. Thus the contradiction between Chinese words and Chinese deeds.

Cultivated Panic

According to certain State Department officials (whose views are strongly supported by the British), both Chinese words and Chinese deeds indicate a real, and hysterical, panic in Peking, which is being sedulously cultivated by the Soviets. The Chinese Communists are utterly without past experience or present contact with the Western world, and they may actually be convinced that the fighting in Korea is a planned prelude to the invasion of China.

According to this school of thought, the best way to prevent the war from spreading—which is the universally agreed American objective—is to instruct MacArthur to hold his troops back 10 or 20 miles from the Chinese borders. The Chinese should be offered a U.N.-administered buffer zone along the borders, and there should be no threats of bombing supply lines in China proper. Since what must be avoided is a conclusive, fear-motivated Chinese reaction.

A precisely contrary view is held in the Defense Department, and clearly by Gen. MacArthur himself. This is that the way to discourage the Chinese from all-out intervention is to press on to the borders, at the same time making it clear to the Chinese that if they seriously challenge MacArthur in Korea they will have to pay the price of heavy bombing of their vital installations in Manchuria. Both these views have been presented to the National Security Council, and all the indications are that the second has prevailed.

It may be that, faced with a bold front, the Chinese will quietly back down, as the Russians have repeatedly done. Yet the fact is that hope of any real settlement with the Chinese is increasingly faint and flickering. It is significant, for example, that the chief of the Chinese delegation now on its way to Lake Success is the Russian-educated and Russian-speaking Wu Hsiu-chuan. Ws is expected merely to repeat the fierce, familiar phrases of Russia's Malik and Vishinsky. It will be nothing short of miraculous if he shows the faintest inclination to negotiate seriously.

Brings War Close

It may be that the Chinese, in their total isolation from all contact except with Moscow, really expect the United States and its allies to bow to the tentative show of force in Korea. If so, they will, of course, be disappointed. And bar an unostentatious Chinese withdrawal from Korea, this brings a real war between this country and China very near indeed.

The United States could, if need be, fight a war of a sort with China, by establishing a defense line at the narrow neck of the Korean peninsula, bombing Chinese industry and supply lines, and actively supporting the half million or so anti-Communist guerrillas in South China. For a time, perhaps, it may come to this. But the fact is that this kind of war is an essentially futile and impossible war—"a war between the shark and the tiger," as one of the experts put it. It would be insanity for this country to commit itself to a war which would be both endless and strategically meaningless. On this point again, there is universal agreement among responsible officials.

There is agreement on a further point. The question—what are the Chinese up to in Korea?—is really the wrong question. The real question is: What are the Russians up to in Asia? The answer to this question appears plainer every day. The Russians intend to engage American power indefinitely in Asia, while Russian power is left free to move elsewhere. This is an answer which, in the long run, this country cannot and will not accept.

Dissent Against Fair Deal Shown By Farley's Talk

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — Probably the sagest of the political observers of our times is James A. Farley, who, after twice piloting a presidential nominee to success at the polls, nevertheless parted from that same individual on a matter of principle—opposing a break in the third-term tradition.

What Mr. Farley says now in analyzing the recent election is particularly significant and revealing. For it is the opinion of a man who, more than any other outside of public office, knows what the Democratic party really means to its followers and what it can mean in pursuing a course that might be termed sane instead of insane liberalism.

The man who not only served in the late President Roosevelt's Cabinet as postmaster general but who led the Democratic National Committee is certainly entitled to speak about the Democratic party as an institution.

Opposed To Third Party

"First," says Mr. Farley concerning the last election, "it showed in Ohio and in several other places that neither the Republican nor the Democratic parties, nor the working man himself, nor the voters generally want an independent labor party. I have many times made myself clear on this subject.

"Since labor unions became an effective force in our economy it has been suggested by some that labor might conceivably form a political party of its own, with the avowed objective of presenting its aims through the medium of a platform sponsored by an independent labor party.

"I want to say that I am definitely opposed to such an idea because I am a firm believer in the two-party system . . .

"The great danger since the two big labor federations have set up their own political organization is that in many districts and in some states these organizations might well supplant one or both of the regular parties. The result of this would be the elimination of policies by one issue and by one group in the community. That is quite contrary to the whole theory of government in this republican under a two-party system. The fear of that in Ohio I know in this year's election drove many Democrats to vote for Taft. And it is also clear that thousands of union members refused to be told how to vote by the political arms of the unions and voted for Taft in protest."

Federal Law Not Best

This is a frank exposition by one who knows the trends in party fortunes and the changing attitudes of voters. Mr. Farley, however, not only refers to what happened in Ohio but in his latest speech—made in the deep south at Tampa, Florida—he calls attention to the way the American Labor party, which he says "came to be heavily influenced by Communists," ran a ticket in New York State that was thoroughly buried by the regular party vote. He adds that he is "happy to note that the outlook is very dark for third or fourth parties in this country."

The former chief of the Democratic National Committee condemns also "the Brannan play, socialized medicine and other unsubstantial experiments" and calls on the President to summon the leaders of the South to solve civil-rights problems "on a regional and state basis."

"To pass a law," he remarks with reference to this issue that has aroused the South, "especially a federal law, is never the best way to correct an injustice."

What Mr. Farley says to his fellow Democrats and to the nation will be discussed widely. For it is the beginning of a very important dissent against new dealism and fair dealism which has been smouldering for some time but which is now coming to the surface as the independent Democrats, forced to choose between radicalism under the Democratic banner or anti-radicalism in the opposite party, are voting in favor of Republican candidates. Thus they do not hesitate to leave their party for the time being—at least until the Democratic party can get back on the track again.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Thanksgiving, 1950

ON APRIL 5, 1621, the Mayflower sailed away and the Pilgrims were cut off from the outside world. Life had been tough for them and the dead were numerous. Still, aided by some Indians, these English folk had learned how to grow corn and they had 20 acres of it.

Then the Indian summer came along in its blaze of New England colors, and they decided on a harvest festival of Thanksgiving. According to George F. Willison in his "Saints and Strangers," they had: "Venison, roast duck, roast goose, clams and other shellfish, succulent eels, white bread, corn bread, leeks and watercress and other 'sallet herbes,' with wild plums and dried berries as dessert—all washed down with wine, made of the wild grape, both white and red . . ."

Massasoit came with 90 braves, who did very well with the food.

Life, however, became increasingly more difficult. Out of their hardships they built our great nation, and each year, more or less, there has been a Thanksgiving Day.

Nowadays, we celebrate all our holidays as days of material pleasure. One would imagine that we were not thankful to God but to the turkey. We have substituted the turkey for the golden calf, just as we have made Christmas a holiday for exchange of gifts, not for religious worship.

It is characteristic of our time that this should be so, because we live in a materialistic age when little else cunts but what is provable and demonstrable. In a word, beauty, which is intangible; love, which is unmeasurable; charity, which is the cord that binds us everlastingly to God—the virtues of humanity—and not these alone—are buried in the junk heap of things that clutter our lives.

So, on Thanksgiving Day, we gorge, but do not pray; we thrill to the turkey, but not in humility, on bended knees, do we thank God that we live in this free land and that neither the course of events nor the stupidity of men nor the debasement of public and private morals has destroyed our liberties.

For that we are thankful to God's mercies.

On this day, I always turn again to Abraham Lincoln, who in times as dark as these, when the blood of our children was being spilled because men had been without truth, gave, in 1863, to his countrymen one of the most profound prayers:

"Whereas the Senate of the United States, devoutly recognizing the supreme authority and just government of almighty God in all the affairs of men and of nations, has by resolution requested the President to designate and set apart a day for national prayer and humiliation; and

"Whereas it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord;

"And inasmuch as we know that by His divine law nations, like inindividuals are subjected to punishments and chastisements in this world, may we not justly fear that the awful calamity of civil war which now desolates the land may be but a punishment inflicted upon us for our presumptuous sins, to the needful end of our national reformation as a whole people? We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of Heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us.

"It behooves us, then, to humble ourselves before the offended power, to confess our national sins, and to pray for clemency and forgiveness."

WASHINGTON

PERLE Mesta—Perle Mesta—Perle Mesta! Just thought you'd like to see her name in the paper.

Young lawyer Marvin Braverman, recently elected to the board of The Travelers Aid, gave aid and comfort to the Traveler From Luxembourg. . . At the cocktail party he tossed in honor of Mrs. Mesta the other afternoon, no announcement staggered the assemblage of diplomats, cabinet officers, military brass and senators, both elected and recently lame-ducked.

AUSTINE

Some of Perle's friends had winked knowingly for days beforehand that a "big secret" would be unfolded at the party. . . But the only thing out of the ordinary I noticed was Mrs. Harold Burton's hat. . . The size of a wagon wheel but more becoming.

Faye Emerson looked as pretty as she had been when she stayed at the White House a few years back. . . Introducing her next husband to be—Skitch Henderson—Faye said stacks of mail have flooded her since she announced her engagement on her television program. . . As usual she bubbled pleasantly and had a few wise comments on affairs of the day.

Remarked that the California Gold Rush has been reversed. . . Instead of rushing to Hollywood, eager young actors from California now rush to New York to do television shows. . . The other day, it seems, a wide-eyed, cutie pie reported from the Coast to make her name 'n fame on TV. . . Wouldn't make a move without calling her agent in Hollywood. . . He told her how to wear her hair, how to act at the Stork Club, what to say to the press and the minute she got to "21" for lunch the other day, she sat down at the table and telephoned her agent in Hollywood. . . "What shall I eat for lunch?" she asked him.

Chic, petite columnist, Florence Mahoney, recently divorced from the able newspaper editor, was causing bewilderment when she introduced her six-foot son. . . BILL DOUGLAS AND MILDRED:

Associate Justice William O. Douglas has made a promise to Mildred. . . Now a senior at Whitman College, that daughter of his has known for years what she wanted. . . A brand new, shiny convertible? . . . A Breath-of-Spring mink? . . . A trip to Europe? . . . Not on your life. . . Mildred yearns for cows. . . Has always wanted a cattle ranch. . . And Papa has promised that the money from his best seller "Of Men and Mountains" can be sunk into steers. . . .

Son William O. Douglas, Jr., still at Lawrenceville, hasn't made up his mind yet what profession he'd like. . . "He probably won't want to be a lawyer in daddy's footsteps," says his mother. "You never can tell, though. His father couldn't make up his mind till he was out of college either."

DOWNEY AND GURNEY:

Next year, when Nixon takes his seat, ex-Senator Sheridan Downey may take charge of representing California water users in Washington. . . He was once chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

Over the defeat of Tydings (Armed Services committee last chairman) certain Marylanders made no complaint. . . Among them, friends of former Maryland Senator Radcliffe. . . For allure and flattery, choose the V-neckline. This season you'll find it in new and varied styles for every occasion!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IT beats me why the woman who has reached that "certain" age and size riles up at the mere mention of the V-neckline. Any woman who knows what is good for her welcomes this current fashion—unless she has an extremely delicate, pointed chin.

The fact that expert and authoritative designers use the V-angle to minimize the appearance of a round or squarish jaw, a heavy neck and bosom, should convince the woman who is just beginning to discover that her pounds are showing. Instead, it throws many a one into a panic. And in spite of all the good advice available, these ladies leave the flattering V to the rail of a girl who doesn't need it—and then they envy her for the way she looks.

New Slenderizing Effects

Let's end this waste of line and emotion and acknowledge now that the V neckline in either the little or middle-size version is your best ally. I'll admit that the deep, open, plunging V is a bit chancy. But you can easily get the same fashion effect, and perhaps more subtly, with a set-in drape of lace or chiffon that harmonizes or matches the main color of your dress.

Now don't throw up your hands in horror! The new, beautifully manipulated drapes are nothing like the little piece of pink tulle your Great Aunt Victoria pinned in her dress for the sake of maidenly modesty. They're a clever, luscious finish to the dress.

The new, slenderizing versions of the diagonal neckline are found this year in costumes for every occasion. Look for the new V turned to its side and pulled across the collar bone to end in a point just below the center of the shoulder blade. See the clever diagonal that is a cuffed surplice. (Just be sure that the wide part of the cuff starts under your arm and that it tapers from there to a narrow band at a point near the shoulder joint).

Everything You Want

To distinguish your evening wear, choose the sweetheart or portrait neckline with a moderately low front cut and a high back; they're flattering from every view. They form a beautiful frame for the neck and face, cut the girth of the bosom from the side and hide the flesh at the nape of the neck. That is a no hit, no run, no error performance. What more could you ask of a neckline?

Miss Bean To Be Honored By Nat'l. Group

MAUDE A. BEAN

The National Home Demonstration Association Council is awarding a Distinguished Honor to Miss Maude A. Bean, Allegany county home demonstration agent, at the annual meeting of the association being held at the Hotel Stevens, Chicago, November 26-29.

Miss Bean leaves here Saturday for Chicago, where she will represent Maryland at the council. Five other Extension Agents throughout the country will receive tribute.

Coming to Allegany county May 17, 1925, Miss Bean has served as home demonstration agent, conducting programs for the homemakers and 4-H girls. The Extension Service of the University of Maryland, reports that in no other county has home demonstration work made a greater impression upon the homemakers and youth than in Allegany, for Miss Bean has "cooperated enthusiastically with the county agent in mobilizing community expression and organization." It also has noted that although Allegany is distant from the university, the homemakers have attended Rural Women's Short Course in greater numbers than from any other county; many 4-H club members have taken part and made fine records in state and national contests; and the older youth movement has "made fine progress."

The program for the meeting includes business sessions, panel discussions, exhibits, and talks beides the officers' breakfasts, luncheon-meetings and banquets.

Cop To Make Annual Transition From Policeman To Santa Claus

WILLIAMSPORT, Md.—(AP)—The transition from jolly old St. Nicholas to a hard boiled cop is a wide one—but after 21 years you get used to it.

Jacob H. Mills is Williamsports' dual personality. Adults in the town know him as an alert, unyielding officer of the law. And for the past 21 years he has been Santa Claus to Williamsport children.

"I'm starting to feel that I've had the job long enough. I wouldn't mind if some younger fellow took it over," Mills said.

But the annual miracle of Christmas is drawing near again, the eyes of Williamsport kids are getting wider and brighter, and Mills is taking the mothballs out of his Santa suit. He can't help it.

One year Mills got a call that Santa Claus had never been seen by some children in the Chariton area. He got a wonderful reception when he answered the call.

But on the way back, the car broke down and Mills had to tramp through rain and ankle-deep mud before he got home.

The Santa Claus that returned to Williamsport that night was a damp, bedraggled specimen who didn't give a wreath of holly if he ever heard a sleigh bell again.

Probably Mills accomplishes most when he visits the little people who are ill at Christmas time.

Aspirin tablets taste like taffy candy when Santa Claus in person brings wonder into a youngster's world.

Nurses there can tell you that visit brought lots of Christmas color to the pale little faces propped on sick-bed pillows.

One year during the Yule season, Mills saw a little girl—her name was Alice Hull—step into the side of a moving truck on a Williamsport street.

He was a block away, powerless to prevent the accident.

But he was quick to apply the Santa therapy right at her bedside just as soon as she was able to receive visitors.

This year again Washington county youngsters will be hearing the age-old tale of how the Wise Men brought rich gifts to an Infant who was born in a manger.

And Jacob Mills will be bringing his personal gift to the youngsters of Williamsport—the wonder of the Christmas legend of Santa Claus.

INGENUITY, ALONG WITH PAPER, PASTE, RIBBONS AND BOWS JOIN TO HELP MAKE CHRISTMAS JOLLY

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Paper and paste, ribbon and bows, go a long way to making Christmas the gay, jolly time that it is. Pretty gift wrappings, holiday party caps for the children and home decorations are easy to make if you get an early start.

When wrapping your gifts, remember that any item looks better in a box, says Drusilla Lowrie in her new book, "The Art of Gift Wrapping." She suggests that you ask for boxes when buying gifts and that you save all clean, strong, attractive looking boxes, cracker and cake boxes, ice cream cartons and other unusual boxes such as cheese boxes, which make very useful containers.

Odd boxes and containers can be utilized by painting them or covering with wall paper, decals or Christmas paper.

If you use a milk carton, ideal for a man's pipe, toys and even a bottle of toilet water, rinse the carton well, cut the top along three sides so that it will open as a lid and wrap the whole carton with gift paper.

Breakable gifts often come in factory packed corrugated boxes. Instead of removing the contents and risking breakage and another packing problem, why don't you transform the box into an attractive gift container by papering it with wallpaper or gift paper, suggests the book.

Tin or plastic boxes should be used for gifts of food and candy. If cardboard boxes are used, line them carefully with waxed paper, aluminum foil or cellophane.

To wrap a cylinder, cut paper slightly longer than the cylinder to be covered. Roll paper around the cylinder and seal. Fold ends neatly. Cover with a large seal. Leave one end of paper long and tie, then fringe by cutting the paper into narrow strips and add stars if you like for interest. If cellophane is used, the ends can be fluffed.

Bowls and jars can be wrapped prettily by cutting squares of cellophane in the same or contrasting colors. Set the bowl, jar or other container in the center, then bring all edges together at the top of the container. Tie with ribbon. Allow enough paper to give a nice spreading effect at top.

The best way to wrap a wine bottle is to use aluminum foil or metallic paper, crushing it around the neck of the bottle. Or wrap it in cellophane which is then twisted at the top.

You can find all kinds of tying materials. Take your choice of satin, taffeta, moire or novelty ribbons. Printed ribbons with designs personalze the package. One ribbon shows Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer making his merry way across green, red, blue or white ribbon—fun for small fry or sophisticates.

Children who like to make their own Christmas party favors will have fun making hats out of brightly colored tissue paper and red and green cellophane tape. A cone shaped cap can be cut out of red tissue paper; the two sides bound with the transparent tape, and white cotton pasted around the hat rim.

Youngsters can make pretty party caps out of two half-circles, cut large enough so that the diameter is half the head size. The straight half of the half-circles should be cut in points. Colored cellophane tape can be used to join the round sides of the two half-circles and also to run around the points and reinforce them. Use the tape in a checkerboard pattern for a pretty design.

Lovely decorative designs can be done in the house with colored decorative tape. This tap, which resembles adhesive tape except for its color and smoothness, is pliable and easy to handle. You can spell out Merry Christmas on the fireplace, front door or on the walls, and remove it in a jiffy just by stripping it off. A cute idea is to use silver decorative tape and put a few musical bars such as Jingle Bells on the window.

The canning process of preserving food in U. S. was introduced in 1820 by William Underwood.

New System Set For Publications

Maryland children have a better chance to learn about their state under a new system of distributing publications, according to Helen M. Clark, Director of the Division of Library Extension.

This division of the Department of Education distributed to the schools at cost last year more than 61,000 publications of the various state agencies.

The new method of distribution was worked out with the Department of Information, the Board of Natural Resources, the University of Maryland, and the Department of Health.

In the past, individual inquiries by pupils and teachers for publications results in an expensive and uneven distribution. The reason for this is that no state agency ordinarily puts out as many as 65,000 copies of a booklet, which is the number required to take care of all pupils studying Maryland.

Under the new system, county school supervisors place orders for the publications with the various agencies and buy the material at cost, usually a few cents a copy.

Short Gap Society Votes Yule Gifts

The Short Gap WSCS voted to take a box of candy to each of the patients at the County Home for Christmas when the group met recently at the home of Mrs. Clyde Shobe, Knobley Road. It was decided to have the next meeting in the form of a Christmas party, December 15, at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Sisk.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Artis Massey, who also read a Thanksgiving piece; Mrs. Helen Riley read the Scripture, Mrs. Chester Miller, a poem and Mrs. Bruce Blauch offered prayer. "Health in a Rural Community."

Democrat Meeting Not Expected To Reconvene

Delegates of Allegany County to the Maryland Democratic convention are expected to vote against reconvening the meeting as proposed at an earlier session, it has been announced.

Most of the delegates from other areas are expected to vote the same way. The delegates are being polled by telegram.

After nominating candidates for state office Oct. 2, the convention recessed until "not later than Nov. 27" when it was to work out some new method of alloting unit votes by which candidates are nominated.

Harry T. Gross, counsel to the Democratic state central committee, said the party leaders now feel that with the probability of a constitutional convention which would thrash out the whole nominating procedure, a party gathering on the issue would be unnecessary.

In a general election referendum, Marylanders voted overwhelmingly in favor of calling a convention to redraft the state's constitution. The charter sets the formula for representation of the state's political subdivisions which forms the basis of the unit system.

A cry to change the unit system of nominating arose within the Democratic party after Governo Lane received the most unit votes and the nomination in the September primary even though George P. Mahoney led by 17,000 in the popular vote.

A similar situation developed in the Republican senatorial primary when Senator-elect John Marshall Butler was nominated under the unit vote system even though D. John Markey received the greater popular vote total.

Streets Are Patched For Winter Months

An asphalt spreader has been preparing surfaces torn up by the installation of flood conduits in downtown Cumberland.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, city street commissioner, said the flood project contractor is placing a second layer of temporary patching on the path of the conduit.

On the other side of the Western Maryland Railway tracks, the intersection of Greene, Washington, and Cumberland streets in front of the Algonquin Hotel has been torn up for the installation of a four-inch main by the C. and A. Gas Company. This work is slated to be finished this week.

ARE YOU A DADDY LONGLEGS? Do you feel like a jackknife when you sit on a seat that's too low?

WERE YOU THE STAR FULLBACK? Get all doubled up when you don't have room to sit up comfortably?

THEN PLYMOUTH'S FOR YOU—everyone else too—with roominess and natural posture Chair-Height Seats.

. . . another reason why Plymouth owners are in a class by themselves!

MORE EYE ROOM! Plymouth seats give all a deeper view of the passing scene, and they give the driver a closer view of the road in front of the car.

MORE LEG ROOM! Rear seat passengers have a full inch more leg room than in Car A, and 3½″ more than in Car B. Front seat passengers in a Plymouth have up to 2″ more than in Car A, and 1¼″ more than in Car B.

MORE FOOT ROOM! Rear seat passengers have almost 2″ more vertical foot room under the front seat than in Car A, and a full 3″ more than in Car B.

MORE CHEST ROOM! Whether the seat is adjusted forward or backward, the driver of a Plymouth has more chest clearance than he would have in either Car A or Car B.

MORE HEAD ROOM! In a Plymouth, driver and passengers enjoy almost 2″ more head room than they would have in Car A, half an inch more than in Car B.

MORE SHOULDER ROOM when entering or leaving a Plymouth! Rear door swings 12″ wider than in Car A, 10″ wider than in Car B. Both Plymouth door openings are nearly 3″ higher than in Car A, more than 2″ higher than in Car B.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS. (INS)

IT WAS a revelation to come back to this handsome old place, the Greenbrier, whose quiet grandeur, setting and service were once so roundly praised by a resident named Robert E. Lee.

I knew it before Dorothy Draper came in with her gift of transformation, and before it became a favorite resort of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and the home course of the great Samuel Snead.

Last time I was this way, Greenbrier and its white cottages in the pleasant green hills were Ashford general hospital, and its halls and rooms swarmed with the wounded. It was just after the end of World War II.

It was a time of wonder and speculation for the maimed. They paced the endless sweeps of corridors, like members of a quiet religious order in their old maroon bathrobes. Or they sat in the sunny parlors, playing cards or listening to the juke box, or down at the casino they watched the trim nurses and doctors playing tennis. Or they just sat and stared.

Peace—endless peace, they presumed—lay before them. And it worried many of them. They had given up their whole lives and hearts, and, in some cases, a great portion of their bodies, to the army—reluctantly at first, and then as if it were something for which they had been born.

They had become children of the army. It had bought them their clothes, their shoes, and now, with brisk gratitude, was mending them, shoring up the agony. It had done all their thinking for them for a long time.

It had told them when to get up, when to fight, when not to fight, when to eat, what to eat, when to sleep, when not to sleep. It had paid them in the coin of the realm, given them special prices at the PX to compensate for what it could not pay them; had given them free shows and other little services.

But now the thing was over, except for those very bad off, and the bulk of the men would be released. To what? Would their jobs be there where they had dropped them? Would the fellow with the flat feet or the punctured ear-drum, or the kids, have gone far beyond them in the plant, the shop, the office? Would anybody really give a darn, now that the thing was over?

They wondered about the GI Bill of Rights, and what to go in for at the schools which beckoned to them. And they wondered whether it wouldn't be better just to give up the whole notion of going to (or back to) school—and set sail. They wondered about their girls and their wives, and how much they had changed.

And, above all, the badly wounded wondered how much of a burden they would be and, wondering, sometimes grew quietly white with anger over the imagined slights and maudlin pity they'd received—once they had to leave this haven in the quiet West Virginia hills.

My reason for being there was to ghost a book for Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, the ultimate expendable. He told his gallant and pitiable story with an economy of sentimentality, day after day, while we sat on the porch of his cottage and he relieved the tortured years of his defeat and captivity.

In the month I spent with him I came to respect and even love him with something close to the emotion which was aroused in one of his men—the night Wainwright was forced by Gen. Homma to sign the surrender papers on Corregidor.

He told the story simply. As he walked away from the surrender table he passed through a field of his starved, diseased and defeated men—prisoners like himself. And as he did a GI got up from the dirt, got in step with the old gentleman and officer, and put his arm around Wainwright's shoulder.

"Don't worry, General," the GI said. "You did the best you could."

It was a line, the General told me, that helped him to survive what followed. He looked down the green hill in front of his bungalow as he told me the story . . . down into the little valley where another defeated general had once lived.

"I had always been a student of Civil War history," he said, quietly, "but it was not until that boy spoke to me that I truly knew how Robert E. Lee felt at Appomattox."

Anthropologist Believes Human Brain Came Last

CHICAGO — (AP) — Which came first in human evolution: Man's body structure or his brain?

A University of Chicago anthropologist advanced the theory—based on laboratory tests with animals—that the brain came last, a mere 50,000 years ago.

This would fix man's age on the earth at only 50,000 years, rather than around a million years as some investigators assumed.

Sherwood L. Washburn, associate professor of physical anthropology, gave this timetable of the past for man's parts.

Trunk and arms—10,000,000 years old.

Leg structure (upright posture)—1,000,000 years.

Skull structure and brain—50,000 years.

Washburn has been able to modify drastically the skull form of adult rats by cutting certain muscles in the heads of one day old rats. This surgery parellels evolutionary steps.

He told members of the university's citizens board that his work indicated that changes in the bony structure of mammals, including humans, might not have required the many slow evolutionary steps previously assumed. Simple evolutionary changes in muscles, he said, could cause drastic modifications in bone structures.

He said only a relatively few changes in genes—the factors which control heredity—may have been required to bring the enlarged skull capacity man needs for his brain.

153 New Words In Six Months

NEW YORK, (INS) — The American language, which already has to many words that too few persons can define, has acquired 153 new words in the last six months.

Funk and Wagnalls lexicographers — and old word meaning people who make up dictionaries — compiled the upstarts in their full edition of the semi-annual "new words.

Some of these are more familiar to the multitude than many of the old words — for example, L'il Abner's kigmy, and roller derby.

The Korean war has added to our vocabularies such terms as gook, fire-fight, shaped charge, and trooplet. Television has brought us craspedomorphosogy, which is the study of resolving power of photographic lenses, and phototrasistor, wich is something else entirely. But to long to define

It remained for the supreme wordwranglers, the advertising trade and Radio Moscow, to make the most vivid contributions. From the bucksters came ear-owner, meaning any target for radio plugs, and from Moscow came atomshik, a atomic war-mongerer.

Bikini Bathing Suit Is Here To Stay, Top Designer Says

MIAMI—(INS)—The Bikini bathing suit, that whisp of twine and handkerchief which has hung by a thread in more ways than one since its French creation four years ago, has apparently reached firm ground in the United States.

A leading designer says it's here to stay.

But don't start rushing for the beach, boys. That's only one man's opinion and even he admits that it will take two to three years to get the girls accustomed to parading around with not much more than what nature provided as a barrier against curious eyes.

Mal Marshall, a Miami clothing designer who has a phobia about stuffy wearing apparel, predicted today that within a matter of months the Bikini suit will catch more attention on American beaches than the atom bomb caught at its namesake.

And, Marshall continued, within a few years grandmothers will be saying "I remember when" about the torso covers the girls are wearing now.

The daring designer shrugs off the thought that some people might frown on his prediction.

"They'll just have to get used to seeing nudes on the beach," Marshall remarked. "Those people were shocked when girls took their hose off and men quit wearing high-collared shirts. They'll get used to it."

Marshall cited what he calls the "great technological problem of design" as one reason why the suits have not hit the mass market. He explained:

"Designing a Bikini is like cutting a diamond. The subject is so tiny that it's hard to get the proper perspective.

"Then, of course, every inch of the suit serves what you might call an essential purpose. You don't have extra material to play around with."

To solve that problem, the designer plans to rely on colors and unique materials to give his suits variety.

"My hottest idea yet," he revealed, "is a fluorescent job. You can't miss a babe on the beach night or day if she's wearing one of them."

So far, about the only Bikini suits to be spotted around Miami Beach this season have been stretched around models' shapes for photographic purposes. Press-agenting photographers look on the suits as the greatest boon to photography since Sally Rand discovered fans.

"A Bikini suit," said one academic lensman, "gives more cheesecake per square inch than a Minsky stripper shows in a week."

Court Sessions To Be Held In Hagerstown

Associate Judge George Henderson will be in Hagerstown next week to hear trials on the criminal docket of Washington County Circuit Court, he has announced.

He will be there Monday through Friday returning here Saturday. Monday, December 4, and Tuesday, December 5, he will return to Washington County for the manslaughter case involving an Allegany County man.

Judge Henderson said the case is against William J. Hughes, 24, of Midland, who was the driver of the truck that struck and killed Thomas Robertson, 43, of Lonaconing, last May 3 during picketing operations on Old Cemetery Road, Knapp's Meadow.

The trial was ordered moved to Hagerstown in October from Allegany County Circuit Court after affidavits were produced attempting to prove that Hughes would not get a fair and impartial trial here.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

An oldie but is still good is the story of the cranky storekeeper in a backwoods Alabama town who told a traveling salesman, "Things is so high, nobody hearabouts has got money fer anything." The salesman started to blame the Administration when he suddenly recalled he was in Alabama, and apologized. "Sorry I forgot everybody in these parts is a Democrat." "We sure are," agreed the storekeeper. "Voted straight Democrat all my life, and my Pappy and Granpappy afore me. But let me tell you something, Mister. If you Damyankees don't stop voting Democratic too, yer gonna ruin this whole darn country."

The growing popularity in France of a cola drink America has cherished for years had the wine industry in a tizzy, it tried to persuade the French government to ban the sale of the concoction by a legal injunction. The bill was defeated. One American correspondent says the Council probably cried, "Let 'em eat Coke!"

512 Highway Deaths Noted

If all persons killed by speed or carelessness on Maryland highways in 1949 stood hand in hand, they would form a human chain a half mile long.

This fact was brought out this week by Dr. Russell S. Fisher, chief medical examiner of Maryland, in his annual report to Governor Lane on the work of the Department of Post Mortem Examiners.

The examiners performed a total of 4,173 post mortems. Major causes of death, besides 512 highway casualties, were disease, accidents such as falls, suicides, and homicides.

Of the highway deaths, Dr. Fisher commented, "It is our belief that the public does not realize fully the dangers inherent in even the "temperate drinking of alcoholic beverages when coupled with the use of the automobile."

He reported that a Baltimore study showed seven out of 15 drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking before the accident. Of the 39 pedestrians killed, ten may well owe their deaths to alcohol rather than to negligence of drivers, he added.

Commenting on the 309 Maryland deaths by suicide, he said that if it is true that most suicides occur during a period of mental unbalance, "Then the need for wider extension of mental hygiene and psychiatric guidance is evident." There were 231 male ad 78 female suicides. The chief means were illuminating gas, hanging, firearms, and sleeping tablets.

Police Say No Drinking At Alco-Sentinel Game

Intoxicants will not be tolerated today at the Alco-Sentinel football game in Fort Hill Stadium, Chief of Police Emmett Flynn has announced.

Regular members of the Cumberland Police Department and patrolmen of the auxiliary force will be on hand to direct traffic, curb confusion in general and keep imbibing at a minimum, he said.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, head of the Traffic Bureau, reported that a parking area at the rear of Fort Hill High School will accommodate about 300 cars. Motorists parking on white lines in front of the stadium and school will be arrested, he said.

Lilya said "Turkey Day" plans call for patrolmen to direct traffic with the help of signs pointing to parking areas. Only vehicles loading and unloading will be permitted to stop in front of the stadium.

The name "dune" was first given to the sand hills which stretch along the seacoast of the Netherlands and the north of France.

It wasn't luck that brought the Pilgrim Fathers to America, it was their stubborn determination to find a better life ... it wasn't luck that won the American Revolution, it was bitter fighting and high ideals . . . it wasn't luck that turned the struggling young country into the richest and most powerful on earth, it was hard work and far-seeing vision.

Above all, it wasn't luck that preserved a democracy for almost two hundred world-shaking years. Things like that don't happen by luck. They happen because men make them happen—because men who believe in freedom, democracy, and a good way of life, work, fight and die for them.

AN OLD-TIME INSTITUTION WITH NEW-TIME WAYS

Now As Then

Today, as our forefathers did, we celebrate Thanksgiving with a deep appreciation for His generosity. But now, as then, we are faced with the necessity of carrying arms to protect ourselves from forces of darkness that threaten to smother the light of liberty. Yet, with faith in Him we are certain that liberty will conquer, as it did then.

Nurses Make Tour Of Local Dairy Plant

Forty-eight new students at Memorial Hospital School of Nursing visited the Queen City Dairy plant yesterday afternoon for an on-the-spot inspection of pasteurization processes.

The group was accompanied by J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian; Mrs. Gladys Brooks, educational director; and Miss Violet Popp, who is in charge of classes for new students at Memorial.

The inspection visit was arranged as part of the course in food sanitation being conducted by the Health Department for the student nurses.

Classes are being held at the hospital by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, deputy state health officer; and Dowling.

The group visited the milk weighing, sampling and testing room; the compressing room where ice machines and cooling equipment are kept; the processing room and bottle filling and pasteurizing room.

The tour concluded with a visit to the dry storage room and plant laboratory. In the latter place, the students heard talks on bacteria testing and the phospotase test, which detects incomplete pasteurization.

Also explained was the "high temperature short time" pasteuri- Fahrenheit and held there at least 15 seconds, to meet U. S. Public zation process in which milk is heated to at least 160 degrees Health Code requirements.

Hospital Group Visits Dairy

Exhibits Attract Interest

Two exhibits are being held at the Cumberland Free Public Library for the remainder of this month, Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian said last night.

In connection with Book Week, which was observed November 12-18, the exhibit shows a fox reading a book about "Hansel and Gretel," while a doll, representing a child, is reading a book, "Foxie." Miss Walsh explained the artist designing the poster said he always saw pictures of children reading about animals so decided to have an animal reading about children and chose a fox because he is the smartest of animals.

Upstairs in the children's room the SS. Peter and Paul Elementary School has a Thanksgiving exhibit. It is the first this year under the sponsorship of the Civic Committee of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, with Mrs. F. Perry Smith, chairman, which is encouraging the schools of the city to submit exhibits for the children's room.

Various Thanksgiving activities were represented in panels. They depict the children's ideas of Thanksgiving, and show in the first panel a boy in the woods, who is scared at the sight of an Indian; then a turkey in a tree, which is shot by the Indian and later the boy and Indian are making a fire to cook the turkey and have their first Thanksgiving. Other ideas of Thanksgiving are shown by the hundreds of entries which include turkeys, posters, shadow boxes and booklets on the history of Thanksgiving.

A NICKEL IS STILL THE PRICE TO PAY FOR COKE
Year in, year out, through wars and depressions, through good times and bad, the price of Coca-Cola has always been a nickel—the quality has always been the same. Today, in spite of continually rising production and distribution costs, you can still get Coke for 5¢ a bottle, 25¢ a carton, $1.00 a case. We think that's a mighty big value in refreshment.

Police Probe Theft At Negro Elks Home

Police are still investigating the theft of $100 in cash from a walk-in vault at Cumberland Lodge No. 176, IBPOEW, 142 Harrison Street.

Police said Carl Frisby, exalted ruler of the Negro organization, discovered the entry Tuesday morning.

The intruder, according to Detective Thomas J. See, used a key to enter the building. The outer door of the vault was not in working order, and the culprit used a chisel on the lock of an inner door. Two other locks in the place were broken.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22 (INS)—Twenty-four hours ago, Robert Dane was the chief inspector at the Technicolor plant working the night shift between midnight and 8 a.m.

Today he is the leading man in "The Bridge" given the role by Hugo Haas. Apparently Haas just loves to give breaks to unknowns! Look what he did for Beverly Michaels in "Pick-up." It will make her a star.

Haas, who will write, produce and star in "The Bridge," met the tall, dark, good-looking Dane at a party recently and the boy told him he wanted to be an actor.

But just in case he isn't a hit, he's asked for his old job back at Technicolor when the movie is finished.

As you are eating your turkey dinner, don't forget to be thankful that you are living in a great, free country; that you can sit down with your loved ones and discuss any subject you wish and that you can go to the church of your faith to thank God for your privileges as heirs to the greatest title in the world—American citizens!

Our Thanksgiving, like yours, is the day we spend with our families and friends at the bountiful board—unless, of course, you are a movie star like poor Gregory Peck who is eating tamales, tacos and chili beans on location in Nogales.

This is the anniversary of Marianne and Philip Dorn so they are substituting a wedding cake for the pumpkin pie.

Vic Damone won't eat alone. His mother flew out from New York in time to eat—and cook—Vic's dinner for him.

Weather permitting, Esther Williams and Ben Gage are barbequing their turkey and dining in the patio with their families.

Me? I'll slide in just under the wire to dine with my family after a flying trip to San Francisco to put on a show for the wounded vets.

Maurice Evans' long stay in Hollywood has an interesting aftermath. He has become interested in Hollywood actors. He has signed Ruth Hussey for the Ethel Barrymore role in "Royal Family," the stage play which had such a long run on Broadway.

Ruth comes home today to have Thanksgiving with her family, and she will return to New York in time for rehearsals in January.

Maurice, who will not appear in this play as an actor, is also interested in getting Robert Walker to star in a revival of "Golden Boy" on Broadway in the spring. Bob has all but signed the contract.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

An eyebrow lifter — Dan Dailey and his estranged wife, Liz, very chummy at the Sportsmen's Lodge. They say it was just a friendly get together over the property settlement.

The late Carole Landis' house is up for sale again. The present owner tried to dispose of the property at the time of Carole's tragic death but no takers.

Poor Joan Evans won't even get a nibble on a turkey bone. She had two impacted wisdom teeth out today.

It isn't too late to send CARE a check for a holiday package for the needy all over the world. Get out that checkbook—do it now

Betty Meehan called to tell me that her lovely little daughter, Frances Meehan, opens tomorrow at the Pasadena Playhouse in Lynn Root's new comedy, "Heaven Help The Angels."

The two women in Franchot Tone's life, Barbara Payton and Jean Wallace, were at Mocambo's community sing night ignoring each other politely. Barbara was with Bob Calhoun and Jean with Kurt Grotter.

Jose Ferrer sat out the premiere of "Cyrano" in a Beverly Hills cafe because he was scared of the Hollywood reaction! And all they said was—he's terrific.

That clever child actor, eight-year-old Gordon Gebert, plays Ray Milland's juvenile pal in "People In Love" at Paramount.

Patricia Medina goes with David Selznick and Jennifer Jones to Arrowhead Springs for the weekend.

That's all today. See you Saturday.

ONE INDIRECT SERVICE

BESIDES the chance of enabling your side to buy a desirable contract, an immediate overcall of the opponents' opening bid can render several other services for your side. One indirect service is its influence on the bidding of the other fellows. Sometimes it happens that they have a good situation for seeking a No Trump game, with each of them owning a single stopper in your suit. But neither knows about his partner's stopper and may be unwilling to take the risk of such a contract with only a single winner in your suit.

Notice the influence that North's overcall at Table 1 exerted on the rest of the bidding. East extended himself a bit to make his free bid of 2-Clubs over the 1-Spade by North, a call which might have been easy if North had passed and he was keeping the bidding open for a possibly strong partner. South's tenuous showing of a spade fit made the job still tougher for the stronger pair.

West, with just the singleton K in his partner's suit and the single stopper of the A in spades, felt that he had better rebid diamonds. When the 3-Diamonds reached East, he was afraid to try 3-No Trumps, as he expected his spade K to be consumed in the first trick or two, after which it would be necessary to run eight consecutive additional tricks. He of course didn't know about his partner's spade A. A bolder bidder would have tried the 3-No Trumps in his position. But bear in mind that in bridge you are playing against the particular human beings you happen to have at your right and left, and many of them react the way both East and West did here.

At Table 2 of the same duplicate game, North did not like to overcall with his hand—bad judgment when he was not vulnerable and the opponents were. His pass left it easy for the other side to bid smoothly into a natural No Trump game, which could be made plus an extra trick by normal play. Only the same ten tricks, for no game, were made in the diamond contract.

If West bids 1-Heart, East 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades, West 3-Clubs, North doubles, East 3-Hearts and North doubles that, what factor makes North's defense awkward?

POSITION CHANGES RANK

IT IS perfectly true that the location of your honors in the opponent's trump suit has a big influence on their trick-taking value. If they are at the left of the hostile honors, they ordinarily are more valuable than if they were at the right. But it is also true that their rank is altered, so far as effectiveness is concerned, if your partner has none of the suit and can't lead them through the declarer. A canny player of the cards may manage to make you wind up leading a trump to him.

A player should not double such contracts with a hand like North's unless he knows how to do a sound job of defensive play. In this case, he botched it so badly that the declarer made the contract and got away with a game which was surely not dealt in the cards.

North opened the J of his partner's spades. The Q went on and South decided not to cover, putting on his 3. The diamond 3 was led, South playing low and the 8 forcing the A. Now the spade 2 brought the 8, 9 and A and the heart 3 was led. North, if he realized the awkwardness of the situation, should have come in with the Q, laid down the A and then led the 2 to destroy the dummy's ruffing ability. But he put on the 2, and West finessed the 7 successfully—pretty low for a first round trick.

The club K and A were scored and the 3 ruffed by the heart 5. The closed hand was re-entered by ruffing the diamond 4 with the heart 4 and the club 5 ruffed by the heart J. That made three tricks won by dummy's three trumps. Now, with North having nothing but four trumps and West already owning eight tricks, the spade 10 was led, the club J being put on it. North had to ruff, which he did with the heart 6. But nothing could now prevent him from giving West the contract trick with the heart K. He scored the A, then led the 10 to the K, and the Q took the final trick.

Arthur Godfrey In Three Colors

John Crosby

I TOOK three strong drinks today and then went off to look at Arthur Godfrey in three colors. "We anticipated something of an historic occasion—the first regularly scheduled commercial color television program. But due to circumstances beyond our control . . ." said the announcer. The circumstances were a court action in Chicago. The occasion, with or without court action, was somewhat less than historic. Godfrey ir full color, the re live Godfrey w o is displayed er at CBS in open cage du g the hours he not on the air, a wonderfully colorful spectacle. His hair brick red, a sor of dark Williamsburg brick—aged, it seems by several centuries. His freckle and ruddy complexion contribut a good deal to a personality that is easily one of the wonders of ou time.

• — • — •

In color, though— hat i televised CBS color as oppose to 485 Madison Avenue color or as it is sometimes known God color—Godfrey was a grave disappointment. Arthur's hair, o of the glories of the universe, came out pretty close to black. H complexion was streaked with re lines, like an Indian in full warpaint, and when he wrinkled his orehead, he looked as if he had sca et fever.

This is especially ustrating to me because I have to ed CBS color television to my frie s for months as a very fine thin However, the CBS color I have se has been piped into CBS studi this was actually broadcast ove the air in order to demonstrate at would come into your homes, ovided all those legal barriers wer lifted. Well, CBS color is still a retty wonderful thing but it is n as good as I had said it was, (t ugh, of course, it is always aston ing to anyone who is accustomed black and white).

As a show, e first almost-regularly-schedul commercial television show wa t much. It opened, as do all CBS or combinations, with Miss Patty ainter who is generally known aro d CBS as Miss Color Television Miss Painter has been in full color nger than any other living hum being. She is a blonde with bl eyes, endowed with a magnifi nt facility for gab. In fact, they t n her on at CBS like a water igot—fifteen minutes, half an hou or hour, forever—and Miss Patty ainter, as long as the color c ers are on her, displays and discusses roses, anemones, taffeta, grey lace, black lace, Chesterfields, Pa olive, Dreft, Rinso—well, name an hing. She can do this indef in ely. It'd be a terrible thing if the CS vice president in charge of tty Painter forgot to turn her f some night. They'd find her in l the primary colors, still talking bout the beauty of anemones the ext morning.

In order to get an objective look at Miss Painter, I took along my secretary—she's a girl—whose outlook on females is more disinterested than mine. I append her comments: "Struck by fact inanimate objects look wonderful but Patty Painter looks awful. Skin a pale gray. Mouth smeary. Hair brassy with greenish tinge and dark roots." I wouldn't have been that severe myself but I think that girls have an eye for feminine details which elude me.

The tri-color Godfrey—I'll take this chore on personally—wore a lei of red carnations, a print Hawaiian shirt and posed against a pale blue painted sea, strumming a ukelele. "From the sublime to the ridiculous," he muttered as the color cameras shifted from Miss Painter to himself. He sang a song, "When You Love The Ukelele Style", and then introduced a Hawaiian dancer, outfitted in a blue fringe skirt, silver girdle, blue halter and pink carnation lei. She danced.

• — • — •

Janette Davis, of the regular Godfrey crew, appeared. Miss Davis is a red head, too, but she appeared almost black-haired to the color cameras. More comments from my secretary: "Hair looks dull, dark brown and lips smeary. Skin ghastly pale shade. Everybody looks as if they have hangovers." The two sang a duet, "If I Had You On A Dessert Island," a song which appears to reflect temporary neuroses, and then fell to discussing color television. "Peter Goldmark and Frank Stanton have got 98 per cent of their blood in it. That's why it's good," says Mr. Godfrey.

It's only fair to add—having looked over the rather sour comments above—that color television brings a depth and detail to television that isn't possible in black and white. The first almost-regularly-scheduled commercial telecast just didn't do it justice.

Oakland's Yule Season To Open Saturday Night

Decorations Will Be Illuminated Then

OAKLAND — The Christmas season will officially open Saturday night with the turning on of street decorations and a concert by the Terra Alta High School band, according to Karl Lehman, chairman of the mercantile division of the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce.

Lehman said Oakland stores would have holiday merchandise on display beginning this week, and called attention to the large variety of gift items offered.

Beginning December 7, stores will remain open each Thursday afternoon through December 28, he added, to give shoppers in the area an opportunity to complete their gift lists.

Special events are planned each Saturday until Christmas. On December 2, a free children's movie will be shown at the Maryland Theatre beginning at 9 a.m. All children will be admitted free to this special cartoon program.

On December 9, a number of valuable prizes will be given to shoppers at 3 p.m. The awards will be distributed on the corner of Alder and Second Streets.

Saturday, December 16, promises to be the big day, with the arrival of Santa Claus and the distribution of the annual kiddies treat. This will take place on the Episcopal Church lawn at 2 p.m.

Five Additional Gas Permits Issued In Garrett County By State Board

More Wells Planned In Mt. Lake Area

OAKLAND—Five additional permits for gas wells have been issued by the Maryland Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources to drill wells in the immediate vicinity of Mt. Lake Park.

Dr. Joseph T. Singewald, Jr., state geologist, made the announcement at a recent dinner at the Pickwick Inn given by officials of the Columbian Carbon Company. Oakland officials also attended.

Permits have been issued to the Columbian Carbon Company, the Nollem Oil and Gas Corporation, the Petroleum Drilling Company and two to Sneel and Eberly.

Two Wells In

Interest was apparently stimulated by the bringing in of two wells by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and the Columbian Carbon Company in 1949 and 1950 respectively.

The Deer Park anticline extends across the county from the West Virginia line in a northeasterly direction to the Pennsylvania line for a distance of nearly 50 miles. A well recently drilled northeast of Avilton was a dry hole, but Dr. Singewald declared the entire 50 miles was a potential gas-producing territory worthy of careful geologic study for structural highs.

The Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, had been waiting completion of the topographic resurvey of the county. This would provide a topographic base map that would permit the more accurate mapping of the structural details.

The new topographic map became available in 1949 and Dr. Thomas W. Amsden spent the summers of 1949 and 1950 in mapping portions of this anticline, including areas to the southwest and to the northeast of Mt. Lake Park.

Map Valuable

Although this work was undertaken to provide a new geologic map of the county, the portion completed is especially valuable in connection with the present gas explorations, Dr. Singewald said.

The Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, is also logging cuttings from the wells in an effort to find horizon markers in the thick series of shales that overlie the gas horizon. These will be helpful guides to drillers.

Officials of the Columbian Carbon company present at the dinner were O. W. Van Petten, Lloyd Haynes, Sigle Burdette, A. G. Womack, Robert Jarvis, Clark Lewis, Eugene Campbell, R. B. Anderson, Lee Byrd, Vernon Vande Linde.

Albert Moore Gets Two Terms In Killing Case

Frostburg Woman One Of Two Slain In July

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Albert Stark Moore, 30, has pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying of Joseph Blaney and Mrs. Margaret Lease Miller and sentenced to two terms of from 5 to 18 years each.

Blaney was bludgeoned to death with an oar wielded by Moore on the bank of the Monongahela River near Uffington last July 8 and Mrs. Miller was drowned at the same spot because she had witnessed the Blaney slaying.

Mrs. Miller, a former resident of Frostburg, was buried at Frostburg.

Moore, who lived in a cabin near one used by Blaney for fishing trips, had previously entered pleas of not guilty to the two indictments on the separate murder charges. He changed his pleas when the state agreed to second degree murder on each indictment.

According to the state's agreement Moore accepted sentences that are to run one after the other, not concurrently, and it was explained to him by Judge Charles G. Baker that he was accepting a sentence that would mean virtual life imprisonment. He indicated he understood and the sentences were imposed without recommendation for parole. The second sentence will begin after he has served the full 18 years of the first.

The bodies of Blaney, a grocer, and Mrs. Miller, a house maid, were found after Blaney's overturned fishing boat was sighted in the river, and it was first believed they had drowned accidentally. An autopsy, however, disclosed Blaney had been beaten to death and that Mrs. Miller had been drowned.

Moore was arrested two days after the discovery and confessed to county police that he had killed the couple. He said in his statement, that he had done some work on Blaney's cabin and had gone there to finish the work and collect his pay. He and Blaney argued, traded blows, and then Moore struck the grocer with the boat oar.

Mrs. Miller tried to intervene, Moore confessed, and he threw her into the river knowing that she could not swim. Blaney's body was then put into the river and Moore said he turned the boat over to make it appear as though the deaths were accidental.

IOOF Official Visits Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va.—Edward T. Davis, Wierton, grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of West Virginia, was a visitor for two days this week in Keyser.

He attended a meeting of Queen's Point Lodge, where he was guest speaker. He discussed work being done at the Odd Fellows Home in Elkins, and drew attention to financial needs of that institution, where a number of aged members of the order and orphans of deceased members are cared for.

Davis was elected to the post of grand master at the annual convention in Huntington last month, and will make visits to all parts of the state.

In speaking of the home at Elkins, the grand master said there are 50 residents in the home, including small children.

He said the endowment fund for the home exceeds a mililon dollars. It is set up so that only the interest and profits from investments may be used for current maintenance expenses and other expenses do not figure in the original investment. Due to this, he said, other means must be found to raise funds with which to make repairs and improvements that are now needed.

Davis has been visiting Eastern Panhandle counties in the past week.

Dailey Nordeck Dies In Truck Wreck

KINGWOOD, W. Va. — Winter weather claimed its first victim of the season in this section last night when Dailey Edwin Nordeck, 42, Terra Alta, a timber truck driver, ran off a secondary road on top of Briery mountain in Preston county during a snow storm and was killed.

State Trooper W. L. Pike of the Kingwood detachment, who investigated, said Nordeck apparently missed the road in the snow. About one-half inch of snow covered the highway, Pike said.

The wreck, which occurred near the home of Harry Spahr, was discovered by Roy Spahr, R. F. D. 4, Terra Alta. Spahr reported to the officer that Nordeck was dead when he found him.

The heavy timber truck left the road and plunged over a steep embankment, turning over three times, the trooper said. It came to rest about 175 feet from the road, and the driver had been thrown about 40 feet further down the slope, Pike stated.

Surviving are the parents, Earl Nordeck, Morgantown, and Eva Nordeck, Terra Alta; two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Vought and Jean Nordeck, Terra Alta; two sisters, Mrs. Kathleen Frezee, Masontown, W. Va., and Mrs. Eva Davis of Oakland, Md.

Land Purchased For State Forest

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 22 (AP) — The West Virginia Conservation Commission today authorized purchase of about 20,000 acres for a new state forest in Berkeley and Morgan Counties.

Acting at a special meeting, it also accepted a proposal to take over from the U. S. Forest Service a federal tree nursery at Parsons. The nursery is to be operated under a 15-year lease.

Land for the new state forest will be purchased for $35,000 from the Farmers Bank of Pittsburgh which has owned it since 1909. The commission was informed the bank wants to sell the property now as a preliminary to a merger with the Mellon National Bank in Pittsburgh.

The tract is about 18 miles long and from three to four miles wide. It includes two mountains and the intervening valley, through which flows Meadow Branch. Conservation Director C. F. McClintic emphasized that the land was bought for less than $2 an acre, including all mineral rights.

Commission representatives said the land had good wild turkey and other game possibilities, and that some deer now are on the land.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Boy Gets Money From Neighbors For Bike

John "Jack" DeRosa, 229 Water Street, who was the victim of a "meanest thief" some days ago, will soon have a new bicycle.

The bike was stolen and several days later found back of the Central YMCA, the place from where it was stolen. However, it was wrecked and stripped.

Residents started a fund for the boy and today he has $40, enough to purchase a new bicycle.

Young DeRosa, a student at LaSalle High School, has an artificial leg. His father, John DeRosa, Sr., was killed in action during World War II.

Who Won? Winner Will Know In December

NEW YORK, (AP)—The winner of the Wanamaker Mile race at the 1950 Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden will not be decided until the national AAU convention in Washington, D. C., in December—nearly a year after the race was run.

Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin and Fred Wilt of the New York A. C. breasted the tape in a virtual dead heat when the race was held last January. First the judges awarded the decision to Gehrman, but the local AAU body decided that the judging procedure was incorrect and gave the win to Wilt.

Finally, the problem of "who won" was thrown in the lap of the national AAU convention, and that group will decide whether Gehrmann or Wilt came home first.

Cheering For Brother Costs Player $100 Fine

DETROIT — (AP) — Gil Johnson, quarterback with the Detroit Lions football team, learned the expensive way that blood is thicker than water. Johnson, former SMU star who played with the New York Yankees in 1949, has a brother, Bill Johnson, with the San Francisco '49ers.

"I was riding the bench when Bill intercepted a Yankee pass and ran for a touchdown," Gil recounts. "I automatically stood up and cheered my older brother. The Yankee coach acted automatically, too. He fined me a hundred dollars for what he said was 'fraternizing' on my part."

He Boots 47 Straight, Buckles Under Pressure

With Dane Graves holding, the sophomore toed 47 consecutive true balls from various angles. On the 48th, he failed, prompting guard Bryce Zarit to comment:

"He buckles under pressure."

Twirling King

Scoreboard Clock Time Hand Broken

It was announced last night that the red second hand of the scoreboard clock located on the Fort Hill school building at the local stadium has been broken and will not be in operation during today's Thanksgiving Day football classic between Fort Hill and Allegany.

The down and score lights will be in operation officials stated.

Staley Retires After 21 Years As Grid Official

Potomac Valley Group Re-elects Shelton

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 22—Daniel R. Staley, veteran football coach and game official, announced at the annual dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Officials' Association Tuesday at the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, that he was concluding 21 years' activity in the sport.

Staley told the group that he made his decision after long thought. A native of Frederick county, Md., where he was born on a farm, Staley began his career as an official-coach 21 years ago in Pennsylvania. After coaching at several schools in the Keystone State he turned to officiating. He once taught school in Mt. Savage, went to Pennsylvania to coach and later served as manager of the Cumberland office of the Maryland Unemployment Service. At the present time he is personnel manager of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant at Luke, Md.

In announcing his retirement, Staley stated that football officiating has come a long way since he started officiating and added that the game is better because officiating is better.

Don Phillips, head coach of Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va., said that he, too, has seen a vast improvement in officiating, especially in the past two years. He expressed the belief that there are too many officials who want to be referees and added that more good umpires are needed as they are the men who are closest to the players and the plays.

John Shelton was reelected president of the association and John A. Blough was named secretary-treasurer. The vice-presidency, an honorary post, was given to Dan Staley for the coming year.

A "bull session" was held during which questions and answers were featured. Participating in this session were: Dana G. "Horse" Lough, William Hahn, Eck Miers, Bobby Cavanaugh, Edward Milbrada, Fred "Tack" Clark, Richard "Dick" McIlwee, Charles "Shack" Bolyard, Brother Joseph, LaSalle High School; John J. Blough, Johnny Paugh, Jim Gaffney and Dan Staley.

Others who were in attendance were: Ralph D. Basilio, Robert E. Pence, Jonathan Paugh, Eck Miers, G. R. Hawkins, Hurbert J. Feeney, James T. Gaffney, John Angellatta, Carl E. Diehl, William B. Orndorff, C. William Spangler, John Barger and W. A. "Mike" Wenner.

Ed Sadowski of the Baltimore Bullets, a veteran of 10 years of pro basketball play, has been placed on the retirement list by the Bullets.

Tom Henrich Plans Broadcasting Stint

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — The New York Yankees said today that there is a possibility that outfielder-first baseman Tommy Henrich may assist in the broadcast of Yankee baseball games next year.

Yankee publicity director Red Paterson pointed out, however, that the subject had just reached the "conversation stage."

Henrich, who was signed by the Yanks as a free agent in 1936, saw limited service last year because of a bad knee.

Sanctioned Little Baseball Leagues now are operating in 28 states and total 302. The players must be between the ages of eight and 12.

Vols Accept Bid To Cotton Bowl

DALLAS, Nov. 22 (AP)—Tennessee tonight was selected to play Texas in the Cotton Bowl January 1.

Tennessee, coached by Bob Neyland, a former Texas A. and M. football player, has won eight of nine games this season and has two to play—against Kentucky Nov. 25 and Vanderbilt Dec. 2.

The lone loss was 7-0 to Mississippi State early in the season.

Texas, champion of the Southwest Conference, has won seven out of eight games with two to play—Texas A. and M. Nov. 30 and Louisiana State Dec. 9. The lone loss was 14-13 to Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team.

Georgia To Play In "Cup" Contest

Signs To Meet Texas A. & M. Dec. 9

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—Touchdown-Happy Texas A. and M. and defense-minded Georgia will meet in the Presidential Cup football game Dec. 9.

Representatives of the two schools today signed a contract with the American Legion, sponsors of the game. It will be played in the University of Maryland stadium in suburban College Park, Md.

Texas A. and M. won six games and lost three, all by close margins. It bowed to Oklahoma, 34-28; to Baylor, 27-20, and to Rice, 21-13. It still has one game to play—and a big one it is — against Texas on Nov. 30.

Georgia has won five games, tied three and lost one, to Alabama, 14 to 7. It has two games left, and at least one could be exceedingly rough. Georgia plays Furman Nov. 25 and then meets Georgia Tech in one of those traditional dog-eat-dog affairs on Dec. 2.

Both teams are better than one might guess from a quick look at their records.

Texas A. and M. was nudged out in the final two minutes by Oklahoma, now rated the No. 1 team in the nation in the Associated Press poll.

Wadiak Sets New Grid Rushing Mark

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 22 (AP) — Steve Wadiak, University of South Carolina halfback, has set a new Southern Conference football rushing record, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau announced today.

Wadiak's 972 yards on 147 rushes so far this season have sent him past the 943 total of North Carolina's Charlie Justice during his great 1946 season, bureau records showed.

With one game remaining against Wake Forest Saturday, Wadiak, leading his nearest rival for conference rushing honors by more than 200 yards, stands a good chance of going beyond the 1,000-yard mark.

Penn Lineman Voted The Best

Bernie Lemonick Is Star Against Badgers

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — For his outstanding role in crushing Wisconsin's attack on Saturday at Philadelphia, Bernie Lemonick, 200-pound defensive left guard of the Penn Quakers, has been chosen as the Associated Press' lineman of the week.

In all, 34 of the up-front huskies were nominated for the honor by the nation's sportswriters and radiocasters, but Lemonick's striking performance in the key intersectional game won him the heaviest support.

The two who pressed Lemonick hardest for the week's laurels were Elmer Costa of North Carolina State, a tackle, and Bobbie Ward of Maryland, a guard. Each received four nominations from Southern experts.

Another Southern bulwark who received strong backing was Bill (Pug) Pearman, Tennessee's rugged tackle. Three press box observers extolled his "vicious" tackling against Mississippi and gave him most of the credit for stopping John Dottley, Old Miss' great runner.

Other linemen who received lavish praise included center Irving Hollash, of North Carolina for his brilliant defense play in the Tar Heels' 14-7 victory over South Carolina, and Paul Giroski, Rice tackle, for his all-around excellence in the Owls' upset of the Texas Aggies.

Culmone Boosts Lead Over Rival

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — Joe Culmone took the lead over Willie Shoemaker in their battle for 1950 jockey honors by riding a triple today at Bowie.

This gave Culmone 336 victories for the season compared to 333 for Shoemaker who was blanked in the first six races at Hollywood.

Five years have elapsed since a football team from Allegany High School gained the verdict over a gridiron aggregation from Fort Hill. Today the Blue and White and the Scarlet and White come to grips for the 15th straight year in a Thanksgivig Day contest and the undefeated and unbeaten eleven coached by William P. Hahn has been installed as the favorite by two or three touchdowns.

With LaSalle eliminated from the running, the winner of today's game will be recognized as the city champion.

Sentinels Won 16 In Row

On the eve of the game here were some of the questions the fans were asking:

1. Can AHS crack the Sentinels' winning streak of 16 games that began early in the 1949 season?
2. Will the Sentinels become Cumberland's first undefeated and untied grid team since the AHS eleven of 1942?
3. The biggest victory margin in this series is 25 points. Can Fort Hill's powerhouse which bumped off teams like Washington and Lee (Arlington), Martinsburg, Hagerstown and Bedford by comfortable margins whip AHS by more than 25 points?
4. Could this be Bob Pence's year? His teams have never won a Turkey Day game and his 1948 eleven got a 6-6 draw.

Fort Hill goes into the final battle of the season with an 8-0 record. The Campers have won 7 and lost 2. Both schools whipped Martinsburg, Keyser, LaSalle and Ridgeley. Hagerstown trimmed AHS 12-6 while Fort Hill downed the Hubs, 20-7.

Game Off Air Lanes

The game promises to attract about 7,000 persons to the stadium. The opening kickoff is set for 2 o'clock. There will be no radio broadcast as in recent years.

General admission tickets for standing room will go on sale at the stadium this morning.

Each team moves into the battle with 11 seniors who will either play or sit out their final high school grid game.

Allegany students and rooters will occupy the concrete stand on the west side of the stadium while the wooden stands on the east side of the field have been reserved for Fort Hill.

Fort Hill's co-captains are Kenneth Owens and Eddie Landis while three captains, namely, Kenneth "Mike" Birmingham, Don "Elbie" Fletcher and Ronnie Chapman will captain the Campers.

Allegany will sport blue jerseys and the Hilltoppers will don white.

The Officials

Officials for the contest are Newton Anderson, assistant principal at Buckhannon (W.Va.) High School, referee; Fred P. "Chick" Weihl, principal of Weston (W.Va.) High School, umpire; Hank Mazza, Clarksburg (W.Va.) high school coach, head linesman, and Dr. Louis J. Wojcihovski, coach at Mt. St. Joseph's, Baltimore, field judge. Weihl and Anderson will be working the local classic for the fifth consecutive year.

Bands of both schools will participate in the pre-game and half-time ceremonies.

THANKSGIVING

At this time, as our forefathers did, we celebrate Thanksgiving with a deep appreciation for His generosity. But now, as then, we are faced with the necessity of carrying arms to protect ourselves from forces of darkness that threaten to smother the light of liberty. Yet, with faith in Him we are certain that liberty will conquer, as it did then.

Extinguisher Is 2-Length Victor In Bowie Feature

Culmone Rides Two Winners, Ups Total

BOWIE RACETRACK, Md., Nov. 22 (AP)—Extinguisher scored a two and three quarter length victory with Bobby Mitchell in the saddle in Bowie's six-furlong feature claiming race here this afternoon.

Binky B., with Jockey Joe Culmone in the saddle trying for his third triumph of the afternoon, finished second three-fourths of a length ahead of Touch Control.

The winner paid $16.20, $9.40 and $4.80 across the board and covered the three-quarters in 1:12 2/5.

Culmone scored his 334th and 335th victories of the season here today when he brought home His Image in the third race at $7.00 for $2, and True Dream at $8.80 in the sixth event.

Plan Special Race With Top Jockeys

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 22 (AP) — Two of racing's hottest jockeys, Willie Shoemaker and Joe Culmone, may pit their skill against each other in a unique showdown match race here Monday.

L. Ed O'Hara, Bowie general manager, is working on a special race with only two horses to be ridden by Culmone and Shoemaker after the regular eight events.

Shoemaker, tied with Culmone at 333 firsts apiece going into today's races, will fly here Sunday from California to race on Bowie's Monday program. He'll go back immediately to resume riding at Hollywood Park.

The two jockeys, who have broken Johnny Longden's modern record of 319 winners in one year, will be in most of the usual eight races. But O'Hara is trying to make conditions as even as possible in a saddle-to-saddle ninth race between them.

He has instructed Racing Secretary John P. Turner to find two horses rated equal in ability. Shoemaker and Culmone will draw lots to determine who rides which one.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, George H. Emerick, who died three years ago, November 24, 1947.

Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And the ones who think of you today,
Are those who loved you best,
They say time heals all sorrows,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proven
How much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose him,
No one will ever know.
Three long years have slowly passed,
Since we were forced to part,
But time and space can not erase,
Your memory from our hearts.

Sadly missed by his wife and children,
MRS. GEORGE H. EMERICK

BERGMAN—In loving memory of my dear husband, George, who passed away twenty years ago, November, 1930.

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.

Loving Wife Elizabeth and Children

Firemen Travel Four Miles To Blaze

Alvin Uplinger, who drove two other members of Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Department some four miles in response to an alarm at the dump on Oldtown Road about 5 p. m. yesterday, learned that the fire was out when they reached their destination.

A bulldozer at the dump had caught fire, Uplinger said. Persons near the scene had extinguished the flames, caused by an overheated motor, with a hand extinguisher, the volunteer fireman stated. He was not certain how Bowman's Addition firemen were called on the fire.

Uplinger also reported that the long run also cost the department an Indian pump, valued at some $25. He requests that the person who found it at the dump return it to the department.

Republicans To Seek Tax Directive Change

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP) — The outnumbered Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee said today they are going to ask Congress next week to broaden the wording of its instructions to prepare a new tax bill.

The present directive is: Write an excess profits tax on corporations, period.

The Republicans — backed almost solidly by businessmen — want the instructions changed so that the committee also could consider a "corporate defense profits tax," which in effect would amount to a straight percentage increase in the present corporate tax rates.

During the seven days of hearings which ended today the 15 Democrats on the committee repeatedly have overridden the 10 Republicans and refused to receive testimony about any other tax than one on excess profits. The Democrats say that is what Congress ordered.

Developments in Asia and Africa particularly will be noted, an aide to Stassen said today. The University of Pennsylvania president has not included Russia on his five-week trip by air.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Does "forgetting faces" mean you are self-centered?

Answer: It means first of all that you don't really look at people. For what you see clearly you cannot help but remember. You may be afraid to look for various unconscious reasons like a childish feeling that if you do, other people will "see through you." But you are most likely not to look at someone you meet because you are so much wrapped up in your own desires and problems that no one else greatly interests you. People resent being forgotten because they sense that it means you did not bother noticing them.

Should a girl who hates men marry?

Answer: As a rule, no, even though she finds one man who, she believes, is "different from all the others." For either he will be no real man, in which case the woman in her will eventually suffer from frustration, or—more probably—she will find that the supposed difference was imaginary and transfer her sex hostility to a partner whose only real fault is maleness. She'll interpret his efforts to share normal satisfactions with her as proof of the desire to exploit her for his pleasure which she was taught to look for.

Is creative art good for mental patients?

Answer: Yes, writes Mary Huntoon in the Bulletin of the Menninger Clinic, reporting on the experience of more than 1000 patients at the Winter V. A. Hospital who were sent to the art shop by their physicians. The most benefit was felt by those whose doctors visited the studio and helped them "integrate" their efforts. In creative art, the patients see their repressed wishes come true, gain a sense of competence that makes reality seem easier to face, release inner tensions, and learn to see their problems objectively.

Cumberland Set For Observance Of Thanksgiving

Holiday Travel Takes Upturn

Thanksgiving Day in Cumberland will be marked with numerous church services, the traditional football classic between Allegany and Fort Hill High Schools, and big turkey dinners at home.

All business places and state, county and city offices will be closed for the day. School children are enjoying a long weekend holiday.

State Police reported that traffic is expected to get heavier this morning as motorists start out to spend Thanksgiving with relatives in distant places.

Highways were clear last night but the weatherman predicts mostly cloudy and rather cold weather today with the possibility of rain in the late afternoon.

Bus and railroad travel was taking its anticipated holiday upturn last night. Blue Ridge officials reported extra sections on both east and westbound buses last night, but no extra sections were added to Baltimore and Ohio trains.

Traffic was equally heavy both east and west, officials said.

Food Distributed

Cheery Thanksgiving baskets of food were distributed to 52 families yesterday afternoon by the Associated Charities. A city truck collected the baskets and took them to the various homes. Articles of food were donated by students at Allegany and Fort Hill, the Girl Scouts and several local churches.

Maj. Elmer Wall said the Salvation Army answered several emergency calls for grocery orders but that baskets were not distributed by that agency on a large scale.

The Salvation Army also will mark Thanksgiving with a special service tonight at 7:45 at the Virginia Avenue Outpost, with Maj. Wall officiating.

Services of thanksgiving will be held at many area churches throughout the day.

A special service is planned at 10:30 this morning at St. Philip's Episcopal Chapel, with Morning Prayer and Holy Communion.

A community Thanksgiving service will be held at Park Place Methodist Church, Narrows Park, at 10 a.m., with Rev. Charles E. Shaw, pastor, preaching from the text of Psalm 147:30 "He hath not dealt so with any nation, and as for his judgments they have not known them. Praise ye the Lord." Special music will be presented by the choirs.

At 9:30 a.m. Rev. Donald F. Brake, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, will speak to his congregation on "Growth in Gratitude." The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Robert H. Mann, will sing.

Rev. M. A. Keesecker will have as his sermon topic at Kingsley Methodist Church "Our Response to God For His Benefits Toward Us." The Youth Choir will sing "Song of Peace," by Lloyd Stone, and the Senior Choir will present "Rejoice, Give Thanks," by Fred B. Holton.

The Thanksgiving program at Central Methodist Church will begin at 10:45 a.m. with organ music by Miss Virginia Fatkin, "Ode to Thanksgiving," by Beethoven, "Trust," by Groetzinger, and "A Hymn of Thanksgiving," by Wilson. Who's Gonna Win Today?

That was the question uppermost in the mind of every Fort Hill and Allegany High School student as each school held assemblies and pep rallies yesterday, getting set for the big Turkey Day football clash today. The upper picture shows Allegany girls striking a fighting pose in the spirit of their slogan, "Fight, Alco, Fight!" The poster at the school shows an Allegany player knocking out a hapless Sentinel team member. Kneeling are Marlene Taylor (left) and Patsy Minke. Standing (same order) are Beverly Bruce, Helen Yoder and Franny Reynolds. The lower picture was taken during a skit presented at the Fort Hill assembly yesterday. Acted out in pantomime, the skit was a takeoff on the "Allegany Campers," as can be seen by the makeshift tent with a large "A" tacked on it. The bewildered expressions are supposed to be those worn by the Campers facing the prospect of meeting Fort Hill.

MYF Collects $700 In Food For Boys Home

Approximately 3,000 cans of canned food, valued at $700, was collected by the Cumberland Sub-District Methodist Youth Fellowship at its annual Booth Festival held at Grace Methodist Church.

The food is being sent to the Strawbridge Home for Boys, Sykesville.

Blue and gold ribbons, the MYF colors, were awarded various booths. Centre Street Church won for having the most food quantity; Barton Church, for originality of the booth; and Park Place Church for best carrying out of the theme, "God Our Maker Doth Provide."

Judges were Rev. A. B. L. Fisher, Rev. Kenneth Grove and Rev. M. A. Keesecker.

Churches represented by members and food were, Central, Centre Street, Trinity, Bedford Circuit, Grace, Cumberland, Cresaptown, LaVale, Dawson, Frostburg, Barton, Eckhart, Paw Paw, Park Place, Midland-Shaft, Mt. Savage and Union Grove.

The next district rally will be held in Mt. Savage Church in December.

Potomac Park Planning Another Christmas Party

It is planned that Miss Dorothy Willison will bring her choral group from Allegany High School for the entertainment. An instrumental unit also will be there. Climaxing the activities will be treats for all the children.

At the Tuesday night meeting the association voted to show its appreciation to the church by purchasing a basketball for use by the church team.

Members of the Potomac Park group will go to Canaan Valley, W. Va., Sunday, December 3, to obtain the 35 foot community Christmas tree. This will be erected beside the church along McMullen Highway.

Serving on the committee for the Yule program are John Kochis, Charles Nicodemus, Alex Monnett, Garland Paxton, Horace Mills, Bernard Coulehan, Russell Robeson, Bernard McKenzie, Robert A. Haines, Charles Wills, Bruce Thompson, Edward Brookman, Mrs. Joseph Mooney, Mrs. Bruce Thompson, Mrs. Harold Turner, Mrs. Glenn Devine, Mrs. Melvin Dean, Mrs Norman VanMeter, Mrs. John Clower, Mrs. Cecil Warnick and Mrs. Lee Roy.

The volunteers are asked to meet Monday not later than 5:45 p. m. at the parking lot at the Market Street bridge, where they will draw costumes and assignments to floats.

Opening exercises were held in the morning, after which a panel discussion on "The World Situation Today," was held with five professors of the faculty participating.

After luncheon Dr. H. C. Byrd addressed the group on "Your State University."

Rec Club Plans "Victory Dance"

Annual "Victory Dance" will be held tonight by the Rec Club at Central YMCA from 9 to 11:45 with music by Jimmy Andrews orchestra.

Payroll Savings Campaign To Be Started Here

Workers In County Will Be Urged To Buy Bonds

As the first step toward expanding sales of Savings Bonds to meet the economic situation created by the stepped-up national defense program, a campaign to increase bond buying through the Payroll Savings Plan will be conducted in business and industry here beginning this month, according to Lynn C. Lashley, acting chairman of the drive in Allegany County.

The campaign, which will be part of a nation-wide promotion starting this month, will have two goals, Lashley said: to get firms that do not now offer the Payroll Savings Plan to their employes to install it, and to endeavor, through company promotions in which management and workers join, to sign up a minimum of 50 per cent of employes in all companies.

"Bond savings help relieve immediate pressure on prices," Lashley added. "Bond sales reduce the need of the Treasury to borrow from the banking system which can only create more inflationary pressure, present and future. The bond buyer thus makes his dollars do double duty against inflation, and double service to himself, now and in the future."

Students Plan Gay Operetta

An operetta, "Cinderella's Slipper" will be presented by the Music Department of Cresaptown School under the sponsorship of the elementary teachers, November 30 and December 1. It will be given at the school beginning at 7:00 p. m. in three acts.

Principal characters include, Cinderella, portrayed by Margaret Wilson; her step-mother, Janice Phillips; Charlotte, Nancy Ellen Luzier; Javotte, Nancy Reed; the Fairy Godmother, Dora Jean Shaffer; the Prince, Fred Yoder.

Others will be a peddler, Adrian Knippenberg; the Lord High Chamberlin, Roger Anderson; the herolds, William Cline and Gary Emmart; Thimble Bonnet, Faye Keiser and James Twigg; guards, Donald Ware, Boyd Dawson; ladies in waiting, Barbara Dawson and Lois Lee.

Each elementary group is participating in either dancing or group singing.

Miss Lois Stein is director.

Pilgrims Would Be Delighted With Modern Thanksgiving Feast

The Pilgrims who celebrated the first Thanksgiving in 1821 would be delighted, but somewhat surprised at today's traditional Thanksgiving dinners.

For scholars have learned that the bill of fare for that first three-day Thanksgiving celebration included chiefly venison, roast ducks and geese, clams, shellfish and eels.

These main dishes were supplemented with white and corn bread, leeks, watercress, wild plums and dried berries.

Wine, made from wild grapes, which the Pilgrims termed "sweet and strong" accompanied the feasts.

Wild turkeys undoubtedly appeared on the bill of fare, but records fail to prove the fact.

Cranberries, part of every good Thanksgiving dinner, were available, historians report, but add there is doubt that the Pilgrims at that time had learned to use them.

There is considerable doubt, too, that pumpkin pie was served on that first Thanksgiving, although it soon gained a permanent place in America's Thanksgiving dinner.

The three-day celebration was observed in October during a spell of Indian summer.

Records also hint at the fact that the feast would have turned into pretty slim pickings had not a few of Massasoit's 90 braves, who were invited to the feast, gone into the woods to bag five deer to add to the bill of fare.

The celebration was not all devoted to eating, however, as Captain Miles Standish staged an elaborate military review, while games of skill and chance helped to enliven the hours.

$12,000 Store Building Is Planned Here

North Centre Site Will Be Used

A permit for a new store building estimated to cost $12,000 and to be located on North Centre Street at the site of the 1941 explosion was granted yesterday in the city engineer's office.

Owners of the property, located at 18-20-22 North Centre Street, were listed as David and Jules Kaufman, 114 East 23rd Street, New York City.

Work will be done by the Frater Realty and Construction Company, of the New York address, with a local contract to be let.

M. P. Rayburn, New York, architect for the project, applied for the permit.

Rayburn said the new one-story building will be designed to house three stores. The space will be rented but identity of the occupants was not disclosed.

The building will be located on the site of the parking lot now operated by William B. Kaldor adjacent to his photography studio.

It will be constructed on two lots having a frontage of about 39 feet on North Centre Street and a depth of slightly over 60 feet.

The disastrous 1941 explosion wrecked three store buildings on the site, which was partially built up again recently. A new building was erected to house the Strand Liquor Store, Heinrich and Jenkins Store and Hauger's Jewelry Store.

The new Kaufman building will connect with the present structure by using the wall of Hauger's Store as its lower wall.

On the upper end the new store building will extend against the wall of Kaldor's Studio.

Rayburn said the Kaufmans purchased the property from the Wilson estate within the past 30 days. Purchase price was not disclosed.

Work will start as soon as the contract is let, Rayburn said. If necessary materials are available, construction should be completed in about 60 or 75 days from the start of the work.

The concrete block building will measure 38.88 by 56 feet, with a 12-inch concrete foundation and built-up roofing over steel, if the latter is available.

Plans were furnished by C. L. Herath, this city.

The parking lot has been operated at the site for about a year. Prior to that time Christmas trees were sold on the vacant lots each year, with no other business operated there since 1941.

A. M. Jack obtained a permit yesterday to build a two-story garage, with one apartment on the second floor, at Lots 20-21-22, St. Mary's Avenue, on the rear of the lots.

The concrete block and inselbrick building will measure 20 by 30 feet, with a ruberoid shingle roof. Work will be done by Harry Whisner from plans drawn by the Allegany Trades School. Estimated cost is $3,800.

A 17-year-old boy received critical head injuries when his car crashed through a fence and overturned three or four times on State Route 28 in Ridgeley, W. Va.

The accident occurred at 3:30 p. m. and he was listed as being in critical condition late last night by hospital attaches.
